ESCAPES SHERIFF IN HER AEROPLANE

Matilde Moisant Takes to the Air Before He Can Arrest Her.

RIOTS AT AVIATION FIELD

Friends Go to Her Defense and Rout the Sheriff and His Deputies in a Fight.

Matilde Moisant, who became America's most notable woman flier after seeing her brother, the late John B. Moisant, make his celebrated flight around the Statue of Liberty, narrowly missed being thrown into jail yesterday in Nassau County for going into the air in her monoplane on Sunday, although there was no inducement in the form of gate money or prizes or spectators to applaud her.

That Miss Moisant was not put in a cell was due in the first attempt to arrest her entirely to her own celerity in speeding into an element into which pursuing Deputy Sheriffs could not follow her. In a second attempt, made after she had brought her aeroplane to earth on her own private property, her escape was due to friends in automobiles, who whisked her away from the Sheriff's forces; and in a third attempt, made on the overhauling of her automobile by a police machine, she escaped because an indignant crowd of 300 citizens beat the deputies back in a riot lasting for nearly half an hour.

The defenders of Miss Moisant fought vigorously, and one of them was felled by a Deputy Sheriff's club. The chauffeur of an automobile into which friends were helping the aviator was smashed across the knuckles. The man felled with the club was Philip Willcox, a student of aviation, who himself is a Deputy Sheriff. He was on the Moisant flying grounds when Miss Moisant attempted to land, and demanded from the pursuing force of deputies that they produce a warrant before invading the premises.

He started the fight the instant the deputies attempted to pass him, and with the aid of others who came to his assistance led a force which finally drove those intent upon placing Miss Moisant under arrest from the private property they had entered. The Sheriff hurried to Hempstead, where he made an effort to obtain from Justice of the Peace Gittins the warrants for the lack of which they had been repulsed.

Couldn't Get a Warrant.

In this Sheriff De Mott failed. Justice Gittins assured him that he would issue no warrant for the primary reason that the offense alleged was a misdemeanor, and the aplication was made after sunset, at which hour he ceased to issue misdemeanor warrants. He added that he could see no wrong in what Miss Moisant had done.

The affair stirred the colony of aviators at Nassau Boulevard and Hempstead Plains to keen resentment. There had been no plan to have flights during the day. Miss Moisant was intent upon removing her aeroplane from the Nassau Boulevard grounds, on which she had flown throughout the recent meet, to her own aviation field, known as the Moisant field, at Hempstead Plains. She decided to fly her aeroplane across the intervening five miles merely because that was the most convenient way to get it across.

The challenge to the aviation colony in the effort to arrest Miss Moisant brought instant response from every flier in the vicinity. From the grounds on which Miss Moisant had alighted, André Houpert went up at once, circling over church spires and speeding 100 feet above the head of Sheriff De Mott while he had his force of deputies in front of Miss Moisant's deserted hangar on the Nassau Boulevard.

Earle Ovington, who is about to start on his coast-to-coast effort as the first aerial postman, went up from a hangar adjoining that of Miss Moisant, and after circling in the air above the Nassau Boulevrd field, alighted and sped away by automobile across the county line. Both aviators went up for the purpose of asserting the rights taken by automobilists and carriage drivers.

The trouble grew out of Sheriff De Mott's interpretation of the long conflict as to Sunday flights, in which Timothy L. Woodruff, Bishop Burgess, Canon Chase, and Gov. Dix played prominent parts.

Although no flights were announced for yesterday, the programme originally scheduled having been postponed for a week on account of rain, Sheriff De Mott was on hand with a force of twenty-[illegible] deputies. No gate money was collected, and while a crowd of about 300 persons had collected they had come from the nearby homes.

The only persons who expected to fly were Miss Moisant, who came in an automobile for the purpose of taking her machine away, and Lieut. Henry H. Arnold, who had made an engagement with Philip Willcox to take him for an aerial jaunt. Ovington had planned to make a flight to Governors Island as the first move in his coast-to-coast effort, but postponed the effort at the request of Mr. Woodruff.

Sheriff Stopped Her.

Miss Moisant was first to have her aeroplane wheeled out on the field, and Sheriff De Mott, whose men were stationed in front of every alternate hangar, immediately approached her. She was togged out in her usual flying costume, which included divided skirts, and she said she hoped he would not arrest her, as she would not like to go to court in that costume.

Miss Moisant urged that he could not arrest her before she had actually committed the offense of flying, and with that the Sheriff agreed. He told her he would arrest her when she landed if she tried to go up, and Miss Moisant replied that as to that it would be a case of catching her—that she proposed to fly.

A mechanician turned the propeller of her monoplane. She raised her arm straight upward and other mechanicians released their hold on the wings. The machine shot upward at a sharp angle, reached a height of 300 feet, and sped directly toward its home grounds, from which Miss Moisant had flown it to Nassau Boulevard at the opening of the Woodruff meet. The journey was distinctly an aerial errand, and Miss Moisant refrained from varying from the direct line of her course in order to keep free from the charge of joy riding or annoyance to Sunday observing folk.

While she flew through the air to Hempstead three of Sheriff De Mott's deputies were breaking the speed laws to reach her home grounds in an automobile. They were J. A. Campbell, D. Drake, and William Delaney. Alfred Moisant, Miss Moisant's brother, who had brought her to Nassau Boulevard in his automobile, started in hot pursuit of the machine carrying the deputies in the hope of passing them and rescuing his sister before they could take her into custody. In this he failed, but his telephone message, which was received by Mr. Kimball on the Moisant grounds, warned him to be ready for trouble.

Got Away in an Auto.

One spectator, Joseph Stephenson, a resident of Queens County, had come to the grounds in an automobile. He volunteered to pick Miss Moisant up in his machine the instant she landed, and if

COLLEGE GIRLS WED WISELY.

Statistics Indicate Only One Divorce in 57 Marriages.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 8.—The alumnae of Smith College have discovered that out of fifty-seven marriages of college girl graduates there is only one divorce.

In striking contrast to this percentage is that disclosed by the investigators who have found that there was one divorce out of every ten or twelve marriages of non-college women.

Not the least impressed with the results of the investigation is Miss Angie C. Chapin, who is now acting Dean of Wellesley.

"College women usually marry late in life," says Dean Chapin. "They know their own minds, and they find happiness."

The Smith College investigators declare that out of eighty-five marriages in which graduates of Smith are the participants there is recorded but a single divorce, making the average extremely low. The average, as shown by the figures among women of other colleges, is not quite so encouraging.

Miss Chapin says:

"I believe that most college women marry somewhere about the age of 23, or perhaps somewhat later than that. You know the course at college carries a girl rather well through the 'childish period'—the period when mere fascination might play so large a part. Once this period is over the girl gains poise and sense; she becomes more serious; she loses the frivolity that many young girls possess, and he feels more acutely the sense of responsibility that every prospective wife and mother should have.

"In the light of the figures that the Smith alumnae have brought forth it seems plainly evident that college training gives a girl that force of character and stability of temperament that makes her look upon divorce as non-existent and undesirable, perhaps unnecessary."

PLAN INSURGENT ORGAN.

Newspaper to be Launched at Chicago with $2,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Prominent insurgents will spend $2,000,000 to start a National organ, according to plans made known to-night. The paper is to be published in Chicago, and the first edition is scheduled to appear about the middle of November.

The most significant part of the plan as disclosed is that it originates from the same people who have been managing the campaign of Senator Robert M. La Follette. The idea is said to have been proposed to insurgents of National note by Walter S. Rogers, a member of the Jones-Merriam managin committee. Mr. Rogers has recently been traveling back and forth across the country seeking the support of leading insurgents to the proposal.

It is denied that the paper is to be made a personal organ for La Follette's boom for the Presidency, but informants admitted that many of his friends who have money and time to spare are supporting the scheme. Other backers of the enterprise are men who subscribed much of the money for the Mayoralty campaign of Charles E. Merriam. It is stated that nearly $500,000 is pledged for the purpose. The newspaper will be incorporated, according to the present plans, at $2,000,000.

Who the editors will be and the names of the financial backers are not disclosed. Overtures have been made to the publishers of one or two Chicago papers to get them to sell their properties, but have met with little or no success.

McNAMARA'S DEFENSE READY

Will Try to Disprove That Dynamite Wrecked Newspaper Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 8.—The attorneys for the McNamara brothers, charged with dynamiting The Los Angeles Times Building, have engaged John Birmingham, Jr., an authority on explosives, to testify for the defense.

Birmingham was for several years in the employ of the so-called Powder Trust, the Du Pont Powder Company, and has been connected with the Giant Powder Company of San Francisco, the concern where James W. McNamara is said to have obtained the dynamite that destroyed The Times Building.

The defense has been quietly working for weeks making tests of the action of dynamite on various substances. This fact became known to-day. At the same time it became known that the defense proposes to fight desperately any attempt to introduce evidence of other explosions in different parts of the country and will bend every energy toward breaking down the contention of the prosecution that the Times Building was destroyed by dynamite.

The first court proceeding connected directly with the trial will come in the morning, when a venire of 160 men will answer the rollcall. From these the first jurors will be chosen.

A ROOSEVELT PILOT ON OHIO.

Centennial Marks Voyage of Steamer Built by Colonel's Kinsman.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Oct. 8.—A Roosevelt honeymoon will figure in the Ohio River Centennial in Pittsburgh this month. Historians to-day revealed the fact that it was the honeymoon visit of Col. Roosevelt's great-uncle, Nicholas Roosevelt, that brought him to Pittsburgh to build the New Orleans, the first steamboat operated on the Ohio River.

That was in October, 1811, and Nicholas Roosevelt at the time was associated with the firm of Livingston, Fulton & Roosevelt, pioneer steam navigators, who built the Clermont on the Hudson, and then decided that steam navigation on the Western rivers might prove profitable.

A new New Orleans, built as nearly as possible like the original, has been constructed in Pittsburgh, and will steam out of the city Oct. 31. It is probable that several bridal parties will be aboard. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, daughter of Col. Roosevelt, will name the boat. The New Orleans will steam all the way to the Gulf, just as her pioneer predecessor did under the piloting of Nicholas Roosevelt.

BAY STATE DEMOCRAT BOLTS

H. M. Whitney Will Support Republicans in State Campaign.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Henry M. Whitney, Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in 1907, came out with a statement to-night in which he announced that he will stand with the Republican Party during the State campaign now on. Mr. Whitney said:

"To my mind there is one issue which transcends in importance to the people of Massachusetts all the other issues combined, and that is the tariff issue.

"On this question my views are, and long have been, in accord with those now adopted by President Taft and the Republicans of Massachusetts, and I am committed to stand with them in the present campaign."

ONE KILLED, 27 HURT BY TRAIN WRECKERS

Central of Georgia Express is Thrown Over Embankment by Spikes in Rail Joints.

AN ILLINOIS CENTRAL ROAD

Gov. Noel's Arbitration Plan Makes Little Progress in Railroad Strike—New Orleans Strikers Meet.

Special to The New York Times.

BUCHANAN, Ga., Oct. 8.—One woman was killed, two mortally injured, and twenty-five other persons seriously hurt when the southbound Central of Georgia passenger train was derailed near here this morning. Engineer Samuel Ayers was crushed under his engine and killed. Fireman William Solmon and Conductor Littleton will die of their injuries.

Wreckers are responsible for the derailing of the train. They drove spikes between the joints of the rails, and when the train, running rapidly, struck the obstructions it left the track and went down an embankment.

The bravery of Engineer Ayers saved the lives of scores of passengers. When the engineman felt his engine jump the track he applied the brakes, and stayed at his post till his engine turned over, burying him and his fireman beneath tons of twisted steel and iron. The train was running forty miles an hour when the engine left the rails. The mail and express car followed, and was smashed into kindling wood.

The coaches, with a heavy passenger list, were piled along the track, many of the occupants being injured.

The Georgia Central is owned by the Illinois Central, and the former employes are on strike. A Sheriff's posse with bloodhounds is on the trail of the wreckers.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 8.—Violence continues on the Georgia & Florida Railroad, although the strike of the firemen was settled on Saturday, the road granting the demands of the strikers for an increase in pay.

To-day incendiaries fired a 200-foot trestle over a creek, about thirty miles from Augusta. The structure was completely destroyed. A crowded passenger train was saved from plunging into the creek by a negro, who ran several hundred yards to warn the engineer.

It is believed the trestle was fired by strike sympathizers in the country who had not heard that the trouble had been settled.

The road has offered a large reward for the arrest of the incendiaries. The United States Marshal and his deputies are also investigating, as the Federal Court has granted an injunction restraining persons from molesting the property of the road.

EXPECT STRIKE SETTLEMENT.

Paducah Employes of Illinois Central Say Rolling Stock Needs Repair.

Special to The New York Times.

PADUCAH, Ky., Oct. 8.—At union headquarters to-day it was stated that the Illinois Central was expected to make overtures to the men by the latter part of the week for a settlement. The men say that nearly all the company's engines are leaking and that engines are being run clear through to destinations without change. The men assert that the rolling stock is also in bad repair.

The federated employes here sent a resolution to Mayor James P. Smith and the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners asking them to remove the twenty extra policemen sworn in last week to protect Illinois Central property and the strikebreakers, asserting they are unnecessary. Their contention is that the union men have been peaceable and will continue to act in an orderly manner, therefore the extra policemen are not needed and are an unnecessary expense on the citizens of Paducah.

Notices have been posted at the shops by Master Mechanic Joe Walker, instructing the strikebreakers to obey the company's rules, to report for meals at proper time, and to remain at their work. Many of the strikebreakers have been doing little or no work.

The blanket injunction issued against the strikers by Federal Judge Walter Evans was posted at the shops to-day.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Quiet prevailed to-day in the strike of shop workers on the Illinois Central and other Harriman railroads, according to the announcements of railroad officials to-night. The officials asserted that the men are becoming dissatisfied with the strike. Union leaders, however, maintain that the men are prepared to remain out all Winter if necessary.

"The men are unquestionably dissatisfied with the way the strike was called and its purpose. The boilermakers in one of the Western towns held a meeting Saturday and practically decided to return to work. The machinists at Paducah have sent a telegram to President James O'Connell of their international organization protesting against the strike and declaring that they never had been given an opportunity to vote on the question of becoming members of the system federation.

"Over 75 per cent. of the membership of the local union signed the petition.

"Train movements continue satisfactory, and on the lines west of Chicago the effect of the strike is not felt at all."

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—Five thousand working men gathered on the river front this afternoon in a mass meeting called by Illinois Central strikers and heard Mayor Behrman pledge himself to exercise his "moral right" to compel the railroad company to deport all "undesirables" who may be brought in here to take strikers' places.

"I can't keep these people out under any law," the Mayor said, "but I have a moral right to keep out such as are undesirable or who may become charges upon the community which you workingmen help to support, and I propose to exert that moral right."

Gov. Sanders of Louisiana also addressed the strikers and said he sympathised with them as individuals, but as Governor he had to see that justice was done to both sides.

There was no violence to-day, but the police are investigating the burning of a small Illinois Central warehouse early this morning. The loss was about $15,000.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 8.—President Markham of the Illinois Central Railroad was in Memphis for several hours to-night and continued his journey to Jackson, Miss., where he will confer with Gov. Noel and a committee named by the Governor relative to the strike of Illinois Central clerks and shopmen.

It is stated that the proposed joint conference of committees named by Gov. Hooper of Tennessee and Gov. Noel of Mississippi is not possible at this time.

Mr. Markham will return to Chicago to-morrow night.

FURS ARE YOUR GARB THIS WINTER, LADIES

Drop Suffrage for a Moment and Consider the Decree of Paris, Promulgated Yesterday.

$3,000,000 WORTH ON VIEW

Whole Gowns of Fur, and Muffs with Pockets Big Enough for a Pet Dog or for What Is Left of Your Lord's Fortune.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Despite threatening weather, a large crowd assembled at Longchamps to-day for the biggest Fall race, the Grand Prix Automne.

Apart from the sporting interest, which caused thousands of English people to cross the Channel, the occasion was remarkable for the annual display of feminine Winter fashions. There is no doubt that furs will play a more important part this season than for several years. Even old habitués of the fashionable racecourse were to-day impressed by the spectacular display of magnificent furs, the aggregate value of which was roughly estimated by some authorities at over $3,000,000.

Throughout the paddock there was an unending procession of rich and heavy costumes, in which sable, sealskin, ermine, silver fox, and black fox predominated. Complete costumes of furs were seen for the first time, consisting of separate coat and skirt. One was a magnificent gown of the thickest and softest ermine, the hem being trimmed with tails. One striking creation, which attracted general attention, was a mantle cloak, made of a combination of sealskin and chiffon, the latter inserted in such a way that the white silk and velvet brocade of the gown worn underneath were plainly visible.

White satin gowns were generally worn with black furs, white stockings, and black shoes. Black and white were the predominating colors, although here and there wide cloaks of colored ratine made a diversion. These cloaks, tailor made and all of the same stuff, were trimmed with costly furs, which strangely contrasted with the seeming roughness of the material.

Fur toques of ermine, sealskin, or fox were worn generally, mostly perfectly plain, sometimes trimmed with rich lace or an antique gold or silver buckle.

Muffs, simple and elaborate, appear to be much bigger than last season, many of them made with huge pockets in front to replace the reticule. One was seen made of magnificent silver fox, with a big pocket, in which a small Pekingese dog nestled comfortably.

The race was a disappointment to the comparatively few Americans present, as their favorite, Combourg, owned by F. J. Gould, had given up the struggle long before the arrival of the popular favorite, Alcantara, which was also hopelessly beaten, the victory going to entirely French champions.

FLY IN SWIMMER'S NOSE.

If Friends in a Boat Hadn't Helped He Would Have Drowned.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., Oct. 8.—A fly almost caused the drowning of a young man here this afternoon. Imbedded in his nose, it gave its victim such agony that he sank once, and would probably have lost his life had friends not rescued him.

The youth was Horatio Southgate of 480 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, a grandson of the late Bishop Southgate, long prominent in Long Island ecclesiastical circles. The young man was swimming in Wreck Lead Channel, just back of Long Beach, when a large green fly from the meadow land buzzed over his head. Southgate thought nothing of the incident, spattering water at the insect. It buzzed on persistently, however, and when the youth dived waited for him to reappear.

The channel is forty feet deep where Southgate was swimming, due to the dredging being done for the filling in of the beach. The young man was about 100 yards off shore when the fly settled on his head. Southgate made a slap at it, and the insect was forced into his nose. The young man then began to tread water and tried to get rid of the pest.

It burrowed deeper up his nostril, and soon tired with the struggle, Southgate sank. A passing boat was hailed by friends of the young man, and when he came to the surface they succeeded in hauling him in. Once safely ashore the fly was quickly removed.

HUNTER SHOOTS HIMSELF.

Allen Was Seeking a Skunk, Which Killed His Poultry.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Oct. 8.—Henry Allen, 44, a scythemaker employed by the Winsted Manufacturing Company, was found dead to-night with the top of his head blown off in the rear of his house on the Torrington road. Medical Examiner W. S. Huldert decided that Allen had accidentally shot himself while hunting for a skunk which had made raids on his poultry.

Mrs. Allen got home from church about 2 o'clock and shortly afterward she heard the report of a gun, but thought little of it as the wood near by is a favorite spot for hunters. When darkness came Mrs. Allen went to neighbors to inquire for him. Searching parties were organized with Allen's son Raymond in one party, which about 7 o'clock discovered Allen's body in the rear of the hennery.

FARLEY WOULD HAVE CATHOLICS IN OFFICE

Archbishop Wants to Know Why One Hasn't Been Elected Governor in 200 Years.

MEMORIAL TO AN EARLY ONE

Gov. Dix Speaks at the Unveiling of a Tablet to Gov. Dongan at St. Peter's Church.

Several thousand persons, crowding Barclay Street from Broadway to Church Street, witnessed the unveiling yesterday afternoon by Gov. Dix of the Col. Thomas Dongan memorial tablet on one of the stone pillars of St. Peter's Barclay Street Church, the oldest Roman Catholic church in New York.

Archbishop Farley, commenting on the fact that Col. Dongan had been the only Catholic Governor of New York, asked whether it wasn't about time that the Catholics be further considered in the disbursement of political power. Although on the programme only for the delivery of the benediction, the Archbishop devoted himself almost wholly to political remarks.

"Where the liberties of a people are committed to a Catholic their liberties are safer than when committed to any other individual," the Archbishop said. "Now, I am not going to make a political speech. I never did. But I would be derelict if I were not to draw attention to this lesson from the career of the first Catholic Governor of New York—Colonial, it is true; but we have never had another.

"Why is it that we have never had a Catholic Mayor until within our own memory? And when he was presented to the people as a candidate I have no doubt many of you remember what a time the newspapers had over it and the attacks that were made upon the Church, the assertions that our institutions were in jeopardy, and other falsehoods. He was elected, but by a very small majority. And yet he made such a success of his administration that he was reelected by a very large majority, and he quit office leaving behind him a record such as has been made by no other Mayor of New York, before or since."

Referred to Mayor Grace.

The Archbishop later said he had in mind Mayor William R. Grace.

"Why not try a Catholic Governor of New York again?" the Archbishop continued. "If Gov. Dongan set the pace for the entire country in so many things, if his spirit frames the charter of New York to-day, as it does, and frames also the fundamental features of the Governments of most of the English colonial possessions of to-day, why should we not intrust to a Catholic Governor the affairs of the State of New York some day?"

These remarks came as a decided surprise to the hearers, it was clear to see, and were met with long and continued applause. They came at the conclusion of the set speeches of Gov. Dix and Congressman Fitzgerald, which were limited to the historical significance of the occasion and the importance of Gov. Dongan in the early history of the country.

The overflowing throng was crowded about the high iron fence abutting the massive stone steps of the church. A platoon of police reserves and the Color Guard of the Knights of Columbus were called in to preserve order. There were cheers for Gov. Dix and for the memory of the colonial Governor Dongan, now dead 196 years.

The original St. Peter's Church, a small square structure of brick which stood on the site of the present church, was erected in 1785. The foundations of that church remain intact within the present structure, erected in 1836. It was thought fitting, therefore, by the Dongan Memorial Committee, of which Father Thomas P. Phelan of the Epiphany Church is Chairman, that a memorial tablet to the first and only Catholic Governor of New York should be placed on the oldest Catholic Church in the city.

Motion Pictures Taken.

Gov. Dix, walking between Archbishop Farley and Mgr. James H. McGean, rector of St. Peter's for the last thirty years, arrived at 4 o'clock. He was greeted with cheers. Across the street from the church were cameras in twenty windows and a motion picture machine, too, was in operation.

"Within less than the range of rifle shot from where we stand," said Gov. Dix, "228 years ago almost to the day, for the first time in American history was asserted and enacted the right of the people to participate in their own Government—the foundation law of our entire political superstructure. In no Colonial documents elsewhere are the words 'people met in general assembly' to be found, and this phrase marks the first epoch in the political history of New York, as we know it, and in the rise and development of free institutions in America.

"This first representative assembly of New York Province met within the walls of Fort James, just below us, near the Battery, on Oct. 14, 1683, and its presiding officer and master spirit was Thomas Dongan, appointed Governor of the province by the grace of James the Duke of York, in the reign of Charles II.

"Our assemblage to-day, large and notable though it be, is but a meagre unit in the millions of humanity who have, down the ages since his time, benefited through this brave and broad-minded legislation of Gov. Dongan. It is a privilege to recall that this generation of ours has done more than any preceding generation in two centuries toward retrieving from the desolating débris of time the services to America and mankind of this great man; it is a privilege to participate in erecting on this historic and revered ground of St. Peter's the memorial table which we unveil to-day."

DYING WHALE COMES ASHORE

Apparently Not Liking the Idea of a Watery Grave.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Oct. 8.—Joe Norcom, a surfman, sighted a big whale about 500 yards off shore at 4 o'clock this morning, but never suspecting that a whale would want to get ashore at Ocean City he kept on his way down the beach. Walking back, some time later, Norcom saw the whale drifting nearer shore and evidently making determined efforts to do something about it.

Despite its struggles, however, the whale made a good landing in shoal water at the foot of Fourth Street. Then, apparently realizing where it was, it turned over on its side and died.

Representatives of the Academy of Natural Science of Philadelphia are expected here to-morrow to dissect the whale, which is of the sperm variety, seldom seen so far south.

SISTERS RESCUE 250 GIRLS.

Driven from Wheeling House of Good Shepherd by Destructive Fire.

WHEELING, West Va., Oct. 8.—The Catholic home of the Good Shepherd, at Edginton, near this city, was entirely destroyed by fire that started at 2 o'clock this morning.

One of the 250 girl inmates of the home awoke and detected the odor of smoke. She aroused one of the forty Sisters of the Good Shepherd in charge of the home, and with the greatest celerity the children were led from the burning building to a nearby hillside. None was injured, but many were in scanty attire.

The fire originated in the chapel and spread with great rapidity. The loss will be between $25,000 and $50,000.

BOY JUDGE IN JAIL.

And Girl Banished from George Junior Republic.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Oct. 8.—Lloyd Scott, aged 17, Vice President of the George Junior Republic at Grove City was captured early this morning while attempting to elope with Lucy Eller, aged 16. Tried before a jury of boys still in their teens, the Judge was compelled to undergo the humiliation of being sentenced to one year in the Republic's prison. Judge Scott pleaded for a change of venue in his trial, but the court refused this.

The sentence of the court in the girl's case was that she be banished from the republic. She was sentenced to the Morganza Reformatory for an indefinite term. It appears that Chief of Police Kelly, who is 17 years old, got wind that the pair had intended eloping. So he arrested them just as they stole from the buildings, grip in hand.

The affair has caused a big sensation at the Republic, where Miss Ellers was the belle and Scott the most trusted person among the 500 inmates.

AUTO HIT BY A TRAIN.

Plunges Through a Fence Down Track Embankment—Woman Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Smashing through a wooden fence at the foot of Cumberland Street, an automobile containing three women to-night plunged over a twelve-foot embankment on to the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad before a moving train.

The women were hurled ten yards from the wrecked automobile on the outbound express tracks a fraction of a second before a local train thundered by on the first track, shearing the rear parts of the tonneau from the machine. Only one of the three women was severely injured.

Mrs. Frank Kenney of 1 Wellington Street, wife of a soap manufacturer and proprietor of a Columbus Avenue liquor store, was operating the car, and escaped with lacerations of the hands and lips and possibly a broken rib.

Miss Louis Marston was seriously shaken up, and her right leg was lacerated. The most seriously injured is Miss Katherine Sutherland of the opera chambers. She is at the City Hospital in a semi-conscious condition, suffering from concussion of the brain and painful contusions on her hips. The surgeons fear her skull is fractured.

THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASH.

Victims Rushed to Philadelphia from Egg Harbor in Another Car.

Special to The New York Times.

EGG HARBOR, N. J., Oct. 8.—Three persons were injured, one of whom will die, when an automobile, bearing a New York license number, smashed into a telegraph pole on the county road, five miles from here, to-night. The injured are A. Morris, said to be a Philadelphia lawyer, owner of the car; his father, and a chauffeur, whose name could not be learned.

The automobile was going at a high rate of speed when the driver lost control of it in rounding a sharp curve. It skidded into a telegraph pole, breaking it off flush with the ground, and demolishing the machine. A passing automobile, which came upon the victims of the accident by the readside, was pressed into service, and all were hurried to a Philadelphia hospital.

News of the accident was brought to this place by Arnold Schade, a young man who was hailed on the county road by the driver of a touring car and instructed to notify the authorities that several dead persons were lying in the roadway beside a smashed automobile five miles out.

TWO WOMEN HURT IN AUTO.

Machine Is Run Down by a Madison Avenue Car.

Two women were slightly injured last night when a Madison Avenue car collided with an automobile at Sixtieth Street. The women, Mae Westbrook of 485 Central Park West and Evelyn Carl of Bound Brook, N. J., were in the automobile of Oliver E. Edmondson of 3 West 108th Street, a broker at 25 Broad Street. They were attended by Dr. De Van of the Presbyterian Hospital and went home in another machine.

The car operated by William Quinn of 1,612 Lexington Avenue was going at a moderate rate. Several windows were shattered and the automobile was slightly damaged. The accident was witnessed by Patrolman Schipp, who said the collision was unavoidable.

Ran Down Horses with Stolen Auto.

Thomas Lee of 345 West Forty-fifth Street was arrested yesterday for having run down a horse belonging to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company with a taxicab, which, it is alleged, he took from a garage without permission. The arrest was made at Ninth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street. Later an employe of the car company identified Lee as the man who had run into a string of horses he was leading, and representatives of the taxicab company demanded that he be locked up.

TRIPOLI SHELLED TWO DAYS

News by Reopened Cable Tells of Blowing Up Forts—Marconi a War Hero.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent says there is great activity on the part of the Italian warships throughout the archipelago, and in the Ionian and Red Seas. It is believed that their intention is to blockade the Dardanelles.

Reports are current that Said Pasha will resign, and that Kiamil Pasha will become Grand Vizier. There are indications throughout the Turkish dominions of an energetic spirit in favor of a holy war, but in Constantinople [illegible] people pray constantly for peace.

According to the correspondent, the American Ambassador, W. W. Rockhill, has been instructed from Washington to use his influence for peace. The Ambassador will have an interview to-morrow with Said Pasha. Russia is joining with the United States in this action. Turkey has sent another note to the powers, asking for intervention, and offering to grant every reasonable concession to Italy.

Most of the Constantinople correspondents agree that Turkey is renewing her efforts to secure peace, but they differ as to the procedure to be followed—whether by arbitration through a European conference or by other means.

According to reports from Rome, Italy, which at one time was ready to pay Turkey a large compensation, will now pay nothing to Turkey, although she would not impose a war indemnity, if peace were concluded forthwith. If hostilities are prolonged, however, the reports say, Italy will insist upon a heavy indemnity.

Italian reports tell of the sinking of two Turkish torpedo boats, with a loss of 300 Turks, at San Giovanni di Medua, but the Turkish versions minimize the affair.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8.—The Chauvinist press still demands severe anti-Italian measures, but the moderate press and the general public realize that the only possible course is to end the war without delay. It is understood that the Grand Vizier and the Minister of War are inviting mediation by the powers to secure the completion of peace and that in the meantime the execution of the decree of expulsion relating to Italians will be postponed.

ATHENS, Oct. 8.—It has been decided to close the Corinth Canal to both Turkish and Italian vessels for the rest of the war.

This canal connects the Gulf of Corinth with the Aegean Sea.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 8.—Russia is negotiating with Turkey in connection with Turkey's reported intention to declare grain contraband of war. Such action on Turkey's part would paralyze the Russian export trade.

SHELLED TRIPOLI TWO DAYS.

Italians Then Landed and Blew Up Forts—Turkish Shells Fell Short.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The cable between Tripoli and Malta having been restored, telegrams are now coming to hand from that quarter. The following message, dated Tripoli, Sunday, 4:25 P. M., sent to The Daily Mail, is the first out of Tripoli for eight days:

"This morning I was able to re-enter Tripoli after spending six days on board the Italian cruiser Varese. After Sept. 30 the blockade of the town was complete. Six large warships and a squadron of destroyers cruised up and down outside the harbor. On the morning of Oct. 1 the Italian torpedo boat Albatross cut the cable of the Eastern Telegraph Company, the only line connecting Tripoli with Malta. On the same day the Italian flagship received a message saying that the cruiser Amalfi had destroyed the wireless station at Derna. The whole of Tripoli was thus isolated from the rest of the world.

"On Oct. 2 two steamers, on the way to Tripoli, were seized, and several torpedo boats and destroyers entered the harbor and their officers conducted negotiations with the Turkish Governor. On Oct. 3 news reached the Italian fleet that four Turkish officers were arriving in the steamer Tafna. The Tafna was stopped and boarded.

"The Italian Admiral's ultimatum to the Turkish Governor expired at mid-day, and preparations for bombardment were instantly begun. The battleships Emanuele Filiberto, Sicilia, and Benedetto Brin, with the cruiser Carlo Alberto, came and joined Admiral Faravelli's ships. The fleet then divided into three lines, the first of which was to bombard the fortifications of the harbor, the second to destroy the Sultanie Battery, to the west of the town, and the third to shell the Hamidie Battery, east of Tripoli.

"At 3:40 P. M. the flagship sent the first shell against the Turkish forts. All three divisions immediately began to fire. The Italians' aim was admirable. The Turkish forts replied with a few shots, which splashed into the water only half way to the ships. All the forts then became silent, with the exception of the Sultanie Battery. By half-past 4, fifty minutes after the first shot, the Sultanie guns also were silenced. Although there was no reply, the Italians continued the bombardment until the sun set. The town, which was bristling with foreign flags, was entirely untouched.

"On the morning of Oct. 4 the bombardment began again, the fire being directed against the Hamidie Fort, which had not been entirely destroyed on the previous day. When the firing ended, two officers landed and made their way to the fort. They found it empty, and rendered the guns useless. This bold stroke was supported by a torpedo boat and a destroyer, which went right into the harbor. The officers discovered two great stores of ammunition, and the Admiral decided to destroy these. On the morning of Oct. 5 an officer of the Varese went to the Hamidie Fort to blow it up. He was successful. There was a terrific explosion and a vast column of smoke, which spread over the town.

"In the afternoon of the same day sailors were ordered to disembark, and more than 2,000 men took possession of the Sultanie Fort and the Governor's palace without difficulty. The Italian flag was hoisted upon the Sultanie Fort and saluted with twenty-one guns from the fleet. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the flag was run up on the Governor's palace.

"The Turks had left town, barracks, police stations, and everything else, and gone into the interior. Many Arabs made demonstrations of joy when the Italians landed. Order was preserved, except that Arabs pillaged the Governor's house and one of the forts of the harbor. It is to-day stated that the Turks are now demoralized and very few in number. We await hourly the arrival of the first transports bringing the Italian Army."

MARCONI ITALIANS' HERO.

Fires Popular Enthusiasm by Depriving Turkish Navy of Wireless.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHIASSO, Oct. 8.—Besides the Duke of the Abruzzi, the war with Turkey has another hero—at least one who is considered to be such by the Italian people. Although he has not fought, William Marconi, on all occasions where Italy is concerned, shows the warmest patriotism. Since hostilities began he has deprived the Turkish fleet of his wireless apparatus, not wishing it to be used by the enemy of his country.

Mr. Marconi, having come to Italy to supervise the working of a high-power wireless station at Coltano, which communicates with Africa, has been the object of frantic demonstrations whenever he appears. The King asked Mr. and Mrs. Marconi to be his guests at San Rossore, a few miles from Coltano, while the wireless experiments were going on.

FEAR FOR ITALIANS IN TURKEY.

Expulsion and Possible Massacres May Start Invasion of Albania.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHIASSO, Oct. 8.—To-night's news is gravest from Turkey, where Italians are threatened with expulsion. If a massacre occurs, war in that quarter will again burst forth, as it would then be impossible to prevent an attack on Albania, lying as it does only a few hours' sail from the Italian coast.

That event would mean the intervention of the other powers.

ITALIANS TAKE TOBRUK.

Turkish Post in Africa, Refusing Surrender, Is Shelled by Battleship.

ROME, Oct. 8.—Official dispatches received here to-day say:

"Early, this morning the ships of the first Italian squadron entered the roadstead at Tobruk, in Bombah, where they found no Turkish warships. They summoned the garrison to surrender, but the Turks replied with a flat refusal and hoisted the Turkish flag.

"The battleship Vittorio Emmanuele opened fire. The first shots carried away the flag, and made a large breach in the fort. Rear Admiral Aubrey, Commander in Chief of the fleet, then landed several companies of marines, who, after a short struggle, overcame the resistance of the small Turkish force. The Italians occupied the fort, and hoisted their flag. A few Turkish soldiers, who refused to abandon the fort without further fighting, were made prisoners."

MALTA, Oct. 8.—Prof. Artbauer, chief of the Austrian scientific mission, who has arrived here from Tripoli, says that the town is now tranquil. Europeans are not endangered and only 1,000 Turkish soldiers remain in the Hinterland, but the Arabs, he says, are already organizing guerrilla bands and intend to put up a dogged resistance.

Prof. Artbauer expresses the opinion that if Italy is content with the occupation of Tripoli her mission might be considered ended, but that if she intends to embark upon a campaign in the Hinterland it will take years to subdue the natives.

END SLAVERY IN TRIPOLI.

Italians Act—Arabs Offer to Sell Rifles and Submit—Food Is Scarce.

Special to The New York Times.

ROME, Oct. 8.—The Italian authorities at Tripoli to-day issued a proclamation suppressing slavery. Tripoli was the only remaining port on the coast of Africa where slavery still prevailed, notwithstanding the efforts of Great Britain on the one side and France on the other to prevent the traffic.

Gen. Spingardi, the Minister of War, went to Naples to-day to supervise, in conjunction with the Duke of Aosta, the organization of the troops for the expedition.

Advices from Tripoli say that groups of Turkish soldiers are coming in at various times to surrender. The Arabs, armed at the last moment by the garrison with Mauser rifles landed by the steamer Derna, are gradually returning to Tripoli and offering their submission. Their only condition is that the Italian commander purchase their rifles for a few francs, which seems to show that not only are the Arabs—those at least in the vicinity of Tripoli—not ready to fight for Turkey, but also that a condition of starvation prevails among the natives. More than 20,000 of these, is is reported, will soon be forced by hunger to return to the town.

It is not known how the Turkish soldiers, comprising the garrison, are off for supplies, but it is believed that they are near to the minimum. It is possible, however, that they may proceed into the interior for the purpose of arousing the Senoussi tribes, and have them proclaim a holy war against the invaders.

The attitude of the Turkish Government with regard to the Italians in the Ottoman Empire, is viewed with some concern, and the order of expulsion and the abolition of the capitulations, if carried into effect, may be the cause of serious complications. It is expected that Germany, which now has the Italians in Turkey under her protection, would raise an objection to such action.

Various reports are being received of anti-Italian riots, particularly in Salonica, where the Italian Consul is said to have been threatened with a revolver in his own house. Vice Admiral the Duke of the Abruzzi left Taranto to-day aboard the armored cruiser Vettor Pisani, after having been in communication with the King and the Minister of Marine.

The armored cruisers Giuseppi Garibaldi, Francesco Ferrucio, and Varese, which took part in the bombardment of Tripoli, were greeted enthusiastically by the people of Southeastern Sicily on their arrival yesterday at Agosta. After coaling the squadron left this morning under sealed orders.

CHOLERA BAD IN ALBANIA.

Pest Camps Along Adriatic Coast—800 Soldiers Dead in Fortnight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A personal letter received here from an American traveling in the Turkish provinces north of Greece indicates that the Ottoman Empire has much more to fear from the cholera than from the Italian warships cruising in the Adriatic. The tourist was sailing down the Albanian coast ten days ago, when the vessel anchored off the pest camp of what was left of two Turkish regiments. In his letter he states that 800 of the soldiers had died in the preceding fortnight.

The Turkish authorities have imitated the Italian officials in their efforts to keep secret the extent of the plague in their country, and apparently with better success. On his voyage down the Dalmatian and Albanian coast the writer reports that out of sixty-two hours the trip lasted, thirty-six hours were spent at anchor off the little ports, none of which the ship was allowed to enter. Official reports of cholera in this region have been very meagre, only a few cases having been listed.

SEE HOPE OF PEACE.

Washington Government Hears Italy Is Disposed to Treat.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Advices received to-day by the State Department from the Embassy at Rome express the belief that if the Ottoman Government accepts the occupation of Tripoli and restores the status previously existing in Turkey, the Italian Government will be desirous of bringing about peace at the earliest possible moment. The efforts of Germany to effect a settlement continue unabated, according to the dispatch. The news of the occupation of Tripoli by the Italian forces was confirmed, and it was stated that marines had been landed without serious opposition. The Turkish troops withdrew into the back country.

The texts of the notes issued by both the Turkish and Italian Governments declaring that merchant vessels of the two hostile nations shall be seized and confiscated, also were received to-day. Turkey took the initiative in this direction. The department was notified by Ambassador Rockhill of the issuance of a note by the Turkish Government in regard to the treatment of Italian vessels. The note says:

"The imperial Government has decided that in conformity with the principles of international law Italian merchant vessels shall be seized by its agents in Ottoman territorial waters or on the high seas shall be confiscated with the Italian merchandise forming part of their cargo. As to neutral merchandise, it shall not be liable to confiscation unless it shall come within the category of articles of contraband of war."

The Chargé d'Affaires at Rome communicates the notice issued by the Italian Minister of Marine as follows:

"No action having been taken on the part of Turkey to indicate that the Porte intends to except merchant vessels of Italy from seizure or capture in the course of the present hostilities, and inasmuch as the Ottoman Government has taken the initiative in seizing merchant vessels under the Italian flag, the Italian Government in the exercise of the authority conferred by Article 211 of the Merchants' Shipping code, reserves the right to seize and capture merchant vessels of Turkey. The following articles are declared contraband of war: Firearms of every description, including guns, carbines, rifles, pistols, and revolvers, sabres, all kinds of ammunition, and war material, and in general everything that can serve for military or naval armament."

ITALIAN CHOLERA DEATHS.

116 Died in Week Sept. 24 to 30—450 Cases—Outbreak in Asylum.

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Oct. 8.—The official bulletin issued by the Italian Government on the cholera conditions in Italy shows that for the week of Sept. 24-30, there were 450 cases and 116 deaths in the whole country.

An epidemic broke out in an asylum for the insane at Rome, resulting in forty-four cases and twelve deaths. In the province of Rome there were seventeen new cases and seven deaths.

possible get her out of the gate and well on her way to the Queens County line before the deputies could arrive. As Miss Moisant's aeroplane landed he sped up to her in his automobile, Willcox assisting him, and the two lifted the diminutive flier from her seat in the aeroplane to another in the automobile.

They started across the field to a gateway which was the only exit from the grounds. Before they reached it the Sheriff's automobile entered, and a pursuit immediately started around the grounds. Willcox, remembering from his own instructions as a Deputy Sheriff that a warrant was needed to enter private grounds, got a kodak from the aviation shed and took snapshots of the Sheriff's machine as it passed.

The Sheriff's machine overhauled the Stephenson car, and in the first onrush after it had stopped beat Rene Porsch, the chauffeur, across the back and wrists. Willcox, who rushed into the fray, was struck across the arm. He demanded from the deputies that they show their warrant, and exhibited his own Deputy Sheriff's badge. One of the deputies seized Miss Moisant by the arm and attempted to drag her from the automobile. Then the crowd closed in and the deputies were overpowered.

Alfred Moisant, who brought Mlle. Helene Dutrieu, the French woman flyer, to the grounds in his automobile, attempted to transfer his sister from the other automobile to his own and make his escape while the crowd held back the deputies. At that instant Yves de Villier approached in a limousine car of high power. He proposed that Miss Moisant enter his automobile and speed for the county line. This plan was adopted, and the de Villier car left the grounds, while the crowd cheered.

The Sheriff's automobile finally worked its way through the jeering crowd to the gateway, but Miss Moisant's lead was sufficient to prevent her being overhauled.

But the two automobiles shortly reappeared together. Miss Moisant announced to her brother that it had occurred to her that she had done no wrong, and that she would not flee from arrest. The crowd was against the Deputy Sheriffs to a man, and they were hooted and shoved out of the grounds. Miss Moisant in her brother's automobile was whisked away while the fracas was in progress and was brought to her home in Riverside Drive.

WEALTHY MAN WEDS NURSE ON DEATH BED

George E. Spencer's Bride Becomes a Widow Ten Days Later.

MAY GET ALL HIS PROPERTY

Treasurer of New York Dock Company Understood to Have Left No Kin Living.

George E. Spencer, a wealthy man of 35 Pineapple Street, Brooklyn, died last night of heart disease which had made him an invalid for more than two years. He was 67 years old. With him when he died was the wife he married ten days ago and who for two years had been his constant nurse and companion. Mrs. Louise Somson Spencer is a trained nurse, of Swedish extraction. She is 37 years old.

As far as is known Mr. Spencer leaves no kin. It is therefore assumed that Mrs. Spencer will come into all his property, which is said to be considerable. Mr. Spencer was largely interested in and was Treasurer of the New York Dock Company, which is capitalized at $17,000,000. He was also a Director of the New York Dock Railway Company, with a capital of $500,000.

Mr. Spencer's intention to marry Miss Somson was first known on Sept. 27. On that day a friend of his went to the office of the City Clerk and asked that a license be issued. The friend explained that Mr. Spencer could not come himself, as the law of marriage licenses require, because he was too ill. Deputy Clerk Scully was doubtful as to what could be done, but he settled the matter by sending a clerk to Mr. Spencer's apartment to draw up the papers.

On the evening of the same day a messenger brought the Rev. Edward Sanderson, pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims, at Remsen and Henry Streets. He married Mr. Spencer to Miss Somson. It was understood by all that Mr. Spencer's death might occur any day. The end came suddenly last night.

KEENE MUTE ON HOCKING.

Won't Discuss Settlement of Suit—Too Ill to Think of Business.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—James R. Keene, who is still an inmate of a private nursing home, declines to discuss the reported settlement of the Hocking suit. He is making slow progress toward convalescence after his recent operation, but is still a very sick man.

To THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent Mr. Keene said, referring to the Hocking suit: "I don't want to hear anything about it. I have been too ill to think about business."

Pressed to deny or affirm the report, Mr. Keene asked to be excused, saying:

"I don't know how matters stand until I hear from the other side, so I can't say what has been done."

Later I saw Foxhall Keene, who hurried here, on hearing of his father's serious condition, to look after him.

"I know nothing about the matter," he said, "and father is far too ill to worry him about it."

Foxhall Keene was indignant that the doctors operated on his father without first informing his relatives.

"I knew nothing about the operation until I read it in the New York newspapers. I consider it extraordinary, to say the least, that the doctors should have taken father's life into their hands without letting us know."

He said his father was still seriously ill, although improving slowly.

SPANIARDS ATTACK MOORS.

Troops Dislodge Hostile Tribesmen, but Suffer Over 100 Losses.

MADRID, Oct. 8.—Operations by the Spanish forces against hostile tribes in Morocco have been resumed, according to official dispatches from Melilla. Covered by the fire of warships, two columns yesterday advanced ten miles inland in the Kert River region, burning many houses and driving the tribesmen from their positions, in spite of determined resistance.

The engagement lasted ten hours, and was directed by the Minister of War, Gen. De Luque, in person. Details of the Spanish losses have not yet been received, but they are believed to have been heavy, exceeding 100. Col. Primo De Rivera is among the wounded. The operations continue to-day.

SCHWAB IN PEKING.

Visit Probably Relates to Chinese Navy Development.

PEKING, Oct. 8.—Charles M. Schwab, President of the Bethlehem Steel Company, has arrived here, probably in connection with the development of the Chinese Navy. Several European shipbuilders are already represented here in connection with the same project. China recently distributed orders for small gunboats and torpedo boats among Japanese. American, German, and British builders.

It is understood that Prince Tsai Suun, President of the Navy Department, is advocating the development of the navy, while certain members of the Cabinet are strongly opposing it.

PERU PROTESTS TO COLOMBIA

Envoy at Bogota to Demand Satisfaction for Attack on Legation.

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 8.—The Foreign Minister has sent a message to the Peruvian Minister at Bogota to present an energetic note of protest to the Colombian Government because of the recent attack on the Peruvian Legation at Bogota. The Minister has been instructed to demand full satisfaction.

The attack on the Peruvian Legation occurred on Thursday night, when a Colombian mob stoned the building and tore down the coat-of-arms. This was the second attack on the Legation in the last few months, and was due to ill-feeling over the alleged encroachment of Peru upon territory claimed by Colombia.

NEW ENGLISH CATHOLIC SEES

Church to Divide England Into Three Archiepiscopal Provinces.

ROME, Oct. 8.—An important reorganization of the Catholic Church in England has been decided upon, and a Papal bull will shortly be issued dividing England into three ecclesiastical provinces, with Archiepiscopal sees at Liverpool, Birmingham, and Westminster.

Two new dioceses will also be formed, one out of a portion of Liverpool, and the other out of the actual Diocese of Northampton, with its see in Cambridge. Thus the great See of Westminster will be considerably reduced in dignity, as instead of having fourteen suffragan sees, as now, it will have only four.

MOB CAR TO FREE PRISONERS

Two Policemen Have Hard Battle with Crapshooters' Friends.

Roundsman Quilter and Policeman Knobloch of the North Bergen, N. J., police station swooped down upon a crowd of young crapshooters in Bergenline Avenue, near Twenty-seventh Street, yesterday afternoon and grabbed two youngsters. Their companions fled, and the policemen then put their prisoners on board a North Bergen trolley car.

Before the car could be started a mob of more than 200 men and boys, gathered from nearby streets by the crapshooters who escaped, surrounded it. The mob had gathered stones and rocks as they ran, and as soon as they came within range of the car they let these fly.

The broadside smashed many windows in the car. Women screamed, and Quilter and Knobloch urged the car crew to get the trolley moving. Some one grabbed the trolley line, however, and yanked the pole off the wire. When the conductor tried to replace it he was driven from the rear platform.

Quilter left the prisoners with Knobloch and jumped out on the back platform, revolver in hand. His appearance and the sight of his weapon cowed the crowd for an instant, and they seemed ready to break and run when one man stepped forward to meet the policemen, thrusting a revolver in Quilter's face. The policeman was unwilling to fire, but the man threatened to shoot if he made a move.

From within the car Knobloch saw Quilter's predicament. Handing his prisoners over to a passenger, he sprang out to the road and with his nightstick knocked the weapon from the hand of the man who menaced Quilter. A second man came to the first one's aid, but Quilter by this time was attending to his antagonist and Knobloch sprang for the other. For a few moments the four rolled about on the ground, but presently the policemen's night sticks gave them the victory and they dragged the two men, badly used up, into the car.

At the North Bergen Police Station the men who had attacked the policemen said they were Jacob Loehe of 409 Twenty-second Street and Frank Loene, his cousin, of 79 Woodlawn Avenue, Jersey city. Jacob Loehe was charged with having threatened Quilter with a revolver. Both were locked up.

The crapshooters were William Leaver of 120 Plum Street and Frank Holly of 522 Bergenline Avenue, West New York.

MOB PURSUES SHERIFF TO LYNCH PRISONER

RESCUED BY USE OF AUTO

While Militia Guard Jail at Waynesville Prisoner Is Taken to Asheville for Greater Safety.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 8.—A race across the mountains and valleys of three counties, Swain, Haywood, and Buncombe, ended at Asheville to-night, when, by the efforts of a Sheriff, a company of State militia, and use of a doctor's automobile, Ross French, a young Cherokee Indian, whose life was sought by an angry mob of mountaineers, was finally locked up in the Buncombe County Jail.

On Wednesday Miss Ethel Schuler was murdered by the Indian. The Sheriff was notified, and made the arrest and started for Waynesville. By this time runners had spread the news and a mob was hastily formed. The Sheriff had a lead on his pursuers and succeeded in dodging them for several days. When within three or four miles of Waynesville the Sheriff was advised that the mob had taken the train to Saunook, three miles west of Waynesville, and it was their purpose to head him off.

The Sheriff telephoned to Waynesville for help, and Dr. R. L. Allen answered the call. He drove his automobile at breakneck speed to where the Sheriff and his prisoner were lying in wait, and brought them to the jail at Waynesville, baffling the pursuers.

Meanwhile Gov. Kitchin had been asked by wire for permission to call out the troops, and, with this authority granted, the Richland Rifles were pressed into service, and the prisoner was soon under guard in the Waynesville jail. The mob was persistent, however, and to avoid an impending clash between the citizens and soldiers the Indian was slipped out of the back door of the jail and taken to a near-by railroad station, where a train was flagged and the prisoner was taken to Asheville.

The Indian is 21 years old, and lived on the Birdtown Reservation, in Swain County. His victim was the fourteen-year-old daughter of a Birdtown farmer. The girl's throat was cut. The Indian has made a partial confession, but apparently did not give full details of the crime.

PORTUGUESE RISING FLAGS.

People Not So Responsive as Expected—Country Tranquil, Says Premier.

LISBON, Oct. 8.—The most contradictory reports are being received here regarding the situation in the north. The Monarchists, however, do not appear to be making much headway against the Republic. The people are not flocking to their side as they expected, and the Republican troops so far have remained loyal.

News from Galicia says that the Monarchists there are in a state of demoralization. Their leaders are unable to persuade them to advance into Portugal.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The Portuguese Premier, Joao Chagas, has notified the Portuguese Legation here that the Government has taken all necessary steps to repress the Royalist rising in the north, and that "tranquillity reigns throughout the country." The Premier's dispatch states that an armed band yesterday made an attempt against Braganza, but without success, and is now close to the frontier. The Government has reinforced the Braganza garrison.

The Premier adds that he wishes the press to be informed that the Portuguese Government is not exercising any censorship over telegrams, and is permitting even the most mendacious reports to be transmitted.

FIRES AT CANDY STORE MAN.

Italian Is Chased Into a Bronx Tenement, and an Arrest Follows.

A crowd in Morris Avenue, the Bronx, last night saw a man draw a revolver and fire three shots, one of which went through the window of Pena Sarasino's candy sore at 638 Morris Avenue, narrowly missing the proprietor.

The man who fired the shot was chased into the tenement at 65 East 153d Street. Policeman Gabel followed and brought out Philip Varickel. Witnesses said he was the one who had fired the shot. In his pockets were found two cartridges and an empty shell, but no revolver. He denied he had done the shooting or knew anything about it.

FLOOD PERIL STILL GRAVE.

Black and Mississippi Rivers Rising Near Scene of Dam Burst.

LACROSSE, Wis., Oct. 8.—Preparations were made to-day to dynamite the ruins of the dam and power house of the Black River Falls municipal power plant, in an effort to clear the channel of masonry which now throws the force of the flood current against the city.

It is believed if this can be accomplished the course of the river, when the water recedes a few feet more, will be deflected back into its old channel and stop the cutting away of the sand bank on which the city stands.

Thousands of persons from the surrounding country flocked into Black River Falls to-day to view the Falls.

The Black and Mississippi Rivers are rising rapidly at this point, and thousands of acres of farm lands north of here are under water. Farmers have driven their stock to the highlands, and many have moved household goods from their residences. Hunter's Bridge, sixteen miles north, still stands, but with water within a foot of the flood mark.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 8.—Milwaukee has sent a representative of its Business Association to Black River Falls to investigate the situation there. Word was received to-day that people will soon be able to return to the residence district, but are in need of provisions. They are willing to buy and are not asking charity, but the stores' supplies of groceries were destroyed by the flood.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8.—State troops to-night are on the way to Black River Falls to guard the property wrecked last week by the flooding of Black River. Gov. Francis McGovern was in touch all day with the city officials of Black River Falls and other flooded towns. Municipal officers expressed the opinion that troops could best aid the flood sufferers, and the Governor ordered several companies to the scene at once.

OBJECT TO AN IRISH PLAY.

Irishmen Here Condemn Synge's "Plowboy of the Western World."

At a meeting of the United Irish-American societies, held last night at the rooms of the Irish-American Athletic Club, 110 East Fifty-ninth Street, resolutions were passed condemning the play by G. N. Synge, "The Plowboy of the Western World," which is announced to be presented here by the Irish players now appearing in Boston. The resolutions say that the play is immoral and not true to Irish character, and that it makes a hero of a parasite. At the meeting last night it was said that an effort would be made to prevent the production of this play in New York.

The Irish Players, who come from Dublin, are under the patronage of William Butler Yeats, Lady Gregory, and others interested in Irish and Gaelic development. Mr. Yeats and Lady Gregory accompanied the players to America and are now in Boston with the organization. Both have written plays that are being presented by the company, which has in its repertoire works of Synge, besides the play objected to by the Irish-American Societies, and one play of G. Bernard Shaw.

VOLUNTEERS HELP AUSTIN.

Eight Hundred Pennsylvania Road Employes Remove Flood Wreckage.

AUSTIN, Penn., Oct. 8.—Two more bodies were recovered and identified today and considerable wreckage was cleared away. Out of a total of seventy-four believed to have perished, sixty-two have been taken from the flood ruins.

The bodies recovered to-day were those of Mrs. William C. Harvey and her daughter, Mrs. George Beebe.

Eight hundred employes of the Renovo car shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad came here voluntarily to-day from Williamsport, Penn., and assisted in removing the great piles of débris. The men arrived early this morning on a special non-revenue train furnished by the railroad officials. They worked steadily throughout the day and made telling inroads. They brought their own food. The volunteer workers left for their homes to-night with a plan on foot whereby each man employed in the Renovo shops (1,000 in all) is to contribute $1 for the relief of Austin.

An electric light system was established throughout the district to-day. No attempt is being made to work to-night, but beginning to-morrow work will be pushed day and night.

$100,000 BROADWAY BLAZE.

Hotel St. Denis Guests Watch Firemen Work Across the Street.

Fire discovered shortly before midnight last night on the third floor of a four-story building at 787-789 Broadway, occupied by Mark Cowen & Co., dealers in livery, did $100,000 damage. The flames extended to the fourth floor of the building, which is unoccupied, and the two lower floors, the first occupied by the Goodyear Rubber Company and the second by the E. Moch Company, manufacturers of artificial flowers and dealers in feathers, were flooded by water.

Guests in the Hotel St. Denis, across the street from the fire, crowded upon fire escapes and watched the firemen at work. At no time did the fire threaten to [illegible] the adjoining buildings.

FINDS ROCKEFELLER IS OF ROYAL LINE

Avery, Whose Family Merges with That of the Oil Man's, Says They Came from the Plantagenets.

MANY NOTED ANCESTORS

First American in the Line Gen. John Humphrey, Who Was Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 8.—What he considers proof that John D. Rockefeller is a descendant of kings has been obtained by Elroy M. Avery of 2,931 Woodhill Road, the Cleveland historian and author.

Mr. Avery traced the genealogy of the Rockefellers in tracing that of his own family, for the reason that two generations back the Rockefeller line merges with that of the Averys.

John D. Rockefeller's grandmother was an Avery. Mr. Avery, to protect his publication rights, refused to-night to have much to say regarding his investigations into the Avery lineage, but he admitted that he had traced the Avery line and the Rockefeller connection back for centuries.

The results of his investigations, he said, would be published in book form. Mr. Avery did admit, however, that the history of the Rockefeller family, from the point where the branch joined with the Avery tree, would be the subject of an appendix to his latest work.

Here is the pedigree as Mr. Avery gave it out to-night:

George Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence, married and had a daughter, Margaret, Countess of Salisbury, who married Sir Richard Pole, K. G., and had a son, Henry Pole, Baron Montacato, who married Lady Neville, and his daughter, Catharine Pole, married Francis Hastings, second Earl of Huntingdon, and had a daughter, Catherine Hastings, who married Henry Clinton, second Earl of Lincoln.

Thomas Clinton, third Earl of Lincoln, their son, married and had a daughter, Susan Clinton, who married Gen. John Humphrey, sword bearer of the Court of Justice of Trial of Charles I., and afterward Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts. Their daughter, Ann Humphrey, married William Palmes, whose daughter, Susan Palmes, married Oct. 27, 1686, Samuel Avery, born Aug. 14, 1666.

Their son, Humphrey Avery, born July 4, 1699, married Feb. 5, 1724, Jerusha Morgan, whose son, Solomon Avery, born June 17, 1729, married Hannah Punderson and had a son, Miles Avery, born in 1769, at Norwich, Conn. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and married Malinda Pixley and had a daughter.

Lucy Avery married Godfrey Rockefeller and had a son, William Avery Rockefeller, who married Eliza Davison, and had a son, John Davison Rockefeller, born July 8, 1839.

CALL RETAIL TOBACCONISTS

To Take Part in Arranging Reorganization of the Trust.

More than 1,000 retail tobacco dealers of New York have been invited by the Retail Tobacconists' Association to attend a meeting of the association at Terrace Garden on Thursday night to discuss the plan of reorganization of the American Tobacco Company, which it is expected will be submitted to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to-day. There are about 7,000 retail tobacco stores in New York, and the association has invited dealers outside of the association to join in the scrutiny of the plan.

A member of the association said last night that that body would go slow in committing itself to any co-operation with other organizations, and had not yet decided to permit its attorney, H. H. Hunter, to associate himself with Louis D. Brandeis and Felix H. Levy, who have been retained by the National Cigar Leaf Association and the New York Leaf Tobacco Association. The Retail Tobacconists' Association plans to enlist organizations outside of the State in its fight, and has already received the support of the Retail Tobacconists' Association of Washington, which is sending representatives from the Pacific Coast to watch the court proceedings.

A number of the leading independent cigarette manufacturers, it was learned last night, have retained Samuel Untermyer to represent them before the court. John W. Surbrug, who is the leader of the movement, and who is President of the New York Cigarette Manufacturers, said he had been informed by Mr. Untermyer that it was entirely a matter of favor with the court whether his association would be heard, and to what extent. "The very existence of the cigarette manufacturers," he said, "depends on the scope of the plan. All that has gone before will mean nothing to us or to the consumers unless we can get actual competion restored, instead of the semblance of it."

NAMES, PLEASE, SAYS ELLIS ISLAND'S BOSS

Immigration Commissioner Williams Finds the Latest Criticisms Very Much Like the Last

DISPROVED AT A HEARING

Some Typical Charges and the Facts as He Disclosed Them in Washington—Inquiry Vindicated Him.

A TIMES reporter called the attention of Immigration Commissioner William Williams yesterday to the report from Washington that the National German Alliance, now in session there, will formally place itself on record as demanding his removal.

Speaking before the alliance on Saturday, Henry Weissmann of Brooklyn, President of the organization, quoted the case of a German peasant who, so Mr. Weissmann said, refused to land in America when his son was deported as a result of a defect in his speech. No names were mentioned by Mr. Weissmann. Mr. Williams, when asked about the case, said that if Mr. Weissmann would be more specific and give him the name of the peasant, he would investigate the matter and make public all the facts.

Mr. Weissmann in his speech grew most indignant about the case. He said that Mr. Williams's order was the "most miserable action that has ever come to my knowledge." He admitted, however, that Secretary Nagel had upheld the Commissioner.

"Here," said Mr. Williams yesterday, "a single case is mentioned. It is mentioned without name or identification. We apply the law to some 800,000 persons a year, of whom 70,000 are held for what is known as special inquiry. Their cases are made matters of extensive investigation and record. I have no idea at this time what this unnamed case may be, but I am certain that deportation did not occur only on the facts as stated.

"Last Spring a lot of loose statements were made concerning supposed cruelties perpetrated by the immigration authorities. At a hearing before the House Rules Committee in Washington in July last every definite charge or specific instance cited was met and shown to be false or misleading.

"The immigration authorities are merely doing their duty under the law—often an unpleasant duty, but that is through no fault of theirs. They must take the law as Congress gives it to them. If names in the case mentioned by Mr. Weissmann are furnished I shall be glad to give out the correct facts and the reason for our decision in the matter."

It is not many months since charges were made before a committee of the House of Representatives, and many instances were cited of cruel treatment of immigrants on Ellis Island. Congressman Sulzer, who wanted Ellis Island investigated as a result of these charges, said that the treatment of immigrants had become an international abuse, "and makes an issue that appeals to the common humanity of the race."

At this hearing Mr. Williams took up one by one the specific cases cited by the critics of Ellis Island, and justified the course taken. One of the cases cited was that of Rose Schenker.

"It is charged," Mr. Williams testified before the committee, "that her two sons and a daughter were deported last August. The facts are these: It is perfectly true that she was deported with her three children. How did she secure entry? By stating that she was going to her husband. That at the time was true, but within a month the husband deserted her in Philadelphia, and she was unable thereafter to locate him.

"That fact was concealed from the committee. A second very relevant fact which was also concealed is this, that owing to the pressure under which we have to do our work at Ellis Island, in this case, (as in some others, undoubtedly,) one of the children was passed as being healthy. When she applied, as she did, to the Juvenile Court of New York to get her children committed, after the desertion of her husband, we learned for the first time that one of them was an imbecile, and had no business to be in this country. The mere fact that we had not detected this child's imbecility at the time of landing did not bar us from putting him out of the country at the time we did detect it, because we detected it within three years, and this three-year law, about which you will hear a great deal later, is precisely to meet such cases.

"The witness did not state one word here about this woman having an imbecile child. There is one other false statement. The woman's daughter arrived after the woman and her two boys, and after the desertion of the husband, at a time when the woman probably knew perfectly well that she could not care for her. To help get her in, it was stated that she was 16. She was in fact only 13, and yet the charge is that the daughter was deported for the only reason that her mother and the two boys were deemed likely to become public charges. Well, we do not allow 13-year-old girls to remain in this country without either parent or any proper person to care for them, if we can help it. She belonged with her mother, and she went back with her. Can I answer any more questions concerning that case?"

"No, I think that is all," answered Congressman Harwick, Chairman of the committe.

Another case referred to by Mr. Williams was that Sandon Serfozo. According to a report in a local German newspaper, he fell on the slippery floor in the detention room and hurt his eye so badly that he had to be sent to the Ellis Island hospital. The fact was, Mr. Williams said, that the man arrived suffering from a serious eye disease. For the first four weeks after his arrival his condition was such that he had to be kept in bed, with cold compresses over his eyes. He was finally cured and permitted to go to his relatives in Ohio.

In the course of the hearing Congressman Burnett of Alabama, Chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, stated that he believed the steamship companies initiated the attack on Mr. Williams's administration at Ellis Island.

"I want the good immigrant to come," said Chairman Burnett. "I want him if he comes here for the purpose of helping to build up our country, helping to build up its moral and material conditions; but you can find steamship runners all over Europe seeking to induce the worst in the land to come. Whenever these steamship companies do not like a member of Congress, there is no mistaking it. I have felt their force, Mr. Chairman, in the last campaign. They will send their emissaries all through the country for the purpose of trying to crush any man who gets in their way. They do it in a secretive, insidious manner. I have no doubt they are trying to crush Mr. Williams in his effort to do right."

There was a great mass of testimony offered before the committee, among those who appeared in favor of the investigation being Theodore Sutro, representing the German-American Alliance; Gustav Schweppendick, managing editor of Das Morgen Journal; Aaron W. Levy, representing the Federation of Jewish Organizations of the State of New York; A. G. Koelble of the United German Societies of the State of New York, and the Rev. Sydney H. Bass, a Methodist minister of Harrison Valley, Penn.

TOO MANY LAWS, HE SAYS.

Dr. van Dyke Thinks the Tendency Now Is to Regulate Everything.

In a sermon delivered last night at the installation of the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill as pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton University said that the only refuge from this age of bewildering legislation was in the religion of Christ.

"We are living in an era of extensive and intensive law making," said Dr. van Dyke. "The books are crowded with statutes which keep every one busy interpreting them. We are living in an age where an attempt is being made to regulate everything by maxim. Nowadays a man hardly dares to buy a newspaper or blow his nose without first consulting the statute books and learn if there are any laws regulating these affairs.

"We are living in a democracy where the new ruler has not the prerogatives of an Emperor of a new house in other countries. There the new Emperor can wipe the new law slate clean and then establish his own laws. In a democracy the new ruler must by means of legislation establish the laws which are deemed desirable by him. Thus the change in the politics of our Government accounts for a great deal of legislation.

"Personal liberty has been restricted by laws, but it is right, and we all appreciate the right, of such laws. Perhaps there are laws on the statute books that are foolish and futile. Perhaps a great many laws ought to be changed or dropped altogether. But there is only one way to live. Abide by the laws as they are, no matter what we think of them. The loss of outward liberty is compensated by the gain in inward freedom.

"Our customs official is still busy, but the censor is gone with the ages, and free speech is much more important than free trade. It is far better to live in a State which prohibits you from carrying a gun than one which restricts your religious liberty. With religion we can live under any law."

Dr. Merrill, who was installed as pastor of the church, came from the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian Church of Chicago. The pulpit of the Brick Church has been vacant since January, 1910, when Dr. William R. Richards died. Dr. George Alexander, Moderator of Presbytery, presided at the installation, and Dr. John Henry Jowett delivered the prayer of installation.

DENOUNCE RUSSIAN TREATY.

German-American Alliance Wants Congress to Annul It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The most important proceeding in the Sunday session of the National German-American Alliance, which is holding its sixth biennial convention in this city, was the enthusiastic adoption of a resolution urging Congress to abrogate the present treaty with Russia because of the treatment shown American Jews who travel in that country. Simon Wolf, President of the B'nai Brith, addressed the convention on the difficulty encountered by those who, after obtaining passports from the United States Government, are not permitted to travel through Russia.

Rudolph Croner of New York offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

> Resolved, That the non-acknowledgment by the Russian Government of passports granted by the United States on account of the religious belief of persons holding them is in violation of the existing treaty between the two Governments, and that Congress be petitioned to annual and abrogate that treaty.

The convention without any further debate adopted the resolution.

The convention adopted another resolution to the effect that Immigration Commissioner Williams should be forthwith deposed from his office, and also adopted a resolution approving the action of Secretary James Wilson in accepting the honorary Presidency of the National Brewers' Association. This was done, according to the language of the resolution, as a protest against the action of a recent meeting of women who protested against Secretary Wilson's presiding over a "body of men who abused the God-given boon of corn."

SAY UPTON SINCLAIR HAS DROPPED SUIT

He Declares He Hasn't, and Won't, and That Reconciliation Rumors Are Baseless.

WIFE'S FATHER IS HOPEFUL

But Then You Can't Tell What These Highly Artistic Temperaments Will Do—She's in the Country, Resting.

Upton Sinclair, the author, and his wife, Meta Fuller Sinclair, who left him several months ago because, as she then declared, she found that she and Harry Kemp, a Kansas poet and friend of her husband, were intellectually better suited to each other, are in a fair way soon to become reconciled, according to their friends. Sinclair, according to these friends, has withdrawn his suit for divorce, and he and his wife have been in communication with each other.

William M. Fuller, Deputy Clerk of the Court of Special Sessions, the father of Mrs. Sinclair, said last night at his home, 174 West Eighty-seventh Street, that his daughter was at present with a relative in the country and Sinclair at his colony in Arden, Del. He had heard that Sinclair was about to sail for Europe.

Mr. Fuller said he knew that Sinclair and his daughter had been in communication with each other. Both his daughter and Sinclair had the artistic temperament in a high degree of development, he said.

"You can not always tell," he declared, "what such people will do. This recent separation of theirs was all a tempest in a teapot."

He hoped that Sinclair and his daughter would be reunited. Mrs. Sinclair, he said, was not in the best of health, and was writing, resting and studying in the country. He did not know what had become of Harry Kemp.

"I never had a great deal of use for poets, anyway," he said.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 8.—Word reached Arden, Del., the single tax settlement where Upton Sinclair lives, to-night that he would withdraw his suit for divorce filed in New York against his wife. "The suit has not been withdrawn," he said. "Furthermore, it will not be dropped. I have heard the reports relative to a reconciliation being effected, but they have no foundation."

British Navy Yard Model for Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—After visiting foreign navy and shipbuilding yards, Secretary of the Navy Meyer has returned convinced that the Vickers Company of England in its yards at Barrow-in-Furness comes nearest supplying a model organization for copying in this country. As a result he has sent Capt. A. B. Willetts and Capt. E. Theiss of the navy to make a more detailed study of the plant with a view to reporting suggested changes in our own organization.

A FLEET FOR NICHOLSON.

Naval Circles Wondering Who Will Succeed Him as Bureau Chief.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The approaching retirement of Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson as Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, a place commonly regarded as the ranking office in the navy, has deeply stirred naval circles, especially in view of the fact that Admiral Nicholson has not been permitted to serve the full term accorded in the past to an officer of his rank assigned to shore duty. The explanation for his release offered at the Navy Department is that it was desirable that the Admiral should be allowed to command a fleet before his active service expires.

Whatever may have been the purpose of the authorities in making the change, still greater interest attaches to the personality of the successor of Admiral Nicholson in the Navigation Bureau. This place has heretofore been filled by an Admiral or by a Captain so advanced in his grade as to be sure of attaining the rank of Admiral before the expiration of his detail. Attention has been drawn to the fact, however, that Secretary Meyer has recently adopted the policy of selecting comparatively young officers for high positions, as was evidenced in the appointment of the present heads of the Construction Bureau; the Bureau of Yards and Docks, and the Bureau of Steam Engineering, and a feeling of apprehension exists among the conservative element in the navy that the old practice of conferring the high office of the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation upon one of the most distinguished and capable and experienced officers of high rank is in danger of abandonment.

Secretary Meyer, amid all this gossip and turmoil, is maintaining an absolute silence as to his own purposes, simply calling attention to the fact that the office, after all, is one entirely within the disposition of the President, and that consequently no selection will be announced until President Taft has returned from his present Western trip.

SUPREME COURT PLANS.

Anti-Trust Cases Among Those First Up for Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Supreme Court of the United States will convene to-morrow at noon after a four months' recess. It will remain in session until the last of next May, and will consider as many of the 800 cases now piled up on the docket as time will permit. An estimate has it that the court will dispose of about 400 cases during the term, but that about 200 additional cases will be docketed before next June.

All the members of the court have arrived in the city with the exception of Associate Justice Day. The illness of Mrs. Day has detained him at their home in Canton, Ohio. Chief Justice White was among the first to arrive, while Justices Harlan, McKenna, Holmes, Lurton, Hughes, Van Devanter, and Lamar all returned to the city in ample time for the opening of the term.

A long list of important cases, second only to the great Standard Oil and Tobacco cases, will demand the attention of the court during the first month of its session. Three cases involve alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws. These are the suits against the principal anthracite coal-carrying railroads and coalowning companies, against the railroads operating the bridges over the Mississippi at St. Louis, and against James A. Patten and others, who are charged with cornering the cotton market. Railroad rates in Kentucky, West Virginia, Minnesota, and Oregon will be considered.

The so-called "elevator cases" will test the power of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Cases involving the rights of Indians to alienate their land and the entry of the so-called "Stracy coal land claims" in Alaska will be hotly contested.

TAFT AT GLACIERS ON MOUNT RAINIER

Travels Over 100 Miles by Auto in Washington State—Big Spokane Crowd Greets Him.

MEETS A RIVAL IN WEIGHT

Coal Man Confesses to 335 Pounds and the President to 315 or 316 Pounds.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—President Taft to-day made a trip by automobile to the glacier fields of Mount Rainier. The President traveled more than 100 miles by automobile, starting from Tacoma at 11 A. M. and not returning until long after nightfall.

At Spokane one of the largest crowds that has welcomed the President—on the present trip turned out. He motored from the Northern Pacific station for a mile and a half through streets packed to the edge of the sidewalks. The cheering was hearty and almost continuous. Mr. Taft stood up in his automobile, hat in hand, bowing right and left. The President was driven to the fair grounds, where he spoke from a temporary platform in front of the grandstand.

In introducing the President Gov. Hay said the audience would have the pleasure of listening to "one of the greatest men of his generation."

The President defined once more his intention to enforce the anti-trust act.

"As long as I am President of the United States I propose to enforce that law against all illegal combinations," he said.

Mr. Taft touched briefly on the tariff vetoes and the peace treaties. The speech was well received.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Washington, Oct. 8.—Jake Kaufman, a Walla Walla coal and ice merchant, a member of the Reception Committee, was observed by the President as he got off his car here.

Turning to members of his party Mr. Taft said:

"There's a bigger man than I am. I am going to get acquainted and shake hands with him."

He did so, and after each had expressed pleasure at the meeting, the President asked the pertinent question, to which Kaufman replied:

"Three hundred and thiry-five. May I inquire your weight, Mr. President?"

"I haven't weighed lately, but I usually tip the scales at 315 or 316."

"Well, I've got you beaten," said the coal man.

"You're perfectly welcome to it," said the President. "I am always pleased to meet a man weightier than myself."

Memphis Bank President Arrested.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 8.—E. L. Hendry, President of the All Night and Day Bank of Memphis, now in the hands of a receiver, late last night was arrested on a charge of obtaining $6,000 under false pretenses. The charge was made by Charles Eckert, Secretary and Treasurer of the Western and Southwestern Insurance Company of Oklahoma.

TWO NEW ROCHELLE TICKETS

Democrats Put Up Jere Milleman to Run Against Controller Griffing.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Jere Milleman, a Manhattan diamond merchant, living in Webster Avenue, New Rochelle, was nominated late last night for Controller on the Democratic ticket. The nomination was postponed by the City Convention last Monday night because Edward Stetson Griffing, who was to be nominated for a third term as Controller, had agreed to accept the Republican nomination. Mr. Griffing accepted the Republican nomination on Thursday night because, as he said, he wished to remove the office from politics. The Democrats, angry at what they called desertion, refused to nominate him.

Overcoats for Men at Saks'

¶ Time was when the expression: It fits like the paper on the wall, carried with it the idea of immaculate fit. But nowadays no well-dressed man wants to emulate the wall-paper, not even in full-dress clothes, which are the nearest approach to a wall-paper fit.

¶ As the London tailor said to his customer: "It's not the fit, Sir; it's the 'ang we look for." And but for the trifling omission of an aspirate, he was quite right.

¶ The hang is nearly everything in clothes, and particularly in overcoats. Yet there is an art in draping garments not to be confused with the so-called draping which all tailors talk about and so few understand.

¶ But more particularly, let us talk about the Raglan, which is the popular choice of the exclusive at home and abroad. The Raglan is a London innovation and most American Raglans are copies, whereas Saks Raglans are duplicates.

¶ They are graceful in their lines and drape softly and comfortably about the figure. They are made of new rough cloths, or in those charming covert effects. The buttons seek the obscurity of a fly front or button boldly through.

Pajamas for Men of a retiring disposition value 2.00……now 1.20

¶ 1200 suits of fine mercerized cloth pajamas of sleep-inducing persuasiveness. Made with pearl buttons and double silk frogs. Standing collar or surplice neck. Cut large and roomy, in sizes for small, medium and heavy sleepers.

¶ In blue, tan, white, helio or gray, and made with that superior finish which goes hand in hand with the name of Saks.

¶ Just at this season you want warmer pajamas, and this is the time and place and price at which to get them.

¶ Soft enough to put you to sleep—low enough in price to make you sit up and take notice.

It has at its disposal the best and most enlightened expert musical knowledge obtainable here or in Europe.

That it has chosen the Hardman, therefore, as its own piano, to be used on all official occasions, means that in the opinion of experts of eminence, the Hardman qualities of tone and permanent stability are such as to place it in the forefront of the leading pianos of America.

It has thus also indorsed the views long held by a majority of its own leading artists, who have chosen the Hardman as their own piano to be used in the intimacy of their own homes and have not scrupled to voice their satisfaction.

It was Caruso, of the Metropolitan Opera House, who said "The Hardman is my favorite Piano."

It was Tetrazzini, of the Metropolitan Opera House, who said "The Hardman is my choice."

ARMY BOY BUILDS GLIDER THAT FLIES

Airship You've Seen Over Governors Island Is the Toy of the Post's Children.

GIRL MADE FLIGHT IN IT

It Was Made by Col. Allison's Son, Malcolm, Out of Varnished Cambric and Birch Wood—Now Being Repaired.

The secret of the Governors Island airship, the short flights of which in the late afternoons for weeks past have made many persons in Battery park and on passing ferryboats wonder who the aviator was and the kind of a machine he used, is out. The machine is a fifty-pound biplane glider, and the inventor and maker is Malcolm Allison, the 17-year-old son of Col. James N. Allison, U. S. A., the commissary officer of the Division of the East of the army.

The machine is housed in the aeroplane shed built for Wilbur Wright at the time of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, and young Mr. Allison is now busy making repairs due to an unexpected fall a week or so ago, when an army boy who was gliding stuck his feet too far forward, thus breaking the equilibrium and causing the machine to fall. The inventor is not only repairing the machine, but he is also adding some improvements, among them a stationary instead of a swinging seat and a new rear control.

The flights have been at heights of from ten to fifty feet, and in several of the mthe glider has traveled more than 500 yards before coming down. In all of the flights the passengers have been drawn from the youthful population of Governors Island. One of those who made a splendid flight of more than 100 yards was Miss Alice Judson, a niece of Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of the General Staff.

When the wind is strong the glider behaves fine, Malcolm Allison said yesterday, but when there is only a gentle breeze a tow of some sort is generally necessary in order to get into the air. The Governors Island children do the towing.

The planes of the glider are twenty feet long and four feet wide, the surfaces being of varnished cambric. The wood is birch, and the planes are held in position with birch supports and wires, the same as are the planes in the big biplanes of the Wright and Farman types.

Every part of the machine is the work of Malcolm Allison, and every one of them was made on the back porch of Col. Allison's home, which has been fitted up as a workshop by the boy inventor. The tools and the lumber and cambric all cost about $12.

The starting point for the flights is generally the grass-covered incline on the south side of the enlisted men's barracks, opposite the Statue of Liberty. There the boy or girl who is to take a spin in the air gets into the swinging seat and jumps off, that is if the wind is strong enough to get the glider into the air without the aid of a tow. If the wind is too gentle, there are plenty of youngsters waiting around to act as the tow.

Young Mr. Allison said yesterday that he was perfecting a plan by which he can use a horse to tow. The only thing troubling him is to bet a horse that won't be frightened when it is hitched to something that will go up as soon as he gets a moving. The inventor said he did not expect to use more than one rope, which would be about 400 feet long and which would be made fast to the centre of the lower plane. He woudl find a way, he said, to release the rope in the event the horse became frightend and tried to run away.

Amusing stories are told of what the Governors Island glider has been mistaken for. Many have concluded that it was the real thing and that it was operated by an aviator tuning up for a cross-country flight. One day a reporter saw it from a ferry boat, and that afternoon his paper came out with the announcement that it was what was left of a machine that was used by Atwood on his record-breaking flight from St. Louis to New York. Another theory was that a Governors Island officer had invented a new machine that would revolutionize aerial warfare. Several aviators of note have see nthe Allison glider, and all of them pronounce it a very clever piece of work.

GETS $50,000 FOR MISSIONS.

Simpson Draws $169 Cash and the Balance in Promises.

The Rev. A. B. Simpson gathered in $50,000, mostly in promises, at the closing session of the annual convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance at the Gospel Tabernacle, Eighth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, yesterday morning. This is the largest amount gathered or subscribed for the mission work of the alliance is any of the twenty-five years or more the alliance has been at work.

Mr. Simpson told the audience that he wanted no "loose change," but loose change came in in the $169 cash dumped on Treasurer David Crear's table by the basket carriers, containing nickels and dimes as well as twenty-dollar bills.

Many of the men as well as the women present wept as the Rev. Mr. Simpson told of the hardships and dangers suffered by the missionaries of the alliance, and when he made an appeal for real self-sacrifice in the matter of giving he was interrupted by offerings from individuals too enthusiastic to wait for the collection.

"Now is the time," said Mr. Simpson, "for you to show how important you think God's message is to the world; whether you are wrapped up in self and content to let His messengers go out into the world, into danger, to possible death, without the concrete aid that may make their work a success, or whether you are going to give them a helping hand and encourage them in their noble endeavors. This is not the time for us to offer loose change; real money is what is needed this time. We would rather that you gave nothing, but if you can offer a year's sacrifice instead of loose change it would be more acceptable. The offerings at this time should indicate what you can and are willing to sacrifice, not merely what you can afford to give."

Before taking up the pledge cards and supplementary cash contributions Mr. Simpson got nearly all of those present to stand up as an indication that they were willing themselves to go to the mission fields.

More than 350 cards were filled out, and although the names of the donors were withheld, Mr. Simpson announced the amounts. The largest was $6,000 and the next $4,500. Seven other contributions announced ranged from $3,000 down to $1,000.

DROWNS IN HIS BATHTUB.

Aged Victim of Vertigo Found Dead on His Wife's Return from Church.

When Mrs. Nellie Ramee and her two sons returned from church yesterday morning to their home at 1,722 West Second Street, Brooklyn, they were met at the outer door by Otto Krieger, who has the apartment beneath theirs. Krieger said the water was leaking through the ceiling of his bathroom, and he believed there must be a leak in the pipes.

The three hurried upstairs and found the bathroom door locked. This was broken down, and they found Victor Ramee, the husband and father, a man 72 years old, who had been subject to fits or vertigo, in the bathtub completely submerged and water flowing over the sides of the tub.

A doctor said Mr. Ramee had been drowned and probably had been dead for half an hour.

MANY HOLY NAME PARADES.

Religious Societies March and Hold Open-Air Services in Jersey Towns.

Of eight Holy Name Society demonstrations in New Jersey yesterday, Jersey City turned out the largest. More than 12,000 members of nineteen societies marched two miles, from Highland Avenue, on Hudson Boulevard, to the new Hudson County Park, where an oration was delivered. Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. John F. Ryan of St. Bridget's Church, assisted by the Rev. P. W. Smith of St. John's and the Rev. Joseph Mulhall of St. Anne's. Fully 35,000 men and women were present. During the benediction 500 boy voices sang "O Salutaris," "Tantum Ergo," and "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

In the Newark parade 10,000 took part. The parade formed at Military Park and marched to Ridge Street, where it was reviewed by Abbot Ernest Helmstetter, O. S. B. After the review the societies assembled in the Bayley Lyceum, where addresses were made by the Rev. James A. Cloherty of Seton Hall College, Edward J. Sweeney of Bayonne, and the Rev. M. P. Corcoran, President of the Newark ivision of the societies. Benediction was pronounced by Mgr. Stecher of St. Peter's, Newark.

The annual parade in Bayonne was one of the biggest ever held in that city. About 5,000 men took part, and the parade was reviewed at St. Mary's Church by Bishop John J. O'Connor. A service was held at Broadway and Fourth Street, where a sermon was delivered by the Rev. W. F. Dittrich of Bound Brook.

UTAH CHOIR COMING HERE.

Two Hundreds Tabernacle Voices Will Sing at Madison Square Garden.

The Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, founded in 1851 with thirty voices and since grown to 500 voices, is sending 200 of its singers to give concerts at the American Land and Irrigation Exposition to be held in Madison Square Garden from Nov. 3 to 12. Its members include every creed and political affiliation in Utah, and are representative business men, bankers, mining men, and merchants of the State. One business firm contributes eight voices, and pays the salaries of the men and girls while they are away from Utah.

Prof. Evan Stephens, the present conductor of the choir, has held the place for twenty-one years. Under his leadership the choir has sung for Presidents and rulers, and has made several successful tours, beginning in August, 1893, with a trip to the World's Fair at Chicago, where it won the $1,000 prize at the Welsh Eisteddfod, and ending with a recent visit to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition at Seattle.

The choir will sing the "Irrigation Ode," written by Mrs. Gilbert McClurg, with music by Prof. John J. McClellan, the Tabernacle organist; the $100 prize song, "The Empire State," by "Desire Stanton," with music by Mrs. G. Marschal-Loepke, and other songs of the soil.

An Early Trial for Cummins.

The District Attorney's office will ask Justice Page, sitting in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, to-day to set the day for the trial of William J. Cummins, Chairman of the Executive Committee and controlling factor in the defunct Carnegie Trust Company. On March 21 he was indicted on three charges of grand larceny. The prosecution will rest upon one charge relating to a $140,000 transaction with the Nineteenth Ward Bank. It is believed that the trial will be under way within the next ten days.

BENNETT TROPHY WON BY GERMAN BALLOON

Berlin II., Thought Lost in Storm, Lands in Wisconsin, 468 Miles from Kansas City.

LAHM BUFFETED BY GALE

United States Lieutenant in the Buckeye Forced to Land After Traveling 365 Miles.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 8.—In winning the James Gordon Bennett Trophy in the international balloon race which started from this city on Thursday Lieut. Hans Gericke, pilot of the Berlin II., was lost to the world for the third time.

Last night, after all the other entries in the race had been heard from, a telegram was sent by the Aero Club of Kansas City to Adjt. Gen. Ainsworth of the United States Army, asking that all life-saving stations in the Great Lakes region be requested to look for the German balloon.

Shortly after this telegram was sent a message was received from Lieut. Gericke telling of his landing at Ladysmith, Wis., at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. He had traveled 468 miles. Gericke and his aid, F. O. Dunker, who came from Germany with the pilot, landed in a wilderness, uninjured, but were unable to reach a telegraph station before midnight.

Lieut. Gericke was given up as lost last year in the international race, which started from St. Louis. In the German balloon Dusseldorff II. he was in the air forty-two hours, traveling 1,100 miles and landing in the wilderness of Canada, from which he and his aid emerged four days later after enduring many hardships.

Gericke also was given up as lost last Summer when he went up from Berlin in the German elimination race. He drifted out over the North Sea. He was sighted in England, but was again lost from view over the North Sea. He finally landed in France.

The nearest rival of the German balloon in this year's race was the Buckeye, piloted by Lieut. Frank P. Lahm of the United States Army. It landed near Lacrosse, Wis., 370 miles from Kansas City. Lieut. Lahm and his aid, J. H. Wade, Jr., landed in a swamp, suffering greatly from the cold, having encountered a severe storm after having passed over Chicago and drifted out over Lake Michigan. They met a southward current which completely changed their course. They tried to rise above this, but succeeded only in finding a current which carried them westward. They were both worn out and exhausted with their nine-hour vigil, and it was decided that they land.

E. R. Hunnewell, who went up as aid to Arthur T. Atherholt, pilot of the Pennsylvania, returned to Kansas City last night. He says that when they decided to come down their valve failed to work and they resorted to the rip cord at a height of 3,000 feet. The balloon fell swiftly and hit the ground with terrific force.

In winning this year's race Germany has taken the Bennett Cup from America, into whose possession it would permanently have fallen if this country had been victorious. America had won the championship for two successive years. The next race will be held in Germany.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8.—J. H. Wade, Jr., who, with Lieut. Frank P. Lahm of Mansfield, Ohio, took part in the international balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett Cup Trophy in the balloon Buckeye, has returned here, and relates a thrilling story of their perilous flight. Lost for hours in the darkness high above the clouds, driven miles over the country by a terrific gale, forced to the ground by heavy rains, and dragged through woods and across fences were some of the experiences of last Thursday night and Friday morning. They were finally compelled to land in the centre of the Wisconsin flood district, having covered 365 miles and having been in the air nine hours.

"Starting from Kansas City at 6 o'clock Thursday night," said Mr. Wade, "before dark we were high above the clouds. For hours we flew through utter darkness and intense cold. After midnight we ran into a veritable tempest. The rain weighed the balloon down like lead, and we were forced down steadily despite our throwing out ballast. The gale was blowing fifty miles an hour. Drenched to the skin and blinded by the wind and rain, we were almost helpless. The rain was holding us down, while the wind was sweeping us onard.

"Owing to the darkness, wind, rain, and clouds we never knew just where we were. It as growing too hazardous to keep going. Now we were swinging over fields, going through fences, splashing in great puddles, plowing through thick woods, or just missing striking farm buildings.

"So we threw out our anchor in a cornfield not far from Millstown, Monroe County, Wis., in the centre of the flood area, and not far from the Black River.

"Neither of us was injured in the flight."

TWO ON A NIGHT AIR SAIL.

New England Balloonists Have a Tortuous Trip from Pittsfield to Freehold.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEHOLD, N. J., Oct. 8.—After being in the air seven and a half hours Jay B. Benton of The Boston Transcript and William Van Sleet of Pittsfield, Mass., who started from Aero Park, Pittsfield, at midnight last night in a balloon, landed at Siloam, near this town, at 7:30 this morning. They said it had been the most delightful aerial voyage they had ever experienced.

Both are balloon pilots, members of the Aero Club of New England. It was Mr. Van Sleet's eightieth trip, twenty-nine of them having been made at night. Mr. Benton has made twenty-six trips, nine of which were at night.

Their landing was a sandy road in the pines. A farmer brought them to Freehold in a wagon.

Ascending at midnight, they started south and went sixty miles in that direction. Finding themselves over Long Island, and fearing that they would be carried out to sea, they threw out ballast and ascended to an altitude where they found a breeze that carried them in a westerly direction. They crossed the Hudson River at Yonkers at 4:30 this morning, where a flashlight was thrown on them from a passing steamboat, the pilot of which had signaled them to land.

While not certain of the points passed they believe they crossed over Paterson, Newark, and Long Branch, and then were carried west again, passing over Trenton and nearing Philadelphia before a change of wind turned them back.

CIRCLES ST. LOUIS BRIDGES.

Robinson Tests Hydro-Aeroplane for St. Paul-New Orleans Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 8.—The hydro-aeroplane of Hugh Robinson arose from the mists of the Mississippi River this morning and circled over and under the bridges that span the river at St. Louis. Robinson flew for more than twenty minutes. He first appeared at 10:38. The aviator's assistants shoved the plane into the river, with the air-tight boat suspended beneath. The boat plowed its way into the water, sending a cloud of spray into the air.

The machine turned easily in the water and arose in the air without apparent effort, pointing its nose southward. It cleared the roadway of the Eads Bridge by several hundred feet and went as far as the Municipal Bridge. There it described a graceful turn and sank low in the air and passed under the Eads Bridge span. The aviator allowed the plane almost to touch the water, then arose again, flying over the Merchants' Bridge and diving under the spans of the McKinley Bridge. He disappeared around the bend of the river to the north and landed at a postal station established in North St. Louis and delivered mail. Returning, he went over the McKinley Bridge and under the Mrchants'; then he guided the machine to shore. Assistants seized the plane and drew it ashore without any of the party getting wet.

Robinson will fly from St. Paul to New Orleans late this month.

AUTO WRECKED, CHILD SAVED

Only Way the Driver Could Avoid Running the Little One Down.

There were many persons in Plum Street, Union Hill, N. J., yesterday afternoon when an automobile turned the corner from Park Avenue at a rapid clip. Five-year-old Maggie Matlidge, daughter of H. R. Matlidge of Jefferson Avenue, had just stepped into the street and was directly in the path of the auto.

Women screamed and several men sprang for the child. They were many feet away when the automobile was almost on the child. Driving the machine and alone in it was Charles Kock of 230 Hancock Avenue, Jersey City. He turned his car on to the sidewalk when he saw that otherwise he could not avoid the child, and drove full tilt into the heavy brick wall of Goulet Brothers' embroidery factory.

The car passed so close to the little girl as to set her skirts blowing, but it did not touch her. It was smashed against the wall, and Kock was sent flying out over the steering wheel. He landed in the gutter, but escaped with no injuries other than a few cuts and bruises. The car was wrecked.

RODGERS FLYING FAST ARRIVES AT CHICAGO

Greeted by Thousands, He Rests a While, Then Goes Thirty-five Miles Further.

1,234 MILES ON HIS WAY

Delayed by Storms and Accidents Since Leaving New York on Sept. 17 for San Francisco.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Alighting from his aeroplane at Grant Park at noon, amid the cheering of thousands who had assembled to greet him, Aviator Galbraith P. Rodgers finished the one thousand one hundred and ninety-ninth mile of his ocean-to-ocean flight for the $50,000 prize offered by William R. Hearst.

Later in the day Rodgers flew on to Dellwood Park, about thirty-five miles from Chicago, making the total distance he has traveled since he left New York 1,234 miles.

The aviator arrived from Hammond, Ind., at 11:59 o'clock, covering the distance, twenty-six miles, in twenty-four minutes, an average of more than a mile a minute. He was delayed two days at Hammond on account of adverse winds and rain. Conditions improved to-day and the aviator resumed his journey.

Rodgers flew into Chicago over the South Side at a height of from 1,500 to 2,000 feet, landing in Grant Park in front of the place occupied by his old hangar during the aviation meet here in August. Thousands of churchgoers just leaving their places of worship assembled in groups in the streets to watch the airman as he flew over their heads. After greeting the crowd warmly, Rodgers left his machine in one of the hollows of the park and repaired to the La Salle Hotel for luncheon. He took a short rest, then motored about the city with his mother.

Rodgers covered the 1,199 miles between New York and Chicago in a total flying time of 21 hours and 53 minutes. His fastest mile was made in 44 seconds, and he has made many miles at 48 seconds.

Aside from his flight in the contest, Rodgers is demonstrating the possibility of carrying mail by aeroplane. As a proof he delivered letters to E. B. Merritt for J. Ogden Armour, and also letters to his brother, Lieut. John R. Rodgers, U. S. N., and Frank M. Whiting of Neenah, Wis., at present in Chicago. In his mail bag Rodgers has letters from Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant to the Commander of the Department of the Pacific; from the Commanding Officer of the Atlantic Fleet to Rear Admiral Thomas of the Pacific Squadron, and from Postmaster General Hitchcock for the Chicago Postmaster. He was intrusted by several Chicagoans with postcards and letters addressed to Fort Worth, Houston, Dallas, and El Paso, Texas.

Rodgers was scheduled to leave Chicago for Joliet in continuing his trip at 2 o'clock. An immense crowd had assembled as early as 1 o'clock to see Rodgers off, and when he drove into the field in an automobile at 3:30 there were fully 8,000 persons present. Policemen had to clear a space sufficient for him to start his aeroplane in by force, so eager was the crowd. Rodgers spent half an hour tuning and warming his engine. He ascended at 4:01 on the first trial, while the crowd cheered itself wild. Circling around the field twice, he started south at an altitude of 1,200 feet on his way to Joliet.

He soon lost his way, however, an after flying to Lake Calumet, thence to Jackson Park, thus wasting 55 minutes in an effort to locate the Drainage Canal, he sighted a special train on the Chicago & Alton tracks at Argo, 13 miles from Chicago. From Argo to Dellwood Park Rodgers flew at the rate of a mile in 48 seconds, making a landing in a field near Dellwood Park at 5:20 o'clock.

Rodgers will fly over the Joliet prison to-morrow for the benefit of the convicts, whom Warden Murphy will allow in the yard to see the cross-country aviator. Rodgers will start at 7 o'clock, weather permitting, and will stop at Streator, Peoria, and Springfield.

Galbraith P. Rodgers started on Sept. 17 as a competitor in the contest for the prize of $50,000 offered by William R. Hearst for a coast to coast flight within a month in an aeroplane. He left the Sheepshead Bay race track at 4:25 in the afternoon and flew to Middletown, eighty miles. In making this flight he flew directly over the city's skyscrapers in order to connect with the Erie Railroad tracks at Jersey City.

Early the next morning he tried to resume his flight. In his efforts to avoid some telegraph wires at the starting point he crashed into a tree and demolished his Wright biplane. His machine had to be practically rebuilt, and it was Sept. 21 before he was able to take the air again. His rebuilt machine worked perfectly and with the wind aiding him he was able to fly 96 miles to Hancock, near Port Jervis, in about 70 minutes. Here his engine worked imperfectly and this and an approaching storm made him abandon further flight for the day.

The following day he reached Elmira, 110 miles nearer his destination. He lost his way, and really traveled about 200 miles. On Sept. 23 he flew to Canisteo, about sixty-five miles. His engine worked badly. After a flight of ninety-one miles to Salamanca, on Sept. 24, he was compelled to land because his magneto was not working properly. He landed in a field of matted grass which clung to his skids when he attempted to rise. After two or three attempts he crashed into a fence. This necessitated repairs to the biplane, and prevented further flights for the next two days. On the 27th a storm prevented a flight.

His best flight, so far, was made on Sept. 28, when he reached Kent, Ohio, 204 miles, on the way to the Pacific. A gale kept the machine on the ground for a day, and on Sept. 30 the went ninety-five miles, to Rivarre, Ind. In making his flight of thirty-six miles to Huntington, Ind., on Oct. 1 he encountered a severe storm, but flew through it successfully.

Shortly after getting off the ground on Oct. 2 he was forced down by a sudden puff of wind. The entire left side of his machine was smashed, and he spent the two following days in making repairs. Oct. 5 saw him on his way again, and he reached Hammond, Ind., after a flight of 123 miles, where he was again delayed by rain and wind.

TWO "BOY SOLDIERS" SHOT.

Italian Wounds Them When They Resent Being Likened to Turks.

As Edward Lawton and Edward Campbell, both of 224 Prospect Street, 20 years old and members of the newly formed First Regiment of Jamaica, were talking last night at Puntine Street and Clayton Place, Jamaica, an Italian laughed at them, calling them boy soldiers and comparing them to Turks.

Lawton sprang angrily toward him, whereupon the Italian shot Lawton through the right arm and both legs, wounded Campbell in the right hand, and escaped. Residents of the neighborhood called Dr. Shawe, who took the young soldiers to the Jamaica Hospital, saying that they would recover. The police searched for the Italian, but late last night had found no trace of him.

FRANCE WATCHING US IN MOROCCAN CRISIS

Seemed to Find a Growing Sentiment Here in Her Favor, Consulate's Attorney Says.

IGNORED STEUBEN INCIDENT

Though Dedication of the Statue on Sedan Day Ordinarily Would Have Aroused Resentment.

Maurice Leon, attorney in New York for the French Consulate and for other French interests, returned from Europe Saturday, and at the Bar Association last evening had several things to say about the Moroccan situation and Franco-American finance.

"During August and September," he said, "I was in close touch with the Government officials and with some of the leading journalists and bankers in Paris who molded French policy in the Morocco crisis. Every one in a representative position seemed to watch with great interest the development of a strong public opinion in the United States in favor of the French side. Editorial and special articles on Morocco in the American press called forth considerable gratification, particularly THE NEW YORK TIMES and Sun editorial articles, and special articles over the name of Prof. Gottheil of Columbia gave evidence of expert knowledge in the United States on what was for the time the biggest European question.

"On this account the dedication of the Steuben Statue at Potsdam on Sept. 2, which is Sedan Day, the anniversary of the most crushing defeat for the French in the Franco-Prussian war, was allowed by the French press to pass almost unnoticed, when, under ordinary circumstances, it would have aroused resentment.

"As it was, no Frenchman could understand how an American Congressional delegation was persuaded to accept that date for presenting to the German nation a statue of a General who, although a German, was sent to the United States by the French War Office in the War of Independence and paid by the United States Government with money borrowed from France at a time when the United States had no credit, so that the advance was one of many acts of friendship which contributed to the success of the American Revolution.

"The Temps recalled these facts in a brief article which showed to what extent Steuben, although a German, had been in fact a French contribution to the Revolutionary forces. I may add that Sedan Day this year had almost the significance of an anti-French demonstration, occurring as it did at a particularly critical period of the Franco-German negotiations.

"The interest of the United States in the Morocco question is regarded in France as a natural consequence of the participation of this Government in the Algeciras conference. If an agreement should be reached by France and Germany, of course the sanction of the United States becomes necessary before that agreement can become operative.

"In that contingency, France can rely upon the consent of her ally Russia, of her partner England, and of her neighbors, Spain and Italy, who are committed to the French policy in Morocco by prior agreements. Germany on her side will have no difficulty in obtaining the indorsement of her ally, Austria-Hungary. The United States stands as the great independent signatory of the Algeciras agreement, and our immediate ratification of the compact, if made, would serve as an example to the minor powers who were also signatories.

"Personally, I do not feel that it is for the best interests of France that an agreement should be made. I think France can well afford to let the situation in Morocco remain what it is, instead of giving Germany a large part of the Congo in exchange for alleged rights in Morocco which Germany never possessed. And the worst of the compact, if made now upon lines hoped for by Germany, is that it would encourage the German policy of asserting a non-existent right in order to obtain what has already been dubbed a 'pourboire.'

"The international situation makes discussion of financial questions almost useless, for while war clouds overhang Europe, gold will be hoarded in France and no introduction of foreign securities on a large scale will be attempted, but the listing of American shares on the Paris Bourse is still discussed a good deal in Paris. In the conferences I had with the Ministers and with the Syndic of the Paris Bourse, M. de Verneuil, the matter was considered, and without quoting anybody I may say that the listing of the best American securities is on the whole looked upon favcrably, provided the legitimate interests of French investors are properly considered both as to the legal protection of the security itself and its permanent circulation in France, and last, but not least, as to the price at which the stock is actually sold to the public. As a friend of American investments, I would say that it is to the best interests of the United States at large that the French investor should make money and not lose money on his purchase of our securities."

Philadelphia Association Wants Arizona Agent and Subordinates Removed.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The Indian Rights Association of this city, through Herbert Welsh, its Corresponding Secretary, to-day issued a statement calling for the immediate removal of J. B. Alexander, Indian Agent at Pima, near Phoenix, Ariz., and six of his subordinates.

The association complains that, after more than a year of investigation and a recommendation of removal by an Interior Department Inspector, the Bureau of Indian Affairs' red tape has always intervened to prevent Alexander's removal, and that the Superintendent, who has been declared by officials of the bureau to be incompetent and dishonest, still holds his place, although the final recommendation for his removal was made more than eleven weeks ago. The association wants Alexander prosecuted under the criminal statutes by the Attorney General.

CHARGES A HOLD-UP OF THE BARGE CANAL

Republican Club Document Foresees a Loss of $4,000,000 a Year in Interest Alone.

ATTACKS ENGINEER BENSEL

For Lobbying to Increase His "Menacingly Great Power"—The Case of the Troy Dam Set Forth.

Charges that the Democratic Canal Board is holding up the State Barge Canal, thereby risking a loss to the State of $4,000,000 a year in interest alone, and that the new Democratic State Engineer has devoted a large part of his time to lobbying bills through the Legislature which will increase his "already menacingly great power," are made by the Campaign Committee of the Republican Club in a report issued yesterday. The Campaign Committee is investigating the Democratic administration of State affairs, an dthe report dealing with the Canal Board is only one of a series. It is a brief document, and leaves details to the records of the committee. It reads:

It will be recalled that in the Governorship campaig none of the main issues was the bad record of the previous Democratic State Engineer, Mr. Frederick R. Skene, and the probable Tammanyizing of the $101,000,000 Barge Canal and the $50,000,000 expenditures on good roads.

This report shows how well grounded were the apprehensions of civic bodies on this score. Since assuming office Mr. Bensel, the State Engineer, has held up practically all important contracts until the Advisory Board could be abolished, which alone gave a check upon full Tammany control of the Barge Canal. A very material portion of Mr. Bensel's time was devoted not to engineering but to lobbying through the Legislature these bills to increase his own already menacingly great power.

Not only has the completion of the Barge Canal been delayed but its whole usefulness is threatened by some inexplicable manipulations which have occurred in connection with the Troy Dam. The Barge Canal means the diversion to New York City of a very large volume of freights that now go down the St. Lawrence, and are shipped from Montreal. Every delay in this Barge Canal means an enormous loss to the City of New York.

On Nov. 15, 1910, the Republican Barge Canal Board formally abandoned the old State Dam at Troy. This abandonment terminated a fifty-year lease giving the right to a private corporation to use surplus waters of the Hudson at a price of $600 a year, a privilege granted several years ago, from which the company has made as much as $20,000 a year profit. Not only was this unprofitable lease wiped out but the Republican officials had secured from the Federal Government an appropriation and an agreement to make a big new dam at Troy with locks large enough to take the two thousand-ton barges of the New York Barge Canal.

On April 26, 1911, the new Democratic Canal Board passed a resolution rescinding the resolution for the destruction of the Old Troy Dam, thus, in effect, attempting to recreate the vested rights of the old lease, which could be abrogated only on the destruction of the dam. Also, this holds up the Federal Government's work on the new dam and may result in years of litigation. If this condition continues, the 2,000 ton barges from the Erie, Champlain, and Oswego Canals will be absolutely barred from entry into the Hudson, because the present Troy State Dam has locks only permitting 240-ton boats to pass. For each year that the Barge Canal cannot be utilized the State loses four per cent. on $103,000,000, or approximately $4,000,000 a year, a heavy price to pay in order to permit a private corporation to retain its grasp on the State Waterway.

Chairman Bates of the Campaign Committee said last night that the report had been prepared after consultation with several of the leading engineers of the city.

CALLS KINGS JAIL UNFIT.

Should Be Abandoned, Says Prison Commissioner Solomon.

ALBANY, Oct. 8.—After an inspection of the Kings County Jail in Brooklyn, Henry Solomon, a member of the State Prison Commission, has filed his report setting forth the conditions as he found them. The report says:

"This disgraceful prison is more like a poor grade tenement house, and is not worthy to be called a jail. It is not fireproof and should be abandoned at once. There is accommodation for about the number of inmates that I found, (eight.) Such being the case, one can imagine the terrible place it must be when it is overcrowded.

"In the early part of this year its normal population was augmented by forty-three Greeks who were arrested by the Government. I understand that most of them were there from two to three months. During that time the beds were put close together, forming one large bed the width of the rooms, and the prisoners slept as best they could, two or three in a narrow bed, and from the number of beds I saw many must have lain on the floor.

"If one were to read such an account of a prison in Siberia he would hold up his hands with horror, and to allow such a state of affairs to exist in the City of New York is unpardonable.

"In view of the fact that my previous report was equally disparaging and that no change for the better has been made, I recommend that the matter be immediately brought to the attention of the city authorities for action."

Commissioner Solomon reports that while the city prison of Brooklyn is in good condition there is urgent necessity for a hospital building.

DR. GROSVENOR MADE DEAN.

He Is Installed in That Office at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Before an audience which packed the auditorium of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine Dr. William Mercer Grosvenor was installed as dean of that edifice yesterday by the Right Rev. David H. Greer, Bishop of New York. Dr. Grosvenor has the distinction of being the first dean of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the New York diocese, the cathedral having been opened barely six months ago.

After completing the ritual of the installation ceremony Bishop Greer made a short address preceding the installation. He said that in the six months that the cathedral had been open it had already justified itself, and that at this time even those who had doubted the wisdom of constructing the edifice had admitted that they were mistaken.

"It can become a mighty power for the right interpreting of religion for this age," said the Bishop. "It is most important that the people of this modern age be made to realize that religion is not a side issue. Religion is not set aside from social, industrial, Governmental, National, or international affairs, but is a part of each and all of them."

LUCK OF A POULTRY MAN.

Kills Looter of His Coop by the Blindest Sort of Chance.

Caspar Robling, a farmer of Richfield, five miles from Bloomfield, N. J., accidentally shot himself in the left hand early yesterday and at the same time killed a mink which had been hiding in a large tuft of tall grass near by.

For some time Mr. Robling has been missing chickens and yesterday morning discovered the loss of a prize-winning rooster. Vowing vengeance on everything and anything, as he left the coop, he spied a neighbor's dog crossing a field adjoining his yard. He got his shotgun and started in pursuit of the dog. He tripped on some underbrush, and as he fell the gun was discharged, and several shot entered his hand. As he arose to his feet he saw lying in front of him a dead mink, and alongside of it the feathers and a portion of the carcass of his prize rooster.

$350,000 DOWNTOWN FIRE.

One Building Practically Destroyed and Several Others Threatened.

Fire which threatened for a time to destroy the block bounded by Pine, Water, Wall, and Front Streets yesterday morning wrecked the six-story stone building at 127 and 129 Water Street, doing damage which the police estimate at $350,000. Three alarms were turned in, and the extra force of firemen, with the fireboat Zophar Mills and the new auto water tower, under Acting Chief Martin, had a stubborn fight for more than two hours before the blaze was got under control and the surrounding property saved.

The fire started in the cellar of the Water Street building, in the carpenter shop of William Campbell. It had evidently been smoldering since Saturday night. Mrs. Kate Redmond, who has charge of the building, awoke at about 5:30 A. M., and the odor of smoke was apparent. She went downstairs, and in front of the building met Patrolman Fitzgerald of the Old Slip Station. An alarm was turned in, and the firemen responded, with Battalion Chief Rush in command. They went into the building and forced their way into the cllar, where the fire was rapidly spreading.

The firemen were soon forced out of the building, and Battalion Chief Rush sent in a second alarm. This brought Acting Chief Martin to the scene, and he gave a third alarm.

It was seen that the burning building was doomed, and the efforts of the firemen were directed to saving the adjoining property.

They fought the flames from the roofs of the surrounding buildings and from the tops of the buildings across the street.

UPHOLDS STRIKE PICKETING.

Magistrate Butts Says Injunction Doesn't Bar Peaceful Methods.

Magistrate Butts in the Yorkville Court upheld yesterday the right of unions to station pickets while a strike was in progress, and discharged a picket who had been arrested for assaulting a private detective employed to guard the new Vanderbilt Hotel, where for nine weeks the marble workers have been on a strike.

The picket, Patrick Daly of 3,186 Broadway, who was arrested by Patrolman Ryan on complaint of Albert Disbrow, testified that while doing picket work he was about to speak to Samuel Matthews, a marble worker, when Disbrow said he was under arrest. Daly asked him to show his authority, whereupon, Daly said, Disbrow grabbed him.

The attorney for the complainant insisted that the strikers had been enjoined from picketing by Justice Goff, but Magistrate Butts said:

"A union has a perfect right to station pickets at a place where they are on strike, providing that the pickets do their picketing in a peaceful and lawful way. If they do not do their picketing in a lawful way then they should be punished. There is no evidence here that the men of this union did not conduct their picketing in a lawful manner, and the defendant is discharged."

Charles A. Kearney, Secretary of the Executive Board of the Marble Workers' Union, said that he would ask to-day for the arrest of a private detective who stabbed a picket. The latter is dying in Bellevue Hospital. Kearney said he had men to identify the one who did the stabbing.

1,000 WOMEN PRAY FOR HER.

Members of a Mission Join in a Plea for a Priest's Mother's Life.

For the last week 1,000 women, attending a mission conducted in the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Montclair, N. J., have been offering up prayers in unison that Mrs. C. H. Brothers of 11 Summer Avenue, Orange, may live until the arrival to-day of her son, the Rev. Father William A. Brothers, pastor of the church. He is aboard the steamer George Washington, which will dock at Hoboken about 10 A. M.

Father Brothers left on a European trip several weeks ago, and after his departure his mother, who is 76 years old, fell ill. When her condition became serious the priest was notified by cable, and he made arrangements to hurry back to this country. Mrs. Brothers's sole desire is that she may be spared until his return, and this was communicated to the women attending the mission in progress by the Passionist Fathers, who are in charge of the services.

Each day and night at all the services prayers have been offered for the mother of the priest. The doctors in attendance on the sick woman say that they are powerless to render further aid in prolonging life. At the home of Mrs. Brothers it is said that her condition is unchanged and the members of the family think she will survive until her son's arrival.

ST. PATRICK'S ANNIVERSARY.

Vicar General Compares Peace of the Church Here with Its Worries Abroad.

Pontifical high mass was celebrated at St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday in observance of the first anniversary of the consecration of that edifice. Vicar General Joseph F. Mooney, who preached the sermon, compared the peaceful prosperity of the Church in New York and America generally with its worries and reverses abroad.

"There the great men of earth have combined against her," he said. "The bark of Peter is sailing upon troubled seas, beset by cross currents and beat upon by storms. The spirit of anti-Christ is assailing our brothers, and what sha.. the outcome be?"

He quoted the prophecy of Isaiah, "No weapon forged against Thee shall prosper and every tongue that resisteth Thine shall wither," as indicating the final triumph of the Church abroad. "One thing is certain," he declared. "God's Word will not fail, and His promise shall not lack fulfillment."

Archbishop Farley, attended by Mgr. John Edwards and Mgr. P. J. Hayes, presided, and Bishop T. F. Cusack celebrated the mass. The venerable Bishop of Ogdensburg, the Rev. Henri Gabriels, who was for many years President of St. Joseph's Seminary in Troy, and under whose direction most of the priests of this diocese were educated, had a seat of honor.

WANT BRICK-BUILT HOSPITALS

Labor Organizations Urge the Health Commissioner to Recommend Them.

Labor organizations made up of bricklayers, plasterers, and structural ironworkers, which are opposing the use of concrete in the construction of municipal buildings, have been assured by Health Commissioner Lederle that in cases where it can be shown that a brick building can be erected at less cost to the city than a concrete one the work will be given to them.

The Health Bureau is planning to expend nearly $1,000,000 on new hospital buildings and pavilions to be erected shortly, and the brick workers are eager to get as much of this work as possible.

Representatives of the bricklayers and plasterers called on Dr. Lederle on Thursday to take up with him the question of brick buildings for hospital purposes. They told him that the type of building at present used by the city for a pavilion or hospital could be built from 10 to 15 per cent. cheaper in brick than in concrete, and in much less time. The Health Bureau is soon to erect two new hospital pavilions on North Brother Island for tuberculosis cases, and they informed Dr. Lederle that they would like to have the opportunity to do this work.

Dr. Lederle advised the men to have a committee take up the matter with the city architect, and then to estimate the cost at which they could erect such buildings for his department in brick.

Two Siamese Boys Enter Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Two young men from Siam have entered Cornell University. They are Nai Nab, who is to study agriculture, and Nai Kimbee, who is to take the course in arts, specializing in chemistry. They were sent here by their Government after competitive examinations.

CHILDREN AT BUDGET SHOW.

Were in Majority Yesterday—New Nam for "The Island."

About 15,000 persons, most of them children, visited the Budget Exhibit yesterday. To-day will be Education Day. Vice President John Greene and John Martin of the Board of Education and Dr. Andrew W. Edson, Associate Superintendent of Schools, will speak, and motion pictures will be shown of work in the schools.

Only five ballots were cast on Saturday at the Charities Division of the exhibit against changing the name of Blackwell's Island to Hospital Park. Over 15,000 have voted in favor of changing the name.

Answering adverse comments that have appeared, Commissioner Drummond said:

"I have a great deal of respect for landmarks and bona fide historic places that may be of special interest to the youth of our day; but I am not aware of any claim Blackwell's Island has to that distinction. The name of the Island was changed three times, at least, and until it was bought by the city it was entirely in the hands of private families, so those who think the name ought to be retained on account of its 'historical value' are, in my humble opinion, exaggerating the importance of its history.

"The gentleman named Blackwell who fell heir to it by marriage ties did nothing that I can discover which should act as an argument against changing a name that has become loathsome to the public. By this I mean no reflection on the name Blackwell, (several persons bearing it have approved the proposal.) I simply offer the thought that Blackwell's Island is celebrated all over the world for its penal institution, and not for the the extraordinary works of humanity performed in the hospitals and homes under the direction of this department.

"It is the intention of the city to remove the penal institutions; but the name of 'The Island,' abominable to the ears of respectable people, would still cling to the place if another were not substituted. There is not another large city in the world where the charitable activities are so closely identified with prison life, and it is this fact that galls the people of New York.

"I am not especially attached to the substitute 'Hospital Park,' but I'll stick to it until somebody suggests something better. The point is that the public seems to have made up its mind to make its charity genuine, to make the sick poor and the aged feel that they are going to a hospital or a home, and not to the penitentiary or the workhouse."

Saw 3 Russian Emperors Crowned.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Moseson of 1,841 Clinton Avenue, the Bronx, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday. They were married in Russia in 1861.

Mr. and Mrs. Moseson recall many interesting historical events. They witnessed the coronation of three Russian Emperors.

WILSON, MOSQUITO HUNTER.

Orange Residents to Urge That He Plan a War to the Death.

An appeal is practically certain to go from Orange, N. J., to Gov. Wilson asking him to send a message to the Legislature on the mosquito. He will be asked to recommend that a commission be created with powers ample to wage a war to the death against the pest.

The appeal will go from the New England Society of Orange, which discussed at its meeting there on Saturday night a set of resolutions urging the appeal, and then referred them to the Public Welfare Committee for future presentation in due form.

In their present form the resolutions set forth emphatically the position of the State as ridiculous, in that it does nothing as a Commonwealth to get rid of its worst enemy. It is pointed out that, since the Federal Government established so conclusively that the insect could be routed, it is a reproach to the State that it has been allowed to persist here. The cost of getting rid of it, the author of the resolutions says, would not be more than one-half of one per cent. of the tax ratables in any section where the buzzers are now pestiferous.

The "skeeter" crop in the Oranges was unusually heavy this year, and is still in evidence, in spite of several cold days.

COST OF SOUL SAVING VARIES IN BOSTON

Pastors Put Outlay at Less Than "Billy." Sunday's Estimate of $450 a Soul.

METHODIST SPENT LEAST

Cost One Church Only $3.12—Baptist Found Each Cost $70, and a Congregationalist $143.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Although statistics prepared by "Billy" Sunday, evangelist, on the cost of soul-saving in the big population centres of the country, put the expense in Boston at $450 per soul, ministers of three of the leading churches here estimate the figure at less.

Their calculations range from $3.12 to $143 per soul. The lowest estimate was made by a Methodist pastor, the highest by a Congregationalist, while a Baptist minister fixes a medium figure.

The Rev. Herbert Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, declares the average cost of saving a soul in his church last year was $70. He says:

"There is only one way by which one can obtain the approximate cost of saving a soul, and that is by taking the cost of running a church, and dividing it by the number of apparent conversions made in a year. Our expenses are $14,000, and we had 200 apparent conversions, making an outlay of $70 per soul."

The Rev. A. A. Berle, pastor of the Shawmut Avenue Congregational Church, sets the high mark for Boston soul-saving:

"Taking the Congregational Church of Boston as a body," he says, "it cost them $143 for every soul saved, according to the method used in reckoning.

"A soul should be saved if it costs thousands of dollars, because one never knows whom one is going to save. In saving a soul we may plant a seed that will blossom and in time shed its fragrance where thousands may be influenced by it.

"The cost, to begin with, should not be considered. Dollars and cents are out of place. If a man preaches for years to save one person from dying a non-Christian, all his efforts, and time, and money, are well spent."

The Rev. Leopold A. Niles, pastor of the Stanton Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Dorchester, names the lowest figure.

"The Codman Square meetings of the Alexander Chapman movement offer the only definite way by which one may estimate the cost of saving a soul," he says. "This movement cost $2,500,800, making the average cost per soul $3.12.

"My church has people, unpaid, who are constantly trying to get others interested in our work. Last year we had sixty conversions. Our work is far-reaching, and I hope that many will be influenced by these sixty converts."

WOMEN'S HOME NEEDS FUNDS

Retreat for Convalescents Must Close Unless It Receives Help.

The New York Home for Convalescents, a charity which was founded in 1880 by a number of Presbyterians and Quakers, and still occupies the same small red-brick house at 433 East 118th Street, in the rear of the Holy Rosary Church, has reached a point where it is a question whether it can continue its work.

A crisis arose in its affairs last year that brought about a reorganization. The home begins its thirty-first year, wondering, according to the new Superintendent, Mrs. J. F. Scott, whether a new start is really possible. For support it depends largely on voluntary contributions, and $3,000 is needed to carry it through the next year. It opens in September every year, and continues until August, taking care of women who have been ill and who need support during convalescence, and women who are on the verge of illness. About eighteen can be admitted.

Mrs. Scott succeeded Miss F. Pilgrim this Fall. Miss Pilgrim had been in charge of the home for twenty-three years, a period during which the home did a vast deal of good. Mrs. Scott has been connected with the Organized Charities Society, and takes up her new position with a full measure of experience. The house has been renovated, and the furniture overhauled, some of it by Mrs. Scott's own hands. There are three women in the home at present, and applications are pending from several more. Mrs. Scott said yesterday of the work of the home:

"Our aim is to help women who are weakened and discouraged, and to do it in a practical and inoffensive way. While we own this property, the running expenses are high, and we hope to keep up a good standard. The neighborhood has changed in late years, and some of our former friends have forgotten us. We shall have to find new ones if we are to continue."

HELD FOR PADDING PAY ROLL.

Wilbur Dorsey, Arrested in Bayonne, Taken Back to Olean, N. Y.

Special to The New York Times.

OLEAN, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Wilbur Dorsey, 23 years old, son of Alderman Edward Dorsey of Olean, who was arrested yesterday in Bayonne, N. J., by Chief of Police Thorn of this city, was brought to Olean this morning. Dorsey was a clerk in the City Street Department and had charge of the pay rolls. It is charged that he padded the pay roll with the names of former employes to the amount of $2,693.

In most cases the names of the payees were written upon the checks in Dorsey's own handwriting, and the bank officials had reason to know that the checks were not signed by the payees themselves. There are over 100 checks in all, covering a period of three months or more. The padding began about Jan. 1 last, and has been going on continuously since.

The alleged false entries were discovered by City Clerk George M. Lundy in checking over the pay rolls a few days ago, and the arrest followed yesterday in Bayonne, whither young Dorsey had gone with his wife. Dorsey was married only a few weeks ago to a young woman of this city. He always had plenty of money to spend. Nothing wrong was suspected, however, until the accidental discovery of the padded pay rolls by the City Clerk, who discovered a discrepancy in the stub and check in the account of one Rockwell and asked the latter about it. Rockwell declared he had not been working for the city for eight months.

WHITE PLAGUE FUND NEEDED.

John Hays Hammond Says Money Would Soon Stamp Out Disease.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—John Hays Hammond, recently America's special Ambassador to the coronation of King George, and John Mitchell, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, were speakers to-night at a mass meeting of over 3,000 persons on the lawns of the Free Home for Consumptives in Dorchester, under the auspices of the Central Labor Union of Boston.

Mr. Hammond referred to the statistics of death, which showed 200,000 lives sacrificed to this disease in the United States annually, and said an annual expenditure of $50,000,000 for a few years would probably mark the extinction of the disease.

Mr. Mitchell incorporated in his address a plea for safeguards against injuries as well as disease, and advocated a country-wide effort in the building of sanitariums.

BAD MONKEY COMES TO TOWN

Jocko Is a Murderer, Thief, and Heavy Drinker, Say Ship's Officers.

A murderer, a thief, a drinker of much intoxicating liquor, and a general bad character got past the immigration officials yesterday when the big British freighter Inverclyde got to port. The bad qualities are combined in Jocko, a young orang-utan, property of the skipper. The ship's officers, however, unite in saying that Jocko has the qualities of a vagabond more than a crook.

When the vessel was in Singapore the Captain bought the primate from a native. When the Inverclyde got well out on the North Atlantic Jocko, having the run of the ship, took up his abode in a coal bunker. It was from this retreat that he emerged when the Inverclyde got to her South Brooklyn pier yesterday morning. He was covered with grime and disreputable looking. Afraid to wet the animal lest he would catch cold, Percy Webster, the first officer, and Charles Hancock, the second officer, gave him what they called an oatmeal shampoo. Their simian friend sat contentedly on a hatch eating an apple while they rubbed dry oatmeal into his hair and then brushed it out and much of the coal dust with it, using a stiff brush.

Jocko committed murder on the high seas. There were on board Rummy the ship's cat, and Jitsy, a fluffy powder puff of a dog from Japan. The primate took a violent dislike to Rummy, and the latter, reciprocating, kept out of his way. All went well until one sunshiny day, when the monkey caught Rummy asleep on a coil of rope on deck. He seized the cat by the tail and threw him overboard before one of the seamen could interfere. Jocko and Jitsy became fast friends, and, despite the objections of the officers, the dog spent nearly all his time in the bunker of his friend.

Another of Jocko's vices is theft. He can go through a pocket with the agility of a pickpocket. Once he stole the first officer's watch, and the ticking of it amused him so much that he allowed himself to be caught. The watch was recovered uninjured. As a punishment he was spanked with a hair brush, and hence his aversion to hairbrushes.

"Jocko is a great fellow," said Webster. "He smokes a pipe and is fond of port wine and whisky."

BOY CAUGHT AT POOR BOX.

Police Believe 7-Year-Old's Arrest Will Solve Church Thefts.

Seven-year-old Georgo F. Corbett of 1,055 Manhattan Avenue, Williamsburg, was caught yesterday morning rifling a poor-box in the basement of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church on Manhattan Avenue, near Milton Street, by Thomas Hanley, the sexton.

The boxes have been robbed from time to time, but no trace of the thieves could be obtained. Yesterday morning while services were going on Hanley had occasion to go into the basement and he heard a noise. He investigated and found Corbett industriously engaged in trying to pry open a poor-box with a piece of iron.

Hanley caught the boy and took him to the Greenpoint Avenue Police Station, where the boy told a story that led to the arrest of Neubauer, 12 years old, of 211 Freeman Street.

Both boys were taken to the shelter of the Children's Society. It was said last night by the police that there would probably be more arrests. The robberies have been going on for several months.

FIND LUBIN'S SON-IN-LAW.

Family Demands That He Return Child to Mother in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Ferdinand Singhi and his four-year-old son, Kingston, have been found in Chicago. Singhi's father-in-law, Sigmund Lubin, and Mrs. Singhi, who was Miss Edith Southern Lubin before her marriage five years ago, are preparing to send detectives West to induce Singhi to release the child.

Whethor Singhi will come East or will make a fight to retain the boy is not known, but a member of the Lubin family said to-day:

"We are not worrying about Ferdinand, but we demand the return of the little boy."

Mr. Lubin, who is a manufacturer of motion-picture films, believes his son-in-law will return the baby to its mother. Friends of Singhi say, however, that he will not return to this city or give up the baby, of whom is passionately fond.

Singhi was a piano player in several theatres in this city before he married Miss Edith Lubin. After the wedding Mr. Lubin placed his son-in-law in charge of the studios at Twentieth Street and Indiana Avenue. It is said that Mr. Lubin and his son-in-law have had several quarrels, and that while Singhi and his wife lived together at 3,508 North Twenty-third Street, they had numerous disagreements.

Upholsterers Win More Pay, Less Work

Officers of Locals 39 and 108 of New York of the Upholsterers' Union, which have made a general demand for the eight-hour workday and an increase in wages, reported yesterday that the demand has been granted by the employers without a strike. The eight-hour workday rule is to be established and the men are to receive advances in wages ranging from $3 to $4 a week.

SHOOTS NEWLY WED PAIR.

Stepfather, Disapproving of Match, Kills Husband, Wounds Bride.

WEST HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—Because he did not approve of the marriage of his step-granddaughter, Mary Delfino, to an employe of his, Lodovico Delblasio, Domenico Delfino, wealthy owner of the Connecticut Fireworks Company, to-day shot and killed Delblasio and probably fatally wounded the young woman.

Miss Delfino and Delblasio were married in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 23, and returned to the Delfino home, where all was seemingly harmonious. The entire family was present when Delfino suddenly pulled a revolver and began shooting. Delfino, after the shooting, remained at home until taken into custody by the police. He is 65 years old.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY OCT. 9.

Fortieth Anniversary of Chicago Fire to be Widely Observed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—To-morrow the fortieth anniversary of the Chicago fire of 1871 will be generally observed throughout the west as "Fire Prevention Day."

The Governors of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Montana, and Utah have issued proclamations formally setting aside Oct. 9 as "Fire Prevention Day." The Governors of Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, and Michigan have issued similar proclamations but have selected other dates. Mayors and councils of many cities have followed the Governors with similar proclamations.

Exercises in public schools, at which instruction is to be given in fire hazards, meetings of business organizations, and the issuance of proclamations by mayors calling upon citizens to make their premises safe are parts of the programme for observing the day.

WARSHIP HITS A CAR BARGE.

Little Damage and No One Hurt in Mishap at Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 8.—A battleship believed to have been the New Jersey ran into a car barge owned by the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad last night near Thimble Light.

The battleship was en route to Hampton Roads in a dense fog and rainstorm.

Guns on the battleship struck a freight car on the barge and spilled some of its contents.

The warship swept her searchlights in all directions after the collision, and seeing the barge was uninjured proceeded to Hampton Roads. No one was injured.

The navy yard had received no report of the collision to-night, but reported that the New Jersey was the only ship to arrive in the roads last night.

Stopping Light Stops Decay

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives protection against light. Schlitz is bottled in a brown bottle to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

In the Schlitz Brewery, some say, protection against impurity is carried to an absurd extreme. We don't think so.

We have adopted every idea, every invention to attain and preserve purity.

We scald every tub, keg and barrel—every pipe and pump—every time we use it. We wash every bottle four times by machinery. Even the air in which the beer is cooled is filtered.

It is aged for months in glass enameled tanks. It cannot cause biliousness. It will not ferment in your stomach.

ROPER DEVELOPING FAST OPEN FOOTBALL

Princeton's Speedy Backs and Ends Offer Opportunities for This Style of Play.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, Oct. 8.—With the Villanova game yesterday Princeton closed a week of strenuous work in favor of open football, which will probably be the style of play that the Tigers will follow throughout the season. A fast backfield and a well-balanced pair of ends seem to offer unlimited opportunities to the coaching squad here, and they are endeavoring to make the most of it.

At the Rutgers game Wednesday the men on the Princeton eleven who are eligible to receive the forward pass appeared with squares of white cloth sewed to their backs, a scheme which has formerly been followed in different parts of the country with varied success. This tagging system affords the man hurling the forward pass a keener perception of the free man in the open field. To Bill Roper, always a follower of open football, this year's Tiger squad offers many advantages for this style of play.

The slow but encouraging development of aggressiveness among the line candidates during the past week portends great possibilities with such men as McCormick, Winants, McLean, and Phillips. McCormick's shift to tackle seems to be permanent, though his success at this station will depend entirely on his work during the next two weeks. Norman, Brown, and Phillips are probably offering a better article of football, but the coaching staff believe McCormick's possibilities on the attack are as great as any of the other candidates.

At end Acting Captain White, last year's baseball Captain, and Goldie Wight, a substitute end last year, are a tandem that is not likely to be displaced this season. Waller, a brother of the Wallers who have achieved distinction on the athletic field here in other years, is a fearless, brainy player, with great power. During the past week he has time and again broken up plays by a heady solution of the situation. In the Rutgers game he hurled one of the visitors' backs for a loss of fifteen yards as he was about to deliver a forward pass, and his general play in this contest was of a high grade. In case a lame shoulder should limit Sam White's work, as it has so far, Waller will be next choice.

A new star on the Princeton football field last week was Walter Hammond, a freshman last year, and a sterling half back at the new game. In the early season games he has been sent in when the visitors were fatigued, and his consistent gains on these occasions may have been made possible through the weakness of the opposing team. His work, however, in daily scrimmage has attracted the attention of the coaches, and Hammond will be the man to relieve Sawyer at left half back in the early season contests. The youngster, besides possessing speed, can get off a forward pass in good style that is easier to handle than Penfield's pass. In strong contrast to the latter's bullet-like throw, Hammond sends off a sort of underhand pass that is easier to handle than a speedier ball.

Though a steady player, a splendid punter, and a fairly good man with the pass, Penfield at full back does not seem to have the same "class" that the rest of the Tiger backfield has shown up to this time, and his position on the Tiger eleven is by no means permanent. He is quick to size up a situation and has proved good in defensive work, sometimes better than the Tiger linemen, but he has some difficulty in keeping up with such speedy men as Sawyer, Pendleton, Baker, De Witt, and Farr. Hendrickson substituted for him in the Rutgers game and tore up the visitors' line for spectacular gains, but it was at a time when Rutgers had lost hope, and as yet he has not shown the same stuff against the strong scrub eleven.

With some exceptions the football squad this year is in splendid condition. Tom Wilson is suffering from a lame shoulder that has always troubled him, and is not in the best trim, but the big guard is always slow in coming into shape and should be in fighting trim in two weeks.

Cornell Freshmen's Football.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The Cornell Athletic Council has announced the following scedule for the freshman football team: Oct. 21, Cook Academy in Ithaca; Oct. 28, Harvard Freshmen at Cambridge; Nov. 11, Lafayette High School of Buffalo in Ithaca; Nov. 18, Masten Park High School of Buffalo in Ithaca; Nov. 25, Pennsylvania Freshmen in Ithaca.

YALE WANTS DROP KICKERS.

Six Are Already Developed, but Capt. Howe Wants More.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—Yale's football campaign this week will centre upon the development of drop kickers. It is Captain Howe's policy to develop as many as possible. Six of the first string players are skillful in the art, the four backs and the guards, Francis and McDevitt. To drill these specialists Dr. Billy Bull, the cleverest drop kicker Yale ever possessed, has been summoned and will probably spend most of the week here.

Head Coach Field said to-night that the coaches were pleased with the improvement of the end rushes yesterday. Both Bill Howe and Avery showed class, and when Bomeisler and Gallauer return to the practice this week the anxiety of the coaches have felt about the ends will probably be relieved.

Two players who were regarded first string men when the season opened, Dick Baker and "Squab" Reed, half back and centre rush, respectively, are probably lost to the eleven this season because of injuries. Baker's injury was a wrenched knee, Reed's a dislocated shoulder.

Springer Brooks, coach of the Yale ends, has been called to Minneapolis for two weeks, but a bigger crowd of graduate coaches than any time this season is expected Tuesday, when scrimmaging for the regulars will be resumed. Only the substitutes will be drilled to-morrow.

Considerable secret practice is expected before the West Point game next week Saturday, although plans for it have not been completed.

Only Stone Bruises Bother Indians.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Oct. 8.—Nothing but a few stone bruises are bothering the Red Skins of the Carlisle football team, and Coaches Warner and O'Brien are congratulating themselves to-day on having good material to work on for the coming week in preparation for the Georgetown University game at the National Capitol next Saturday. Welch, who has been out, will return to work to-morrow. The frequent changes on Carlisle's line have interfered somewhat during the past two weeks with a complete and certain understanding of their duties by the guards, tackles, and ends, but with a regular line-up it is thought the aborigines will be able to oppose a stone wall defense from this time on. Carlisle's backfield could hardly be bettered in quality, but nevertheless the quarter backs, half backs, and full backs will get their share of work this week.

St. Paul's Football Schedule.

The St. Paul's School football eleven of Garden City will go to Watertown, Conn., next Saturday for a game with the Taft School team of that place. This will be the third game of the season for the St. Paul's eleven and the first game away from Garden City. Six other games are to be played as follows: Oct. 21, Poly Prep at Brooklyn; Oct. 28, Mackenzie, at Garden Cit; Nov. 4, Hackley, at Tarrytown; Nov. 11, Boys' High, at Garden City; Nov. 18, Adelphi, at Brooklyn; Nov. 25, Horace Mann, at Garden City.

NEW COUNTRY CLUB.

Piping Rock Will Be Devoted to Sports, Chiefly with Horses.

The Piping Rock Club, which was formed by residents of Westbury, Glen Cove, Roslyn, Oyster Bay, and the neighboring community, will be in full operation early next Spring. Its membership at the outset has been limited to 150 members, residents of the neighborhood, but it is expected to add a limited number of city members who are interested in the sports which the club was organized to promote.

The club has recently effected its permanent organization and its officers and governors are as follows: President, Henry Rogers Winthrop; Vice Presidents, Clarence H. Mackay and Harry Payne Whitney; Treasurer, Frederic P. Moore; Secretary, Frank L. Crocker; Governors, J. Seale Barclay, Jr.; Percy Chubb, Paul D. Cravath, Frank L. Crocker, Joseph E. Davis, John B. Dennis, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., Clarence H. Mackay, Frederic P. Moore, Charles B. Macdonald, John S. Phipps, Herbert L. Pratt, Charles Steele, Frederic N. Watriss, Harry Payne Whitney, Bronson Winthrop, and Henry Rogers Winthrop.

The club is to be devoted to country sports, chiefly those centring about the horse. While the club has intentionally said very little about its development until its opening approached, it can now be seen that the club will have ready for use next Spring two large polo fields, a mile turf track surrounding the polo fields, a hunting course, as well as the hunting course which has been used this year for the Piping Rock Horse Show. The club will also have ready for use a number of grass tennis courts and a golf course is being laid out under the direction of Mr. Charles B. Macdonald, President of the National Golf Club. It is expected that nine holes of this course will be ready next year and the remaining nine the following year. The club also has a beach property on Long Island Sound at Fox Point, about two miles from the main property, where bathing pavilions have been erected, where the members make their headquarters for bathing and boating during the Summer months.

It is expected that the horse show next Fall will be held on the new arena immediately in front of the new clubhouse, and that there will be several days of racing during the year. The club is an entirely separate organization from the Horse Show Association, but will tender to the association its arena and other facilities for the horse show. The clubhouse, which is being built under the plans of Mr. Guy Lowell, architect, of Boston, will be under roof in a few days and will be open next April.

WOMEN'S NATIONAL GOLF.

Sixty-five Entrants Expected to Compete at Baltusrol This Week.

Everything is in readiness for the women's National golf championship tornament to begin on the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club this morning. Most of the players rested yesterday, though a number practiced approaching and putting. Every room in the spacious clubhouse is taken, and from present indications it looks as if most of the sixty-five entries will be the first tee when called.

Among the United States Golf Association officials who will look after the management of the tournament, will be Robert C. Watson, the Secretary, and William Fellowes Morgan, the Treasurer. This will be Watson's first appearance at a women's tournament in an official capacity.

The first pair, Mrs. C. G. Fraser of Cranford and Miss Louisa Wells of Brookline, will tee up at 10 o'clock. Thereafter, the couples will leave at five-minute intervals. Miss Dorothy Campbell, champion of three countries, will leave at 10:10 in company with Miss Georgianna Bishop of Brooklawn. The players will find the course in its best condition, and if they can keep out of trouble they should be able to play a round in good figures.

The annual Fall invitation tournament of the Country Club of Atlantic City will be held Nov. 2, 3, and 4. There will be the usual number of sixteens as well as beaten eight divisions. A number of metropolitan amateurs are planning to take in the tournament this time.

COLUMBIA ON HUDSON.

Coach Rice to Begin Fall Rowing on the River To-day.

The call for the 'Varsity rowing candidates has been issued at Columbia, and this afternoon will see the Fall rowing work in full swing on the Hudson. With the large squad that is expected by Coach Rice, the probabilities are that at least two shells will be boated and maybe a third. All of last year's eight, excepting one or two, are expected to report for a limbering-up spin. The remaining seats in the shell being open to new men.

There is a great deal of speculation as to what two men Coach Rice is to put in the 'Varsity shell in place of Sage and Cole. Cole will not be able to row this year, and Sage, although he may report to try to convince Rice that he could hold down his seat at the bow of the boat in spite of his failure last June, is counted as being out of the game. To-day's boating order may give some idea of how the 'Varsity will line up this year, but a final boating order is never certain until a few days before the race at Poughkeepsie.

After a week's work on the machines, the freshman candidates will be sent out in barges this afternoon for their first row on the Hudson. The innovation started this year by Coach Rice of having the men work out on the machines for a week seems to be successful, and is expected to save considerable trouble and the cost of broken oars when the youngsters try to pull real sweeps. The fundamental points which are so hard to teach first-year men when they have not had time to organize into regular boats have now been gone over in the rowing room, and the expectations are that they ought to make a fairly good showing to-day.

From thirty-eight the number of freshman candidates has increased to forty-five, and as seventy good men have promised to come out in the near future the chances are that this number will be swelled during this week to at least fifty. Last year's freshman eight are busily engaged in having every good freshman report to Coach Rice, as they feel that they have set a mark that must now be kept up to by other entering classes.

Three-Cushion Championship.

The three-cushion billiard match between John Daly and Alfred De Oro, which will take place at John Doyle's Forty-second Street room to-morrow and Thursday nights of this week, promises to be well attended by lovers of the difficult angle game. The men are to play 50 points each night for a purse of $1,000 and the Lambert championship medal. De Oro is conceded to be a master of safety play and has a thorough knowledge of the game, while Daly is given credit for being the greatest shot maker. They have been opponents twice, De Oro winning in 1909 by a score of 150 to 119, while last year Daly defeated the champion 150 to 120. Harry Cline will act as referee.

Motor Trucks

How to Judge a Motor Truck

BUYING a motor truck is like hiring a man. You are not interested in the color of his eyes, the tilt of his nose, or his height and weight.

You want to know what this man has done and what he can do.

Just so with the motor truck.

It's what a truck will do that interests you.

Price alone sells few trucks. It's what you "get for the money" that sells them. In other words value.

Four things determine value in a truck.

One of them is good design.

The only sure way to tell good design is by results.

If a truck is not well designed the owner soon knows. If it is well designed, and if he can use more trucks in his business, he buys more of the same make—naturally.

Thus you may judge a truck by the number of repeat orders or re-orders.

In the case of the Alco Truck 62 per cent. were purchased on repeat orders. Nine-tenths of this number are in the service of firms and corporations listed in Bradstreet's at over $1,000,000.

Before purchasing, many of these large firms carried on extensive experiments to determine which motor truck was best. If only one Alco had been purchased by each of these concerns, its place among motor trucks would be clear. But each of these bought more than one. The American Express Company has 40; the Gulf Refining Company 16; Gimbel Brothers 13; the Long Island Express Company 10; and so on.

Among some the Alco has been accepted as the standard—all future purchases will be Alcos.

The second point on which value depends is the experience of the manufacturer.

Good design means little unless experience in building is back of it. The thing to know is "how long has the manufacturer been building trucks." "What does the manufacturer know about the problems of transportation?"

For the American Locomotive Company, builders of the Alco Truck, the experience began in 1905. The Alco Truck was marketed in 1908. The experience of the American Locomotive Company in problems of transportation dates back to 1835 as movers of the world's goods.

The problems of the locomotive and the problems of the motor truck are parallel. One is a power driven vehicle running on rails. The other a power driven vehicle running without rails.

The experience of the American Locomotive Company, as builders of the Alco Truck, is rare.

Value is again determined in the way the truck is built.

Little does it matter how well a truck is designed if it is not well built. It becomes a consideration of factory and factory equipment.

The Alco factory represents a very large investment in equipment. In it are built 95 per cent. of the parts of the Alco Truck. It has the most complete heat treating plant of any motor truck factory in the world. It has large chemical and physical laboratories to analyze and test the metals that go into the Alco Truck. In special and automatic machinery the investment is particularly large. Many of the tools are not tools in the ordinary sense of the word, but are fine instruments—like those of a surgeon—and are kept in flannel when not in use.

In this factory is the largest drop hammer in the world. It weighs 250,000 pounds.

The fourth consideration in determining value—and one that is most decisive—is the responsibility of the manufacturer.

The safest thing in the world to buy is reputation. Buying a truck from a manufacturer without reputation or responsibility is like making a loan without security.

The American Locomotive Company is capitalized at $50,000,000. It dates back to 1835 as movers of the world's goods. It has built 50,000 locomotives. Its reputation is indelible.

These four considerations—Good Design, the Experience of the Manufacturer, Good Building and the Responsibility of the Manufacturer—provide an "acid test" for judging a motor truck.

There are a few trucks that can stand this test.

Of these the Alco Truck is one.

You should investigate the Alco for one vital reason, if for no other: —the latent experience—of its builders in manufacturing power driven vehicles.

Write for an appointment.

RUSH FOR WORLD'S BASEBALL TICKETS

Applicants Will Not Know Their Fate Until Distribution Starts To-morrow.

The officials and clerks of the New York Baseball Club worked from early morning to late last night in the offices at 1,133 Broadway, sorting out the flood of applications for tickets for the world's series games, which open at the Polo Grounds on Saturday. There was no let-up in the amount of mail, and bags of envelopes came in on every distribution. The number of out-of-town applications was unusually large, but it is believed that when the mail orders close this evening the majority of the out-of-town applications for the first game only will be returned, for the number of applicants for tickets for the series of three games together with the local demand for seats for single games is sufficiently large to consume the supply of tickets.

The amount of money received in checks and money orders is estimated at nearly $200,000. Much cash has been sent in by messengers and telegraph, but the mail orders will receive the first attention. It is expected that the tickets will be received from Philadelphia to-morrow, when the work of sending them out through the mails will commence. The much-sought-for box seats will be allotted under the personal supervision of President John T. Brush to-morrow morning.

The mail orders will close to-night, and any tickets left after all these have been filled will be put on sale on the second floor of the St. James Building, 1,133 Broadway, on Thursday morning. From present indications, it is not likely that many tickets will be left for this sale. Yesterday a large number of men congregated about the St. James Building with plenty of money to buy tickets if anybody happened around who was willing to sell. Nobody but those directly concerned in the work of sorting out the mail orders was admitted to the offices yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Every reserved seat for the first two games of the baseball series in this city between the Philadelphia club of the American League and the New York team of the National League for the world's championship has aleady been disposed of, and the management at Shibe Park were kept busily engaged all day to-day returning checks and money orders to unsuccessful applicants. All out of town requests for tickets were refused, as there were not enough to supply the demands of local patrons of the club.

The seating capacity of Shibe Park, grandstand and bleachers, is close to 25,000. It is expected that nearly 35,000 persons will witness the first game, as standing room in the inclosure will accommodate between 5,000 and 10,000 spectators.

BANNER YEAR FOR LEAGUE.

Ban Johnson Says All Clubs in American Made Money.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—With final games played on Eastern fields yesterday, the closing games of the 1911 American League season were played in the West to-day, Detroit losing twice to St. Louis and Chicago winning from Cleveland.

As in the case of all preceding pennant races, interest never ceased until the final games were played. Brilliant playing secured the leading position for Philadelphia and Detroit, leaving the award of lower berths to closely bunched teams representing Cleveland, Chicago, Boston, and New York. By virtue of its victory over Cleveland to-day, Chicago finished the season in fourth place, a fraction ahead of Boston. Cleveland was third, Boston fifth, New York sixth, Washington seventh, and St. Louis eighth.

President B. B. Johnson of the American League issued the following statement to-night:

"The close of the American League season marks the best year this organization has ever known. From a financial standpoint the year has been a success for each of the eight clubs. Not this alone contributes to the history-making year, however, for the opening of new parks and the allowing of Sunday baseball in Cleveland were important factors.

"The race itself naturally developed a few surprises and disappointments. The victory of the Philadelphia Athletics under Manager Mack was to be expected. Mack built up a team for this race that even exceeded his 1910 champions, but nevertheless the attack of the Detroit Club for the greater part of the season made the race far from a one-club affair. A victory such as I am anticipating for Philadelphia in the world's series will be a crowning achievement for the American League."

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Chicago's Bunched Hits and Pittsburgh's Errors Give Cubs Victory.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Bunched hits by Chicago, coupled with errors by Pittsburgh, gave the locals a 3 to 2 victory to-day, in a game which went eleven innings.

Bunched hits enabled the visitors to score their runs. Score:

Chicago Takes Fourth Place in Race by Defeating Cleveland.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Chicago and Cleveland closed the American League season here to-day in a one-sided game, the locals winning 10 to 4. White relieved Benz in the first inning and allowed only three hits, while the Chicago batters pounded James and Baskette for seventeen safe drives. Zeider made four hits and five runs. By winning to-day Chicago clinched fourth place in the league race by a fraction of a point. Score:

CROWDS ON SPEEDWAY SEE KEEN BRUSHES

Midnight Direct Springs Surprise in Class C Pacing by Winning Event.

That light harness racing has obtained a new lease of life in local circles was fully evidenced yesterday in the second Fall matinée of the Road Drivers' Association of New York on the Harlem Speedway. The new arrangements of the officials which brings the members together in brushes on Wednesdays and Sundays has been marked with great success, and yesterday a crowd of fully 4,000 persons viewed the sport.

Both sides of the half-mile driveway were thronged by crowds which turned out in anticipation of the sport, and the horses raced down the stretch in a lane of persons from the starting point to the finish. There were almost as many persons at the starting line as at the finish, and they all remained until the final heat was decided.

Twelve events were carded for competition, and with the addition of several newcomers the sport was the best witnessed in some time and the general order of the finishes was close.

Two of the events were exhibitions against time, in which the two fastest horses of their respective classes were seen. In the first event Charles Weiland's bay gelding De Witt was sent against the time of the trotters' class, which was 1:06¼, and was victorious in the first attempt by covering the half mile in 1:02¾. In the other dash against time Hugh Reilly's bay gelding B. Ontime was driven by Trainer Goldsmith against the time of the Class A pacers, which was 1:05, an dlost after the allotted two trials, making 1:05¾ and 1:06¼.

Six horses in the Class C pacers' event furnished lively competition, and it required four heats before the victor was finally decided. J. Kuhlman's brown gelding George C. took the first heat in easy style, but was defeated in the next heat by C. Brooks's brown gelding Comet, and in the next two heats in which the entire field had a chance for victory William O'Neil's Midnight Direct surprised the spectators by showing its heels to the field in both heats and won the honors.

The most spirited contest of the afternoon was the Class A pace, with three of the best sidewheelers of the drive seen in action. The first clash of the trio resulted in a dead heat beween The Aristocrat and Clover Patch, but in the next heat Clover Patch was victorious and won the event. This heat, which was timed in 1:05, and the dead heat were the fastest seen for some time on the drive. The summary:

McAleer's All-Stars Beat Newark.

Jimmy McAleer's All-Stars of the American League, who are to battle with the Athletics this week, defeated the Newark Barnstormers in Newark yesterday, 2 to 0. About 5,000 persons witnessed the game, which was of the fast and snappy order. Joe McGinnity pitched five innings for the locals and held his opponents runless. Jack Frill finished the game. Joe Wood of the Red Sox occupied the slab throughout the game for the All-Stars. Ty Cobb was the "big noise" with the spectators. He got on base once, then on a pass, but he quickly stole second and third, and when caught off the latter bag on Gessler's grounder he dodged several of the locals on the line, while Gessler was getting to second, and then eluded Zimmermann and got safely back to third himself. The score:

Metropolitans Break Even.

At Lenox Oval yesterday afternoon the Metropolitan broke even in a double-header with a team of Eastern Leaguers playing under the name of Rochester. Al. Burch, formerly of Brooklyn, was Captain of the team, which included Cy Seymour, Jacklitsch and Breen. Billy Gilbert played with the Metropolitans, and Martin Walsh, a brother of Ed. Walsh, pitched the second game for the Mets. The Metropolitans won the first game, 8 to 7, and lost the second 3 to 2, in five innings. Charley Herzog umpired the second game very efficiently and was given an ovation. Larry Doyle and Red Ames saw the games.

Next Sunday a team made up of former members of the champion Giants of 1904-05 will oppose the Mets. Mike Donlin, Bill Dahlen, George Browne, Jack Warner, Joe McGinnity and Cy Seymour will be in the game.

Electric Scoreboard for Series.

New York baseball fans will have a chance to follow the world series games in Philadelphia closely without making the trip to the Quaker City. Arrangements have been completed for the installation of an electric scoreboard at the Polo Grounds. The board is 21 feet high and 35 feet in length and contains 200 bulbs for recording various parts of the game.

WINNERS IN SOCCER.

True Blues of Newark Defeat Brooklyn, 3 to 2, on Marquette Oval.

After leading by the score of 2 goals to 1, at half time, the Brooklyn Football Club relaxed its efforts, and went down to defeat at the hands of the True Blues of Newark, 3 goals to 2. The game was played at Marquette Oval, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, and was the second contest of the season in the National Football League series.

Brooklyn started off in fine style, and its intricate combination work soon netted a tally. Gillette at left half, working the ball free from a scrimmage, outwitted the True Blue goalkeeper, thereby putting Brooklyn in the lead. Through an individual effort Adamson tallied Brooklyn's second count. The visitors' forward line braced perceptibly, and Laurie scored the visitors' first goal.

After ten minutes' rest the Newark contingent put more life into their play, and after five minutes of hard work Laurie again netted the ball, tying the score. Brooklyn then tried hard to acquire the lead, but Garside was equal to the fusillade of shots rained upon him, and no score resulted. Conlon at centre for the visitors tallied the winning goal on a pretty shot. Van der Weghe and Adamson distinguished themselves for the Brooklyns. The line-up:

Brooklyn.	Position.	True Blues.
Halliwell	Goal	A. Garside
Milne	Right back	Murray
Black	Centre half	Hill
Gillette	Left half	Kerns
Van der Weghe	Inside right	Laurie
Adamson	Centre	Conlon

Referee—C. White. Linesmen—Hull and Montgomery. Goals—Gillette, Adamson, Laurie (2,) Conlon. Time—Halves of forty-five minutes.

At McDonald Field, Brooklyn, the Clan McDonalds administered a whitewash defeat of 4 goals to 0 to the Clan McDuffs, after holding a 2 to 0 lead at the close of the first half. Douglass tallied the first goal, and a few minutes later D. Ross added another. About the middle of the second half McCann scored a beautiful goal from the forty-yard mark. This was one of the best goals ever seen in this vicinity. Peters, at outside left, penetrated the McDuffs' net a few minutes before the call of time. The line-up:

Clan McDonalds.	Position.	Clan McDuffs.
Wilson	Goal	Groves
Hoyle	Right back	Thompson
J. Ross	Left back	Ross
Bell	Right half	Gibson
McCann	Centre half	McKenna
Douglass	Outside right	Kennedy
D. Ross	Inside right	Stewart
Thompson	Centre	Abernethy

Referee—W. Williams. Linesmen—Messrs. Bowen and Wilson. Goals—Douglass, D. Ross, McCann, Peters. Time—Halves of 45 minutes.

The German Field Club and the Anglo-Saxon Field Club clashed yesterday in their first battle in the second division of the New York State Association Football League, with both sides being able to score only one goal in the game, which was contested on the grounds of the Anglo-Saxon Club. The play was fast and exciting from the start, and the full backs as well as the goalkeepers on both sides had plenty of work in staving off the whirlwind plays which at times threatened the scoring. Each side scored one goal in the second period. Twenty-five minutes after half time Jones, the outside right of the home team, scored a goal for his side from a hard scrimmage, and immediately after the tally the visitors came back with some good work and managed to even up the score, which was unchanged at the final whistle. The line-up:

German F. C.	Position.	A.-S. F. C.
Dillman	Goal	Aheltman
Van der Waghe	Right back	Meyernogh
Truman	Right half	Heath
Apperman	Centre half	Pearson
Reichmagen	Centre forward	Eastham

The Critchleys defeated the Columbia F. C. at Harlem Oval by the score of 2 goals to 0. At the end of the first half no scoring had resulted, but in the second period of play L. Agar tallied twice.

At McNulty Field, Brooklyn, the Brooklyn Celtics won their league match with the Clan McKenzies by the score of 3 goals to 0. O'Hare, King, and O'Hallaran were the point scorers for the winnirs.

BATTLING NELSON IN NEW YORK RING

Ex-Champion Features This Week's Boxing Cards—Empire A. C. to Reopen.

The withdrawal of one big boxing club after an unsuccessful struggle for existence, the reappearance of another big club on the scene, and the appearance of Battling Nelson in his first real bout before a New York crowd stand out as the features of the boxing situation in New York this week. The club which will retire from the game is the Twentieth Century A. C., which has been operating at St. Nicholas Rink for the past seven months. The new arrival is the Empire A. C., which will stage bouts, as formerly, in the Manhattan Casino, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue. The promoters of this club have announced that they will be prepared to stage some big bouts.

Nelson has appeared in New York in exhibition bouts, but never in a bout in which real action was looked for. Wednesday night he will appear at the Madison A. C. and mix up with Willie Beecher over the ten-round route. Nelson has figured in two bouts during the past two weeks, winning the first decisively over Young Nixon of Cambridge and taking a decisive defeat in the second bout, with Young Saylor of Indianapolis. The Battler is evidently far from the form which made him famous, but he should be able to go the route against Beecher. The latter is a strong youngster, who relies on strength rather than cleverness, and can be expected to furnish Nelson with plenty of action.

The Empire A. C. will stage its first show under the Frawley law at the Manhattan Casino to-night. The contestants will be Fighting Dick Hyland, the sensational California lightweight, and Pal Moore, the clever Philadelphian. It will be a battle of the fighter against the boxer, and each is confident of success. Hyland figures that his agressive style will wear Moore down, and Pal figures on winning through his superior cleverness. A semi-final of six rounds and four preliminaries will precede the main event.

Another battle on the same order will be staged to-night at the Fordon A. C., Grand and Orchard Streets. The contestants will be Battling Hurley of Passaic and Young Sammy Smith of Philadelphia. Hurley is a lightweight of the rushing and aggressive type, while Smith is a past master in the finer points of the game. Young Rosner and Battling Reddy will come together in the semi-final.

Welterweights will hold the place of prominence Thursday night in the regular weekly show of the National Sporting Club. Willie Lewis of this city, who has recently issued a statement that he will never again enter the ring against a man weighing above 150 pounds, will open his campaign along these lines by taking on Jeff Smith, the New Jersey welterweight, who is credited with having recently defeated Jim Clabby. Lewis is out to regain some of the ring prestige which he has lost during the past year or two, and is working hard for this bout.

The Sharkey A. C. will resume its mid-week entertainments Wednesday night, in addition to the regular week-end shows on Saturday nights. For the opening Wednesday night show a pair of heavyweights will be the star feature of the card. "Soldier" Delaney of this city, who recently stopped Sailor White in four rounds, will box Tommy Dugan, a promising heavyweight of Detroit, Mich. Delaney and Dugan are scheduled to go ten rounds, and it promises to be a lively mill. A semi-final of six rounds will bring together K. O. Eger and K. O. Sweeney, and there will be four or more other scraps.

Danny Dunn, the little west sider, who has been called a second Young Griffo for his cleverness, will hook up with Kid Black of the Avonia A. C. in the star bout at the Long Acre A. C. Wednesday night. In the semi-final Artie Edwards will oppose Jimmy Ambrose.

The Brighton Beach A. C. of Coney Island has matched Young Joe Gans of Brooklyn and Smoke Jones of Coney Island for the main bout at Tuesday night's show. Young Lundy of New York and Young Allen of Brooklyn will clash in the semi-final.

The Carlyle A. C. of Brooklyn will stage a show to-night, with Harry Powers and Fighting Jack Lundy as the star performers. Jim Carter and Joe Howard will clash in the semi-final.

The New Polo A. A. will hold a show Friday night, and the usual weekly stags will be staged at the Fairmont, Olympic, Sharkey, and Long Acre Clubs.

Bronx Church House Wrestling.

On Friday, Oct. 27, there will be held at the Bronx Church house, 1,511 Fulton Avenue, the second annual wrestling tournament, open to all registered members of the A. A. U. There will be 120, 130 and 140 pound classes. This tournament will be held in connection with a smoker.

PASTIME RUNNER WINS.

G. Hooley Led Large Field Home in Glencoe A. C. Run.

The weekly run of the Glencoe A. C. was held yesterday over the regular course, with forty starters, of which number thirty-five finished. G. Hooley of the Pastimes was the winner. O. Nelson of the Morningside A. C. jumped to the front at the start of the race, and held the position for one and one-half miles. At this point Hooley and H. Jamison, the latter from the Glencoe A. C., came up on even terms with Nelson, and finally forced him into third place. They alternated in taking the lead until about 200 yards from the finish, when Hooley made a sprint which carried him over the line a winner. Nelson and Jamison finished in the order named, a short distance separating each of the three leaders. The summary: G. Hooley, Pastime A. C., 19:45; O. Nelson, Morningside A. C., 19:52; H. Paulist A. C. Star Takes Morningside A. C. Run by Almost 200 Yards.

James McGarity, the young cross-country running star of the Paulist Athletic Club, romped home a winner in the cross-country run of the Morningside Athletic Club yesterday. McGarity jumped to the front at the start, with S. McPherson of the Fulton A. C. of Yonkers, and James O'Neill of the New York A. C. fighting him for the lead. This trio engaged in a neck and neck race for almost three miles. At the three-mile mark McGarity shook off the two contenders and soon had a lead of 100 yards over the pair. This lead he almost doubled before reaching the finish line, in 20:18. McPherson was second in 20:46, and O'Neill third in 20:54. The summary:

Mott Haven's First Run.

The Mott Haven A. C. opened its running season yesterday with an invitation run over a course of about four miles. David Noble of the New York A. C. was the winner, leading a field of fifteen home in 21:52. This is almost a minute behind the record time for the same course. J. J. Williams, unattached, was a strong contender for first honors all the way to the tape and he finished only a few yards behind Noble. The summary:

D. Noble, New York A. C., 21:52; J. J. Williams, unattached, 22:00; D. Devlin, Mott Haven A. C., 22:20; Matt. Maloney, Avonia A. C., 22:30; William Gover, unattached, 22:35; G. Morris A. A. to Resume Runs.

The Morris A. A. will hold its first cross-country run of the season from the clubhouse, 162d Street, on Jerome Avenue next Sunday at 2:30 P. M. The course is the same as last year's, over which Harry McGinn established the record time. At 10:30 A. M., on Macomb's Dam Park track, the club will renew its three-mile track walks. Liebgold's record, made last Spring, seems sure to fall, as Fred Kaiser, who was only a yard behind the veteran in that race and who is the metropolitan champion, will start with the intention of lowering that mark. Gymnasium and shower bath privileges will be extended to all those who compete.

MURPHY AND THE CHARTER.

Inasmuch as Mr. Murphy has put under the ban all those Assemblymen who disobeyed him in the Senatorial contest and those who voted against the Charter, the gentlemen who met at the conference at the Manhattan Hotel had due warrant for their resolution declaring that "all renominated candidates who supported the Charter should be defeated."

It is plain that an attempt will be made to pass the Charter at the next session of the Legislature. Murphy's manifest purpose is to secure a Democratic majority entirely obedient to him in all things. This is made plain by the setting aside of Harold J. Friedman in the Twenty-ninth District of Manhattan, and of Terry and Fry in Kings. If Murphy succeeds, if he purges the Democratic side of the Assembly of all insurgency, it will not be the amended Charter he will try to pass, but the Charter as originally drawn, without a job erased or a steal blotted out. Diligent scrutiny of this crooked Charter disclosed many vicious things. Public indignation was aroused, and many provisions were amended. These amendments, of course, diminished its value for Tammany. If Murphy gets an Assembly made up of dumb driven cattle he will renew the fight to pass the Charter as it was drawn in darkness by men unknown to the public.

The sure way to kill the Tammany Charter is to elect a Legislature that will refuse to pass it.

THE NEW LAW COURTS.

It is a curious feature of the Stilwell Court House bill, now awaiting the Mayor's approval, that, while it prohibits the Court House Board from selecting a site for the law courts in any park, it does not apply that prohibition to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This peculiarity is pointed out, without comment, by the representatives of various civic and art societies in a letter to Mr. Gaynor urging prompt action. The Board of Estimate has six months from the time in which the bill becomes a law to select a site without consultation with the Court House Board. After that time has elapsed, if no decisive action has been taken, the Court House Board must select a site, which the Board of Estimate must accept.

Why the Board of Estimate should have been left free to select a park site is not explained. But we believe there is no danger that the board, as at present constituted, will sanction the further invasion of City Hall Park. In fact, it is now well understood that two suitable sites are under consideration, and that one of them will be chosen as soon as possible after the Mayor signs the Stilwell bill. The new law courts are not to be built in any park.

TAKING DOWN THE BARS.

During the campaign before his election Gov. Dix volunteered a pledge to sustain and promote the merit system in the public service in every way that he could, and especially in the appointment of Civil Service Commissioners. So far as his Commissioners are concerned, he has failed conspicuously in his efforts to carry out that pledge.

The most prominent action of the Commissioners has been to do away with competitive tests for appointment in a very large number of appointments, most of them cases in which the practicability of competition had been fully shown. The doing away with competitive tests can have but one effect, to make easier the selection of political or personal favorites, the revival, in short, of the old, bad spoils system. The Constitution of the State requires that all appointments shall be made for merit and fitness, to be tested, so far as practicable, by competitive examinations. To abolish competitive tests where they have been shown to be practicable is, therefore, a distinct violation of the Constitution. It is also a serious injury to the public interest.

At their meeting in July, the Commissioners exempted from competition sixty-four places, including twenty-six in the newly created office of State Fire Marshal. At their meeting in September the Commissioners exempted seventy-two places in addition, including six division engineers in the Department of Public Highways which have been in the competitive class ever since the department was organized. Extended comment on this sort of thing is not needed. We add simply that every act of the Commission requires the explicit approval of the Governor. How he can reconcile it with the requirement of the Constitution and with his personal pledge we do not pretend to understand.

A VERY "PERSONAL NARRATIVE."

"La Follette's Autobiography," begun in the current number of The American Magazine, is likely to prove an informing contribution not only to political history but to the discussion of current politics. The author announces himself as a "pioneer in the progressive movement," and he is going to tell his "own story" for "the express purpose of exhibiting the struggle for a more representative government" and to "cheer on the fighters in that cause." He frankly trusts that the "articles may be the means of causing many men to think as one—and to fight as one." He is the one.

In pursuance of this purpose the art of the photographer is called in to show the author on his mother's knee at the age of 3; in his roundabout at 9; as he looked when he was in oratorical contests at college at 25, and finally as he appears at 56 in his chair in the United States Senate. As human documents the series of portraits have their value. Whether they will increase the admiration of the public for their subject is a matter on which he is entitled to his own opinion. We should doubt it. They are accompanied by a very good portrait of the late Robert G. Ingersoll. Beneath it Mr. La Follette inscribes these lines:

> Ingersoll had a tremendous influence upon me, as, indeed, he had upon many young men of that time. It was not that he changed my beliefs, but that he liberated my mind. Freedom was what he preached; he wanted the shackles off everywhere.

Elsewhere Mr. La Follette declares that Ingersoll "took a powerful hold on my imagination; he was a rare, bold, heroic figure." He quotes largely from the Colonel's oratory, thought him the greatest orator he had ever heard, and tells how, standing in the Post Office before a poster containing one of Ingersoll's speeches, "oblivious of my surroundings, I read it with tears streaming down my face."

A man may be known by the heroes he chooses. Mr. Ingersoll clearly was the chief hero of Mr. La Follette. He was not a nice one. He was a popular orator, but not of a high type. His main purpose was to undermine the religious beliefs of the people among whom he lived, and this he did in the name of "Freedom." Mr. La Follette was apparently an eager victim of that cheap device. In 1880, as now, there was perfect freedom as to religious belief, as was shown by the fame and fortune Ingersoll won in ridiculing the beliefs of a majority of Americans. The crusade in which he engaged was as big a piece of humbug as our history affords. The man who, at this late day, can describe it as "bold" and "heroic" betrays a curious lack of perspective and a good deal of gullibility. We may add that Mr. La Follette entirely ignores the inglorious close of Ingersoll's career. He wound up as counsel of the Star Route thieves, for whom he exerted not only his ability as a lawyer and pleader—as he had a right to do if he chose—but the political influence which he had at the time. We should say that Mr. La Follette's emotional adoration of Ingersoll would not tend to win the confidence of the sober people of the Middle West in the "cause" which he professes to embody.

"OUR LADY OF THE COMMON LAW."

It has been a pleasure to submit to the readers of The Times reports of the remarkable series of lectures now being given at Columbia University by Sir Frederick Pollock of London. These reports are necessarily incomplete, but we trust they give some impression of the unusual gifts of their author. Sir Frederick unites in rare degree the talent for research, the imagination that discovers the relation of the fruits of research to the life of men, and the capacity for lucid and interesting statement. He could hardly have won the authority he enjoys in the wide English-speaking world had he not inspired confidence in his extensive knowledge of his subject, nor could he have exerted the influence he does exert without his other gifts.

In his present course he is treating a matter as deeply interesting to his new audiences as to those of his own country, and has the advantage of a point of view and of experience and of method quite novel to his hearers. The sway of "Our Lady of the Common Law" is not so uniform in the United States as in the United Kingdom. It is modified by the statute law of near half a hundred different States, each with a legislative mill grinding out new enactments by the hundred year after year. It is further modified by the decisions of numerous State courts. It feels, moreover, the influence of the action of Federal courts, which have more and more been called upon to deal with the relations of men in business and in industry, from which the common law, in the beginning, so largely sprang. But, in spite of the diversity created from these various and persistent forces, the general principles of the common law have retained a remarkable potency in shaping both judicial and legislative activity in the United States. It is, therefore, an excellent thing that our largest university should have secured the services of so eminent and so skillful a teacher of the common law.

It is well also that Sir Frederick Pollock should have been induced, outside of his lecture room, to express some of his opinions, as he did on Friday to the County Bar Association and yesterday in the columns of The Times, upon matters not immediately connected with the subject of his lectures—such as the "referendum," the "recall," and the latest decision of the Supreme Court as to the interpretation of the anti-trust law in the "light of reason." Nothing could be more succinct and comprehensive than his opinion that the general use of the "referendum" would put an end to party government, or that the "recall" of Judges was to him "the wildest kind of a wildcat scheme." And his comment on the action of the Supreme Court, given with all proper reserve, showed that, to the trained judgment of an experienced English lawyer, the essence of that decision seemed in harmony with the principles to which he is accustomed to yield respect.

INCOGNITO.

It is the custom of potentates when they are about to travel incognito, among their own subjects, to announce the fact. The obedient subjects then keep their distance, and the King, Emperor, or Prince, calling himself Duke, Count, or General, avoids formal receptions and military hullabaloo. But M. Maurice Maeterlinck is no potentate. He has a million more or less reverent admirers, but no faithful subjects to respect a fictitious incognito. When he announces that he is about to visit the United States "incognito" he stirs the curiosity of all Americans. If he sails, as he says he will, on the Olympic, Dec. 20, he may be sure that a battalion of newspaper reporters will greet him at the Chelsea pier and ask him what his plays mean and how he likes America.

It would be easy for M. Maeterlinck to escape public recognition in this country. He could land in New York any day, and any hour of the day, without the slightest fear of meeting the reporters. He could smoke his cigarette in the outer lobby of the Boston Opera House the night his wife, Mme. Georgette Le Blanc, essays to show Bostonians how little Mary Garden knows of Melisande without fear of detection. M. Maeterlinck is a comely, amiable-looking man, who resembles many thousands of other men. One person in the lobby might say to another, "That man over there looks like the portraits of Maeterlinck!" and the other would likely reply, "Pshaw! He's not here. He's in Belgium or on Parnassus," and the subject would be dropped. But when Maeterlinck announces his incognito and his ship he seems to be bespeaking a fanfare of trumpets. The obliging reporters will find him if he wears a bald wig and a red beard.

"MOONSHINE OPIUM."

The case of Chen Hon, the Chinaman arrested in St. Paul with five one-pound cans of smoking opium in his possession, will be a leading case, for it is an instance of the unlicensed but wholesale manufacture of the drug in this form throughout the country. The gang rounded up on Friday by the Customs Inspectors in this city had in their cellar stocks from which, as they confessed, a thousand patrons daily were supplied.

As a dab of smoking opium the size of a pea is sold for 50 cents, the value of the seizures by the revenue officers is apparent. They would not have been made, however, under the law of 1909, forbidding the importation of opium for smoking purposes, although that law puts the burden of proof upon the accused of showing that the drug was not smokable, and provides a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for two years, or both. But Attorney General Wickersham last May ruled that this law did not annul the law of 1890, providing that opium manufactured in this country shall be taxed $10 a pound.

It seems that medicinal opium sold in the drug stores may be made smokable by combination with opium ashes and the application of heat. For two years the untaxed commodity had been sold increasingly in all the chief cities. Now the law of 1909 will be enforced, incidentally, by officials charged with collecting the internal taxes. Of course, the toleration of this licensed trade is pernicious and indefensible. The old law should be repealed and the trade itself forbidden.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

A German musical professor, traveling in this country, is reported to complain that there is no music here but "ragtime." He insists that the only kind of music we hear "will eventually stagnate the brain cells and wreck the nervous system." His remark is worth comment. New York will have twenty-two weeks of grand opera this Winter, and in some of those weeks there will be six or seven performances. In the musical season, which has now begun, there will be more performances of pure music, classical and modern, than usual. A dozen violinists of high repute and as many famous pianists will give recitals and performances, with orchestra, throughout the country. The programmes of the New York Philharmonic Society, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Kneisel Quartet, the Olive Mead Quartet, the Russian Imperial Orchestra, and innumerable other instrumental organizations of high aims are rich in promise.

Famous singers have arranged many concert tours. Many of the smaller American cities have musical organizations of great merit. St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other cities will have grand opera of the best quality. No fact touching the development of American culture is more significant or better attested than the growth of musical taste and knowledge. The sales of published music of the best, and also of the most "advanced" kind, in hundreds of the small cities of the East, the Middle West, and the Pacific Coast, are very large. Local societies interested in the best that musical art affords abound throughout the country.

The German musical professor is mistaken. He can hear all the so-called popular music he wants to hear, but he can avoid it if he wants to. He can hear baseball talk and gambling talk, too. But if he cares to look for musical culture in this country he can find it, and enough of it to astonish him and to shake his preconceived and cherished idea of American barbarity.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Foundations, Not Dams, at Fault. It is a rather notable fact that, both at Austin and at Hatfield, the dams that failed to do what was expected of them were in themselves very good dams, and, considered merely as structures designed to resist direct lateral water pressure, were entirely successful.

The dam in Pennsylvania did not topple over downstream; it broke in the middle and opened like a pair of doors when the rock stratum on which it rested was disintegrated by the water that was forced through that stratum. In Wisconsin the two dams are apparently standing exactly where and as they were on the day of their completion, but the imprisoned river made its way around the ends of the dams, where it seems to have had nothing to contend with except the earth forming the abutting hills.

In other words, the indications are that the builders of these dams were competent engineers, in the narrow sense of that word, and calculated stresses and strains with accuracy, but were not equally competent as geologists and did not sufficiently study the site on which they did their work.

This illustrates anew the inter-dependence of the several sciences, and the necessity that every man who undertakes great operations of any kind should know, if not all of them, at least more than one.

Of course, every engineer appreciates the importance of foundations, and intends to make them strong enough to bear the weight he imposes on them, but two such failures as this hint that sometimes not enough consideration is given to what may be called the foundation of the foundation. The mistake made at Austin seems to have been the more easily pardonable, in spite of its more disastrous consequences, for the bad quality of the underlying bedrock could have been fully determined only by extensive and costly exploration, while there was nothing to conceal the fact that the Hatfield dam ended in earth which would inevitably be washed away as soon as any large body of rapidly moving water assailed it.

Mr. Wise Revises a Speech. After all the experience that United States District Attorney Wise has had in making himself understood to Judges, juries, and the public at large, and remembering the frequency of his successes in attaining that end, it seems strange, indeed, that all the reporters who heard his recent address to the bank clerks gained from it a clear and fixed and wrong impression. As they heard him, it was Mr. Wise's opinion that the bank employé who reveals in court the misdeeds of the officers under whom he has worked will thereafter, because of that revelation, find it impossible to get a position in any New York bank.

The printing of this impression having caused something of a sensation, here and elsewhere, and having elicited indignant denials from the metropolitan bankers, Mr. Wise now declares that what he meant to say and, by the strongest of implications, that what he did say to the bank clerks was that if ever they allowed themselves to be used by unscrupulous superiors, their careers in the banking business would end the moment the fact of their weakness became known.

Now, Mr. Wise is unquestionably a high authority on what he meant, and one hardly less high on what he said. Reporters, too, like other practitioners in the field of journalism, share with the rest of humanity the capacity for making an occasional mistake. That they misunderstood and misquoted Mr. Wise is therefore possible. We are not yet prepared, however, to go so far as to admit the probability that they did so in this case, for it does seem that, if Mr. Wise had been as seriously misrepresented as he asserts, his protest against a misrepresentation that became the talk of a considerable portion of the town would not have been delayed for two whole days.

We incline to the theory that in giving the explanation so satisfactory to the bankers Mr. Wise did what all of us have done occasionally, and most of us often—he confused what he did say, not with what he meant to say, but with what he would have said had he before speaking more carefully reviewed the facts before him and more carefully reflected upon the interpretation which others would put upon those facts. Had he in the beginning made it clear that in his opinion—an opinion supported by the experiences of the men who testified against Morse, and incidentally against themselves—nobody can get employment in an honestly conducted bank who has once permitted himself to be the tool of an unscrupulous superior, there would have been no excitement anywhere, no talk of a boycotting conspiracy, and no manifestations of misplaced sympathy.

Utilizing the New Psychology. Psychology of the new kind, that rests, like the other sciences, on experiment and the exact observation of phenomena, is certainly gaining the recognition as practically useful which the new psychologists have been vainly claiming for it for ten years or more.

Nowhere more than in court, they have constantly said, were its tests applicable in the discovery of truth and the unveiling of error, but Judges and juries have been reluctant to adopt methods of inquisition that discredited those long employed and trusted. Last week, however, Justice Russell, in the Children's Court, accepted as conclusive a decision as to the mental status of a boy that was based on his ability to answer one set of test questions and his inability to answer another. The result was that the boy was sent to a special school as a "defective," instead of to an asylum as an imbecile.

The chances are that the boy will be developed into self-supporting and respectable citizenship, while to have imprisoned him among imbeciles certainly would have turned him into one and have condemned him for life to the most miserable of existences that can be imagined.

The new psychology can do vastly more than this, in court and out of it, for it can replace something like half the uncertainties of life with close approximations to certainty.

MR. TAFT'S CHANCES.

Figures That New York and Massachusetts Assure His Re-election.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The rather amusing calculation given out by the Progressive National Committee, going to show that "to secure his reelection President Taft must recover not less than sixty-three Electoral votes from States carried by the Democrats in 1910," is, when properly analyzed, the most conclusive proof of the strength of the President. These sixty-three missing Electoral votes would be furnished by New York with forty-five and Massachusetts with eighteen. Even if the efforts of the Progressive National Committee should keep in the opposition ranks such States as Connecticut, Maine, New Jersey, Ohio, and a number of others which went Republican in 1908, the vote of New York and Massachusetts, with the States conceded to the Republican column in 1910, would be sufficient. Under the new apportionment New York has gained six Electors and the Northern States have gained thirty-two, as against ten in the South. It is exceedingly difficult to figure out a Democratic victory unless the tide of hostility to the Adminisration should rise so high as to make figures negligible.

At the low-water mark of Republican sentiment a year ago New York gave 67,000 Democratic plurality for Governor, as compared with 69,000 Republican plurality in 1908; but in the latter year President Taft led Gov. Hughes in pluralities by 186,000. He could stand the deduction of the Dix plurality, therefore, and still have a handsome margin to spare. If the Progressive National Committee believes that New York, after a taste of Tammany government, will vote for a Democratic President next year, or that Massachusetts can be counted in the Democratic column, their knowledge of sentiment in the East does not inspire confidence in their knowledge of sentiment in the West. THE IMMIGRANTS.

The Proposal to Debar Them for a Season Is Uncalled For.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, "American Citizen," who advocates the debarment of immigrants for a few years as a relief from fresh accessions to the criminal classes, has not fully considered the subject in its different bearings. Those of us native born are descendants of immigrants, some of whom were little more promising of being molded into good citizens than those recently reaching our shores, but in general succeeded in assimilating with American institutions, and furnishing the precedent for hope that others may fall into the righteous order. To debar those of one European nationality would lay us open to the charge of invidious distinction, and involve us in interminable complications and rancor. To shut out all foreigners would be to our economic disadvantage for a multitude of obvious reasons, that of monetary advancement being a dominating one.

Many bring intelligence, skill, and capital, and others the excellent qualifications for severe manual labor, all factors in the development of our natural resources or constructive work, and tending to the enrichment of the country.

Aside from the pursuit of farming, timber cutting, and cattle ranching, our native-born men do not relish manual labor other than that accompanied by the skill required for the mechanical trades. Excavating, ditching, mining, and other unskilled or menial labor is left for those of foreign birth, who gladly accept it at pay thrice or more in volume to that abroad.

According to Booker T. Washington, the majority of able-bodied negro men of the South do not care to work continuously. As the number of such males, according to military statistics of the percentage of population, capable of bearing arms is one-eighth of the whole, the colored contingent is about one and a quarter millions. The unremitting pursuit by many of these of unskilled labor, and some whites who prefer to tramp—if such would seriously engage in some work, they would be preferred to Italians and Slavs, who are now largely our dependence.

Of these the incessant arrivals are principally earnest, law-abiding people, the percentage of those of criminal tendencies perhaps being not much higher than that of the same number of Americans. Some of the Italians issue Black Hand letters, with certain alternatives expressed therein, and which they occasionally put into execution.

The American villain issues a prospectus of something that will never eventuate, suavely invites his intended victims to a hotel wine dinner, and afterward "roasts" them in the writing room or wherever pen and ink are handy. One rascal kills by dynamite, and the other by furnishing subjects for distress and suicide. There is but little choice. Unrelenting official war should be waged against both with attempts to forestall or punish their villainies with the utmost rigor of law.

Ambulance Surgeons.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article in "Topics of the Times," entitled "A Diagnosis Gone Far Astray," deserves a reply. I have served as ambulance surgeon for two institutions in Greater New York, and know whereof I speak.

Of course, there are some ambulance surgeons who should be censured, but the majority of doctors who take the competitive examinations for places on the house staff in hospitals are a sympathetic lot, and should not be judged by the faults of a few of their number. They are called out of bed at all hours of the night, and what they have to put up with they themselves and those who have had hospital experience only know. Because they are young men and just out of college the injured patients are alarmed. They fear the knife, the needle, and, in fact, everything the ambulance surgeon has in his grip. When the surgeon has finished dressing their injuries or wounds they realize that they have been mistaken.

Vassar's Blind Graduate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed in The Times of Monday an article speaking to those young men at Cornell who, though blind, have successfully passed their entrance examinations, and, in the case of one, reached the senior year. In my class of 1910 at Vassar there was a student almost totally blind, who not only kept up thoroughly with her classes by having various students read to her, but attained so high a standard that she won the highest honor that any college can give, that of membership in Phi Beta Kappa, and I would add that at Vassar only those may win this honor who have reached the required standard of scholarships during all four years of the college course, not during the last year only, as is the case with some colleges.

The work of the young men is creditable, indeed, but I consider that that of the young girl who not only entered, but was graduated with the highest honors, is much more so.

FEDERAL JUDGES' SALARIES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read your editorial article on "The Duty and Pay of Judges." The work which has been done by committees of lawyers during the last three years has already met with some degree of success. The New York committee, which has had this work in charge and which has largely directed the work of other committees throughout the country, is made up as follows: John C. Spooner, Chairman; Earl D. Babst, Charles C. Burlingham, Abram I. Elkus, John W. Griggs, Frank B. Kellogg, Charles E. Littlefield, Robert C. Morris, William V. Rowe, Lindsay Russell, Henry W. Taft, Samuel Untermyer, and Eugene C. Worden.

As secretary of this committee and of the National committee, made up of prominent lawyers in about twenty-five different States, I know of the strong effort made to bring this salary matter favorably to the attention of Congress. Carefully prepared briefs, pamphlets, and other literature were sent to leading lawyers, bar associations, members of Congress, boards of trade, and other professional and business bodies showing the great and constantly increasing amount of work thrown upon Federal Judges and the entire inadequacy of their compensation. Bills were drawn up and introduced in Congress, and these were indorsed by bar associations, Chambers of Commerce, boards of trade, and other substantial organizations throughout the entire country, and resolutions from these bodies were forwarded to Washington.

The bill before the last Congress provided for an increase of $5,000 a year in the salaries of members of the Supreme Court and $3,000 each in the salaries of Circuit and District Judges. These were only fair increases, in the opinion of representative lawyers and business men throughout the country, but it became evident to our committee that this bill could not be passed. An effort was then made to secure an increase of half these amounts, but this was voted down by the House. Our efforts, however, of three years were not entirely in vain, as provision was finally made in the new Codification bill for an increase of $2,000 a year in the salaries of each of the members of the Supreme Court, and an allowance of the actual expenses of District and Circuit Judges when traveling on official business. Heretofore District and Circuit Judges received no traveling expenses or mileage when holding court, District or Circuit, in any part of the district or circuit in which they respectively resided. In some instances, this item alone amounted to $1,000 a year.

The above provisions have practically no effect on the salaries of the United States Judges sitting in the largest cities, where really the need of better pay is most urgent. It is sincerely to be hoped that Congress will in the near future again take up this salary matter and deal with it in a somewhat broader and more liberal spirit. President Taft spoke feelingly before the American Bar Association in Boston last month and strongly urged the importance of more adequately providing for the Federal Judiciary, and the American Bar Association again went on record urging substantial salary increases.

I will gladly supply your office or others interested with briefs containing facts and figures in this matter. I might add also that the committee still maintains its existence and expects again later to resume its campaign for this very worthy cause.

EUGENE C. WORDEN, Secretary Federal Judges' Salaries Committee.

WESTERN DISHES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You refer editorially to the dollar dinner of the Middle West as "badly cooked, badly chosen food," with the added statement:

> Not a single Middle Western State is renowned for either its cooking or its especial dishes. There is nothing like Vermont's roast turkey, Maine's lobster, Maryland's terrapin, Virginia's ham.

Has The Times never heard of Lake Superior planked white fish, Mississippi River chicken gumbo, New Orleans baked pompano a la Creole? Has it never considered muskallonge in Summer, nor saddle of venison with jelly of wild grapes during that perfect season, the Indian Summer of the Land of Minnehaha? These dishes are served at dinner in the hostelries of little cities in the West, and the dinner does not cost the diner more than one silver eagle, including a tip to the waiter. We maintain that a dollar dinner is not of necessity "badly cooked, badly chosen food."

When we banquet a Vermonter in the West pie is added to the bill of fare, but we draw the line, and he will miss from the table the eternal, ever-present embalmed chicken of Manhattan, typhoid oysters, benzoated bluefish, and pickled horse.

There will be no navvy beans, warranted to kill the navvy at forty rods, at the Sunday morning breakfast table of his stay, nor the Sunday evening supper table, for the Western brain needs no mental stimulus at breakfast, and having no grouch against the day, we dine at night, on Sunday, as usual.

Has no one in the East ever dined on, or off, Illinois capon? Would an Easterner scorn a Michigan roast pig with Chantilly apple sauce? Has he had the happiness of carving a crown roast of Minnesota clover-fed lamb? Has he ever seen a "turkey-drive" in Missouri, with a thousand or fifteen hundred turkeys in a single flock? Can his wife, or his cook, take a ten-week duckling and roast it with celery until it tastes like the real thing, made scarce, alas! by greedy Manhattan gourmands?

Though our "broilers" in the West are still juicy, with tendencies wholly constructive and not destructive, we do not care a great deal for the barnyard fowl after she has fulfilled nature's design by depositing a daily non-cold-storage egg. Have we not prairie chicken to be had for the pleasure of gunning? Quail, grouse, Dakota ducks, jack snipe, woodcock? The sportsman of the family brings in, in season, brook trout, small-mouthed black bass, frogs' legs, venison.

Good pastures make fat sheep! The man who dines on a prime roast from Illinois baby-beef, after a set-me-up of Kentucky mint julep, with a choice cut of ham from an Iowa corn-fed shoat, who washes his dinner down with a Bass Island sour Catawba, whose dessert in season may be an Indiana Sweetheart, an Ohio bell-flower, a Michigan Paul Rose Osage melon, or a Missouri Elberta, has no quarrel with the world, loves his womenfolks too well to hustle them, at home or abroad, and is steadily making history.

Talmudic Rip Van Winkle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A reader of The Times informed us through your columns that there had been a "German Rip Van Winkle" long before Washington Irving's. There is a legend that dates long before even this one.

The Talmud tells of a rabbi that planted a fruit tree and went into the woods and fell into a deep sleep, and when he awoke he went back to his home and found that little children were eating of the fruit of this same tree, and that these children were his great grandchildren. J. L. S.

WANTS SUGGESTIONS FOR BANKING REFORM

Branch of New Citizens' League Wants to Hear from All Classes, Says John Claflin.

LAWS SHOULD BENEFIT ALL

Names of Financiers and Business Men Who Will Serve as Directors of the Local Branch Are Announced.

John Claflin of H. B. Claflin & Co., who is President of the recently organized New York State Branch of the National Citizens' League for the Promotion of a Sound Banking System, announced yesterday the names of financiers and business men of this city who have consented to act as local Directors of the branch.

The league was organized two months ago in Chicago to study the defects in this country's banking and currency systems and to devise reforms, and Mr. Claflin was chosen at that time to head the New York State branch. The bankers and corporation heads who have consented to serve with him on the directorate of the New York branch of the league are:

Cleveland H. Dodge of Phelps, Dodge & Co.
John C. Eames of H. B. Claflin & Co.
Gerrish H. Milliken of Deering, Milliken & Co.
J. Harper Poor of Amory Browne & Co.
Henry A. Caesar of H. A. Caesar & Co.
Arthur Lehman of Lehman Brothers.
Welding Ring of Mailler & Quereau.
Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., of Bliss, Fabyan & Co.
James Talcott of American Hosiery Co.
Hermann Fleitmann of Fleitmann & Co.
James H. Post of H. B. Howell, Son & Co.
Frank Trumbull of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co.
Edmund D. Fisher, Deputy Controller of New York City.

Besides Mr. Claflin, the officers of the branch are: Isidor Straus, Treasurer; Irving T. Bush, Chairman of the Executive Committee; William Sloane, Chairman of Finance Committee, and George A. Plimpton, Secretary. The offices are at 100 Broad Street.

Mr. Claflin discussed yesterday the plans of the branch so far as they have yet been formulated.

"We are starting a wide national movement to reform this country's banking and currency system," said Mr. Claflin. "This will not merely benefit bankers. It will benefit every business man, farmer and wage earner. So we expect all classes to join in and help. We want suggestions, especially—and we want these suggestions to come from all classes. The panic of 1907 was an unnecessary panic. It has disclosed certain weaknesses in our banking system which can and must all be corrected. This country is still suffering from the effect of the 1907 panic. The small businesses, too, are suffering more than the large ones.

"President Taft, too, has been pointing out in his recent Western speeches that there is no legislation of any kind, tariff, railroad, corporation, or political, before the country to-day so important as the putting of our banking and currency systems on a sound basis. The league has been organized because we business men believe that President Taft is absolutely right in this statement, and we wish to get at the question immediately in the regular business man's practical way.

"The league is nonpartisan, and its work is not going to be delayed or diverted. It is entirely independent. It has nothing to do with the National Monetary Commission, although we recognize the value of many of the suggestions which the commission has made. We have no cut-and-dried plan to offer. To shape our policy, we have adopted certain broad basic principles of reform. In addition, we are going to seek suggestions for individual reforms from all classes of citizens, and from all sections. When Congress finally adopts remedial legislation we want the legislation to reflect the needs of the whole country.

"As for the lines along which we are going to work, we do not advocate a central bank, doing a general banking business, but we do believe in what we call a National Reserve Association, which will be controlled and managed so as to represent the democratic spirit and the sound common sense of this Nation. It is the hope of our league, ultimately to make the weaknesses of the present system as clear to the general public as the principles of sound money were made clear some years ago. When the weaknesses of our present system are understood, and the principles of sound finance are made clear, we believe that the Nation's legislators will devise the right kind of laws, and that the people will want these laws enacted."

These are the officers and directors, recently chosen, of the National organization:

John V. Farwell, President; John Barton Payne, Vice President; J. Laurence Laughlin, Chairman of the Executive Committee; A. C. Bartlett, Treasurer; Murray S. Wildman, Secretary.

Directors—B. E. Sunny, Cyrus H. McCormick, Harry A. Wheeler, John G. Shedd, F. A. Delano, F. W. Upham, Marvin Hughitt, Julius Rosenwald, Clyde M. Carr, F. H. Armstrong, Graham Taylor, C. H. Wacker, Joseph Bach, A. A. Sprague.

Branch leagues are being established in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, and Albany, and other State leagues in Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland.

OCTOGENARIAN TAKES BRIDE OF 50 YEARS

HE KNEW HER AS A CHILD

His Two Grown-Up Sons Will Attend, and the Families of Both Are Happy Over Their Union.

Oliver F. Fuller, President of the Fuller & Fuller Drug Company of Chicago and Rebecca Reynolds Secor, sister of George F. Secor of the brokerage firm of Secor, Schalk & Co., 60 Broadway, will be married to-morrow evening in the home of Mr. Secor in Ossining.

The approaching wedding had not been announced publicly until last night, and will be a surprise to the friends of both. Mr. Fuller is 80 years old. Miss Secor is just thirty years his junior.

Mr. Fuller and his sons Frank and Charles came from Chicago early last week and are now at the home of Mr. Secor. Both of the sons are married and their wives will be present at the wedding. It was said at the Secor home last night that the ceremony would be a simple one and that the only guests will be relatives and a few close friends. Bishop William F. Anderson of Chattanooga, Tenn., who formerly lived in Ossining and is a friend of Mr. Fuller and Miss Secor, will officiate. He is expected in Ossining to-day.

The engagement of Mr. Fuller and Miss Secor was the outcome of a friendship extending back to the time, more than forty years ago, when Mr. Fuller was in the retail drug business in Peekskill, N. Y. Mr. Secor also had business interests there, and is now a Director of the Peekskill National Bank.

Mr. Fuller had married a Miss Shipley of Peekskill, and he met Miss Secor, then a little girl of 10 years, while he and his wife were visiting a friend in this city. He and his wife became much attached to the child, taking her to the theatre and for drives.

Mr. Fuller soon after went to Chicago, where he engaged in the wholesale drug business, founding the company of which he is now President, and which is one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country.

Mr. Fuller's first wife died about ten years ago. Since then Mr. Fuller has lived much with his sons, and frequently came to this city to visit the Secors. On his return to Chicago a few weeks ago after one of these visits he made known his engagement to his sons and told them that the wedding would take place soon. Members of both families were greatly pleased at the announcement.

The Secor family is well known in Ossining and the country thereabout, and Mr. Secor has extensive business interests there as well as in this city. He is President of the Ossining National Bank, the Ossining Printing and Publishing Company, the Ossining Realty Company, and the Ossining Safe Deposit Company. He said last night that he could add little to the announcement of the wedding except that it was a result of a lifelong friendship between his sister and Mr. Fuller.

"The families have been on intimate terms for about fifty years," he said, "in fact, since before Mr. Fuller engaged in business in Chicago."

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Fuller will make their home at 1,001 Dearborn Street, Chicago. They are not planning an extended wedding trip, it was said last night.

BULLOCK—BROWN.

The marriage has been announced of Mary Elizabeth Brown, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Brown, to George Makepeace Bullock of Canaan, Conn. It took place last week in the First Congregational Church in Elizabethtown, N. Y., the Rev. Jabez Backus officiating.

Grace Rowe of Glens Falls, N. Y., was maid of honor, and Harry H. Coon of Hillsdale best man. Augustus J. Coughlan, John S. Roberts, G. Burton Brewer, and Clarence E. Smith were the ushers. Mrs. B. F. Stetson had charge of the musical programme.

After a reception in the home of the bride's parents, the couple started in a motor car to tour through the Adirondacks and Berkshires.

ROCKEFELLER LIKES HYMN.

Tells His Pastor That He Favors "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 8.—John D. Rockefeller attended service this morning in the First Baptist Church. He heard his pastor, the Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, announce that he was going to take issue with Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey on the hymn "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" by singing it before the congregation to-night and asking for a rising vote as to whether it should be continued as church music or put under ban. Mr. Rockefeller is very fond of music, and before he left he had a few words with Mr. Brooks, and from his remarks he showed that he favored the song.

Mr. Rockefeller and his party drove down from Pocantico Hills in a carriage, as the automobiles have not yet arrived from Cleveland. He seemed to be in very good health.

Mr. Rockefeller listened to an address by Dr. Krafts on "The World-Wide War on the Great Evils," and when the envelopes were passed he placed in one a liberal donation to the cause. After the service he shook hands with several old friends and spoke again to Mr. Brooks. He was the last to leave the church. "Life's worth living on a beautiful morning like this," said Mr. Rockefeller, as he and his party drove away toward Pocantico Hills.

At the evening service the pastor sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and then asked the congregation to vote. All persons in the church, except one old lady, rose, signifying they were in favor of the hymn.

MOTHER AND SON STUDY LAW

Mrs. Andrew Says They Will Form Partnership in Missouri.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—With the purpose in view of returning to Missouri and entering into a partnership for the practice of law, Mrs. Sarah T. Andrew and her son, Herbert B. Andrew, both have matriculated at law schools in Washington. Mrs. Andrew is a student at the Washington College of Law, and the son has joined the classes at the Catholic University Law School.

The Andrews come from Jefferson City, Mo. Mrs. Andrew is the wife of Eugene H. Andrew, an employe of the Government Printing Office, and is Vice President of the Missouri Society. She is 40 years of age, and her son is 19.

Before coming to Washington Mrs. Andrew taught in various Missouri schools. She is a graduate of the public schools at Jefferson City and the State Normal School at Girardeau. She was awarded the scholarship in the Washington School of Law which was offered to the National Catholic Women's Circle by Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, the dean of the institution.

"It is the intention of Herbert and myself to finish our studies, and then to take the district bar examination," said Mrs. Andrew. "If we are successful we will form a partnership and will return to Missouri and take up the practice of our profession."

When asked why he did not matriculate at the Washington College of Law and complete his studies in the same class with his mother, the boy explained that he entered the Catholic University some years ago on account of his relative, the late Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, who was the President of the Board of Trustees, and that he thought it more advisable to finish the course at the same school. He also said that it had long been his wish that his mother study law, as she is a woman of exceptional ability, and he is confident that if they win their degrees they will be very successful as partners.

DR. AKED FOR SUFFRAGE.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 8.—Dr. Charles F. Aked, formerly of New York, and Col. John P. Irish, an old-time political orator, engaged last night in one of the most hotly contested public debates ever held here. Woman suffrage was the subject, Dr. Aked championing the women's cause. Valencia Theatre, where the debate was held, was packed. The debate started in an orderly, dignified manner, but before it was through Col. Irish several times found himself unable to proceed because of hisses that drowned his voice.

Col. Irish made an argument along the lines of physical force. If men must uphold the laws, he said, they alone should make the laws. He struck a snag, however, when he spoke of the "majestic sphere now occupied by women" and proposed to keep them there. Then hisses began.

Dr. Aked said frankly that he did not think much of Col. Irish's speech. He referred to it as "an argument of intellectual destitution," said it could be swept away by a feather duster, and that it was bad morals and bad ethics and a lot of other things. Col. Irish retorted with quotations from Herbert Spencer.

The meeting became noisy during the rebuttal. Every time Dr. Aked put his hand in his breast he was cheered. Every time Col. Irish started a sentence he was hissed. No decision was announced, but the women thought that Dr. Aked was an easy winner.

POST FOR ROOSEVELT COUSIN

Third Avenue Railroad Superintendent to Direct Vancouver System.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—Announcement was made to-day of the appointment of James A. Roosevelt to direct the system of street railway and interurban electric lines of the British Columbia Company, with headquarters in Vancouver, B. C. The Victoria lines, as well as the Chilliwack, come directly under the management of Mr. Roosevelt. He will also control the light and power companies in British Columbia, these being subsidiary corporations of the company.

Mr. Roosevelt's appointment comes as direct result of his work on the Third Avenue Railroad, New York City. He plans to introduce a number of new features in the operation of the British Columbia Company's extensive system.

He is a cousin of former President Roosevelt, and is still in his thirties.

James Alfred Roosevelt was General Superintendent of the Third Avenue Railroad for four years. His departure for his new work in the West was marked by a farewell dinner, given by his friends at the Engineers' Club on Sept. 26. His associates gave him a loving cup. Frederick W. Whitridge, receiver for the Third Avenue system, told of having discovered Mr. Roosevelt.

METHODISTS HEAR FAIRBANKS

Urges More Religion in Business and Equal Pay for Both Sexes.

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—In the course of a paper on "Christianity and Social Problems," read before the Ecumenical Methodist Conference to-day Charles W. Fairbanks, former Vice President of the United States, said:

"The keynote should be more religion in business and more business in religion. Inequality of wages for men and women, working under like conditions, is an affront to the spirit of Christian religion. The progress of nations in the last analysis is measured by the real progress of woman herself. The laborer has become merged in the machinery of which he is such an important part. And he has come to feel, too frequently, that the great Church is not sympathetic toward him. Industrial peace will come through the influence of the Christian religion."

KUBELIK TALKS OF HIS NATIVE MUSIC

COMPOSERS WE DON'T KNOW

Suk and Novak Well Worth Hearing, Says Their Countryman—Has Five Babies Now, but Bach Had 17.

Bohemia has three representative composers at present, according to Jan Kubelik, the Bohemian violinist, now in New York waiting for the date for his first concert. At the St. Regis, where he is staying, he talked yesterday to a TIMES reporter about contemporary music in Bohemia and other questions. Bohemian music was suggested by the mention of Josef Foerster, whose new concerto will be played by Kubelik during this tour.

"I consider it a very fine work," he said, "and Foerster, who is not known here, is probably the greatest of Bohemian composers since the death of Dvorak. There are two others of importance, Novak and Suk. Novak has written many symphonic and chamber works, which are much played in Prague and Vienna. I wonder that they are not played in America. Suk is now devoting most of his time to the Bohemian String Quartet. He does not seem to be writing much music.

"As for Foerster, he is a genius. He has written several operas, one of which is about to be produced in Prague, and many symphonic works. This concerto is chiefly notable for the fact that the last movement is a modern symphonic waltz. Composers have been content in the past to end concertos with rondos, or a movement in sonata form. The music of this concerto is broad and free, and not particularly national. There is in Foerster none of the folk-song spirit that you find in Smetana."

"Are you playing the new Bruch concerto?"

"No; I do not like it so well as his other works for the violin, so I have not learned it. There are but two movements, and the work ends with a slow movement, an ungrateful ending for a concert performer."

"Have you found any other new works for the violin?"

"Of course, Reger has written a concerto."

"Is that very modern music?"

"It is very modern, but whether it is music or not I am not sure. It takes an hour and a half to play, and I do not think it has ever had a public performance. I'm sure that I shall never play it in public. The trouble of memorizing such a work would not be commensurate with the effect produced.

"There is Elgar's concerto, too, but I find that also lacks something. Modern composers seem to get one idea and then to manipulate that in coldly arithmetical fashion. They do not work from the heart. They are not sincere, as a rule. They often lie. If they told the truth they would be more simple and direct.

"I have just succeeded in getting my violins away from the customs men. I have a Stradivarius and a Guarnarius, both very valuable and appraised at a high figure. I am allowed to bring them into this country provided they are not left here. If they should be lost or stolen I should be obliged to pay $30,000, so I have had them insured for that amount."

"What makes old violins valuable?"

"That nobody knows. The old manufacturers possessed the secret of making violins in a manner which the moderns do not, but all old violins are not good. Many of them have been used too much. They have exhausted their powers. It is not generally known that violins gradually ascend to a point where they are at their best, and then gradually decline. My Strad. is of the best period, 1715, and is a famous instrument. It belonged to Haddock in London before I purchased it for a large sum. It was dubbed by Joachim 'The emperor of all violins,' and the name The Emperor has clung to it ever since."

"What, in your opinion, is the difference between the methods of violin playing taught by Sevcik, your teacher, and Leopold Auer, who taught Zimbalist, Mischka Elman, and Kathleen Parlow?" was asked.

"That is a difficult question to answer. You might in a way expect a Bohemian teacher to put more fire and passion into his interpretation, but such qualities exist only in the pupils. A pupil either possesses temperament or else he does not, and no professor can give it to him. I do not think that a teacher can have much influence on interpretation. He can only teach the technical details that a pupil wishes to learn. So I think that any differences that exist between the pupils of Sevcik and Auer exist in the pupils themselves."

Kubelik exhibited a picture of the Sevcik Quartet, which is made up of four of the celebrated Bohemian teacher's pupils.

"I played in a quartet at one time myself," said Kubelik, "but the demands of quartet playing are very different from those of solo playing. You must subordinate yourself. It is not any easy thing for a soloist to do, and so I have given up playing quartets in public for the time being. Joachim did it in his old age; so did Lady Halle. Perhaps I shall when I am old!"

Kubelik showed some photographs of his wife and five children, one of them very picturesque, with the violinist in the centre and the five children circling around hm in a dance.

"Bach had seventeen children," said he, laughingly, "but I think he was married three times!"

BOYS' CLUB AT PICTURE SHOW

Organization Founded by E. H. Harriman Guests of Kinemacolor Company.

About 300 members of the Boys' Club of Tompkins Square were guests of the Kinemacolor Company at the Herald Square Theatre yesterday afternoon, as part of a movement advocated by the late E. H. Harriman, founder and patron of the club.

The idea of Mr. Harriman was to bring the boys of the club into closer touch with the larger things of the world, to overcome their inherited narrowness of viewpoint. One of the means to this end was to provide them with higher-grade amusement. The officers of the club have been in communication with several of the principal theatre managers, suggesting that special performances of the better class of drama be given for them at reduced prices. Several managers will do as they have asked.

Yesterday afternoon, however, was the first opportunity offered, and the managers of the club were very much pleased with results. The Kinemacolor Company entertained the boys without expense, and the boys enjoyed the performance immensely.

"GARDEN OF ALLAH" SEATS.

Sale to Begin on Oct. 17—Hichens Again Able to Supervise Rehearsals.

Liebler & Co. announced yesterday that the sale of seats for the opening of "The Garden of Allah" at the Century Theatre, would begin on Tuesday, Oct. 17. Robert Hichens, the author, who has been ill for several days since his arrival in New York, will return to supervising rehearsals to-day.

The Lieblers have taken up the matter of obtaining a New York theatre for the appearance of the company of Irish Players now in Boston. The organization can remain in America only eighteen weeks, and seasons in New York and Chicago have been promised.

The Players presented Shaw's "The Showing Up of Blanco Posnet" for the first time in this country last Thursday night.

Post Office Clerk Tries to Die.

Made despondent by long illness, Richard Croak, 46 years old, a Post Office clerk, of 212 Sumpter Street, Williamsburg, waited until his wife had retired last night, and then, going to the cellar, attempted suicide by hanging himself. His son, Richard, returning home a few minutes later, found him unconscious. Croak was taken to the Bushwick Hospital. He will probably recover.

BALL ENDS IN A RIOT.

One Shot and Many Get Broken Heads at a Cypress Hills Dance.

Hundreds of young folk were at the annual ball of the Masquette Athletic and Social Club yesterday, in Beck's Casino, Jamaica and Hale Avenues, Cypress Hills, when a fight started in a corridor. Joseph Newberger of 338 Stanhope Street, Brooklyn, a watchman, was set upon when he undertook to quiet one who had evidenced his happy mood by hurling beer glasses through mirrors and windows.

Newberger was hit by a bottle and his head seriously cut. Employes went to his aid, and the boisterous one's friends took up his cause, until more than a hundred were involved. Chairs were used as clubs, and many went down under blows. Bottles and glasses cut many heads, and when two men drew pistols there was a fusillade of shots.

Several policemen rushed in and the sight caused them to call for ambulances and reinforcements from the Liberty Avenue Station.

They found Arthur Tighe, 19 years old, of 250 Berriman Street, who endeavored to make peace, on the floor with a bullet in his back. The crowd said Newberger shot him, so Newberger was arrested.

Frederick Beck, a son of the proprietor, was unconscious with his head badly battered, and others who were injured escaped before ambulance surgeons arrived from the Bradford Street and St. Mary's Hospitals. Tighe was taken there, and it was said last night he would recover. There were four empty shells in Newberger's revolver, but he denied having shot Tighe.

INFECTED MEAT IN JERSEY.

Tubercular Cattle Get By Inadequate State Inspection, Says Fitzerandolph.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, Oct. 8.—Dr. R. B. Fitzerandolph, Chief of the Chemical Bureau of the State Board of Health, who has figured prominently in the rotten egg crusade and the canned horse case, declares that meat of tuberculous cattle is being put on the market for sale in this State. In New Jersey, he said, there are about 100,000 dairy cows, many of this number being imported.

"The State inspection of these imported animals," he declared to-day, "is not what it ought to be, and the result is that many animals infected with tubercular germs get into the State, and are later slaughtered. The meat is then sold to consumers. It is impossible with our present force to cope with this traffic or to better conditions appreciably, but I hope that we will be able to do so before long. The coöperation of the municipal authorities is needed, and I am confident that we will get it."

Dr. Isaac Shaw, a former United States Meat Inspector, now employed in the State Board of Health under Dr. Fitzerandolph, has made a public statement that poisonous veal and tubercular beef are being sold in Trenton. A conference between State and city health authorities has been arranged for to-morrow to take the matter under consideration.

DOCTORS SHUN THE NAVY.

The New York Medical Journal Asks Why It Is So Hard to Fill Vacancies.

Wonder is expressed in an editorial note in The New York Medical Journal that there is no rush for the vacancies in the medical service of the United States Navy. The fact is that complaint is continually made by the Government that the navy lacks sufficient surgeons.

"Not all the surgeons of the United States Navy," says the writer, "have the large clientele of those attached to the hospital ship Solace, but on all ships carrying 500 men or more there is enough practical work to prevent monotony. It is a perplexing fact that there are vacancies in the medical service in the navy, for it is hard to imagine a more fascinating life for a young physician.

Acquirement of the position is a certificate of unusual efficiency; the pay is good; the work continuous but not too onerous; the social advantages are great; the companionship is of the best; in fact, it would be interesting to learn what drawback, real or imaginary, there is to the service that prevents a continuous oversupply of applicants."

RAID MULBERRY'S HENCOOPS.

Farmers Recapture 70 Chickens, Shoot One Thief, Seek Others.

Special to The New York Times.

YORK, Penn., Oct. 8.—Farmers in upper York County in the vicinity of Mulberry, assisted by several detectives from this city, are searching the hills near that place for two chicken thieves. For several months wholesale raids have been made upon the chickens owned by farmers in the vicinity of Mulberry. Several nights ago the raiders were discovered and fired upon by a farmer named John Gettys.

Gettys's aim was true. He peppered Harry Cunningham, 22 years old, with birdshot, and captured him after a chase of about two miles. The other two members of the gang escaped, leaving behind a wagon loaded with seventy stolen fowls.

STRUCK MATCH; IS DYING.

Traveling Man Lost His Balance and Fell from Moving Train.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 8.—Because he struck a match on the seat of his trousers Max Freling, a traveling salesman of New York, is dying to-night in a Savannah hospital. Freling was standing on the platform of a moving Seaboard Air Line train this afternoon about thirty miles from Savannah when he struck the match. He lost his balance and tumbled from the train. When he was picked up it was found that his right leg and arm were broken and that his chest was badly crushed. He was brought here and placed in a hospital. Physicians say he cannot live.

KILLED IN STRAW HAT ROW.

Man Shoots Another Who Destroyed His Out-of-Season Headgear.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 8.—A jocular attempt to enforce the season law barring straw hats cost a life to-night, when Jewell Bush shot and killed William Welch, both of Memphis.

Welch started chaffing Bush about wearing a straw hat after Oct. 1. Later Welch took Bush's hat and tore it up.

Bush demanded payment for it, and, when Welch refused, went home, obtained a shotgun, returned, and fired at Welch's breast, killing him instantly.

Actor Drowns When Boat Upsets.

EASTON, Penn., Oct. 8.—Harry M. Kerr, a member of the Bohemian Girl Opera Company of Brooklyn, N. Y., was drowned in the Delaware River here this afternoon. He and three other members of the company were rowing when their boat capsized.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

MINISTER AND GIRL DROWN.

The Rev. Mr. Bruen and Miss Shannon Swept Away in Flood.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 8.—The Rev. E. B. Bruen, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Springfield, West Va., and Miss Sallie Shannon, 18 years old, are believed to have been drowned in the south branch of the Potomac River to-day. They started out with horse and buggy from Romney for Springfield early this afternoon, where the Rev. Mr. Bruen was to preach.

Failing to return to Romney when expected, inquiry was made of Springfield, and it was learned they had not arrived there and no church service had been held. They had to cross a treacherous ford, and the river being considerably swollen it is believed the team with occupants was swept down the river. Up to midnight no trace has been found of them by searchers along the river.

The Rev. Mr. Bruen boarded with Miss Shannon's parents.

BOY IS STRANGELY DROWNED.

None of His 10 Companions Saw Delanta Fall Overboard—Body Not Found.

The harbor police cruised about Pelham Bay last night looking in vain for the body of Frank Delanta of 326 East Seventy-first Street, who was lost yesterday afternoon from the thirty-foot launch Bronxonia.

Delanta's death is a mystery to his ten companions on a fishing trip. None saw him go overboard. Most of the young men were at lunch in the cabin, and William Riessenhauser of 399 East 148th Street, the Bronx, was at the wheel when one asked for Delanta. Then for the first time it was noticed that he was not aboard. The launch ran back over its course, but as no trace of Delanta was found, the boys put in at Clason Point and reported his death to the police.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

So nearly did the day-to-day fluctuations of the stock market last week offset each other that the net movement was inconsequential. Such change as there was, however, was toward improvement for the general level of prices at the week's close was fractionally higher than on the previous Saturday. At the same time trading dropped off very sharply, the week's record representing at once a quieting down and a slight hardening of the market. Traders and investors alike are confronted by a two-sided situation, as between one place and the other of which many are at a loss to decide. It would be easy to cite several factors which, viewed of themselves, would seem to command support for the belief that from the present level of security prices and from the present volume of business a forward movement of considerable proportions could reasonably be counted on. Such, for instance, are the general crop outlook, which is not up to record figures, but whose average, nevertheless, is not bad, particularly in view of the increasing promise of a record cotton crop; the sound condition of business, even though current conditions are responsible for reduced operating profits; the ease in money here and some improvement in the financial situation abroad, thanks, in part, to credits extended by our bankers; the maintenance of railway earnings at a fairly high level and the beginning of expansion in steel trade production, as was illustrated by last week's report of the country's iron production, showing for the second consecutive month an increase in iron output which has now extended to the merchant furnaces of the country as well as to those operated in connection with steel plants. To these some still other satisfactory elements might be added, but these all, in the minds of a great many people, are offset by other considerations, most of them more or less closely allied with politics, though underlying some of them are economic problems of serious proportions. Foremost among these is what is most succinctly described as the "trust question." Just now this is commanding foremost attention in the shape of the pending reorganization of the American Tobacco Company, which has been decreed in violation of the law under the decision of the Supreme Court, and in the expectation very widely held that the United States Steel Corporation and still other large industrial combinations are facing the likelihood of Federal suits for their dissolution.

How far the programme of the Administration in respect to the enforcement of the Sherman law is to be carried and what the effects of this programme are to be not only upon the organization of large corporations, but upon the business interests of the country at large with which the so-called trusts are so intimately connected, are two of the questions which bankers and many others feel unable to answer with any degree of satisfaction to themselves. Because of the uncertainty of this particular situation, not to consider for the moment the general unsettling effect of the approach of the Presidential year and the part which will be played by tariff discussion, a great many people recoil from committing themselves to security purchases or to fresh undertakings on any important scale despite the favorable interpretation which can be placed on a number of other elements in the situation. Further addresses made by President Taft last week kept alive in the minds of the financial community the determination of the Administration to continue prosecutions under the Sherman Anti-Trust act, and this is unquestionably the situation which at the moment is commanding far more attention than any other feature of the financial outlook. One hope which has been entertained in connection with this trust situation was that the working out of the American Tobacco plan would point a way which other corporations could follow, if need be, to bring themselves fully within the Supreme Court's interpretation of the Sherman law. If this result is indeed to be attained it would seem at least that this accomplishment is likely to be deferred unless there should be a sudden abandonment of the organized opposition to the plan for the company's reorganization which has been tentatively suggested and which is expected to be formally filed in the Circuit Court at a very early date. Very few of the large corporations are in a position to adopt the easy way to which the Standard Oil Company resorted to bring itself within the law. Such a simple distribution of subsidiary stocks is not open to corporations with outstanding bonded indebtedness and with a variety of obligations more or less integrally based upon the aggregation of assets which go to make up these large corporations. A change in political sentiment which would open the way to the adoption of a more constructive National policy than that which is now represented by the effort strictly to enforce existing law without pointing any way to solve the very serious business problems which the enforcement of that law involves, would do much to improve financial sentiment, but some, at least, of the best informed bankers whose views are most highly regarded by the financial community do not profess at this time to see any such change at hand. At the same time some who hold to this view feel that much in the way of hardship to corporations and restriction of business has already found reflection in the decline which has taken place in stock-market prices. In a sense the financial community has braced itself for some such announcement as the filing of a suit against the Steel Corporation, and such an event, if it comes, will, at least, have been deprived of all element of surprise for the reason that many influential members of the community consider such a suit as most probable in view in what has already transpired and of the professed attitude of the Administration.

Turning to some of the favorable elements of the situation, of which brief mention has already been made, one finds in the past week's record such incidents as the publication of the final report on the condition of the cotton crop, which showed an unusually small decline in condition for the month of September, as a result of which, and of the favorable weather which has since continued, the promise of this year's cotton crop is that it will reach record proportions. Collateral support for this expectation is found in the steady selling of the staple by the South, which has been freely selling cotton in this market at 10 cents a pound and even at less, whereas not so many weeks ago much was being heard in the South of a movement to induce the cotton farmers to hold this year's product of their fields for prices ranging from 13 to 15 cents a pound. The current prospects for the cotton crop hold the promise of a very large contribution by this staple to the country's Fall exports. Already the grain exports for the season, despite the setback which many of the crops experienced, are running far ahead of last year. There are many indications that our foreign trade will continue the favorable course which it has lately followed, and recently our exports of merchandise have been supplemented, in the matter of establishing credits for us abroad, by accommodation extended by our bankers to the foreign markets. Both Berlin and London have borrowed here, and by our ability to meet the demand for money from those centres we have strengthened our position in the world's money market. Between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000, it is estimated, has lately been advanced to Berlin, and a smaller amount to London. Since the opening of this month monetary conditions have improved abroad, but rates are still higher there than here, and it is improbable that all of the money recently borrowed will be returned when the current loans mature, many of them at the opening of next month. The funds are there, however, available should this market need them.

A further reduction in the number of idle cars on the country's railroads was another of the favorable features of the past week's developments. The current report shows that during the second half of September there was a decrease of more than 14,000 in the surplusage of freight cars, reducing it to 50,000, as compared with 24,500 at this time a year ago. A further reduction in the next thirty days will be in keeping with precedent at this season, but there is no present basis for the hope that all of the now idle cars will go into use this Fall. At the same time railroad earnings are keeping up fairly well, for it is only by comparison with unusually large totals of previous years that any falling off is being shown. Thus, for the month of August a summary of the results attained on eighty-three roads, making up over three-quarters of the country's total railroad system, shows, as compared with the same month last year, a falling off of only 0.9 per cent. in gross earnings with a decrease of 1.3 per cent. in net. This must, from every point of view, be regarded as only a very moderate decline, and it attests strongly to the large volume of traffic which is moving despite the hand-to-mouth character of current business. In the steel trade the current production of pig iron at a rate in excess of 24,000,000 tons a year shows, too, that in the mere matter of the volume of the production the steel trade is by no means at a low ebb. It is a matter of general knowledge, however, that such increase as has been brought about during the past two months in iron production has been stimulated by price reductions with the result that profits are not commensurate with the volume of business which is being handled. Bank clearings point to an even more favorable general run of business, for they show increases over the corresponding period of last year. The general situation may best be summarized, it appears, by the statement that while the country is in an excellent position to go forward so far as underlying conditions are concerned it is confronted with a prohibition against business and financial progress arising, in part, from difficulties which the law itself presents and in part from the uneasiness caused by the Administration's programme for the enforcement of the law and by political activity in one way or another, unsettling to business. In a period of uncertainty, when stock market values have been seriously affected, the attention of those with money to invest is almost inevitably directed to securities little, if at all, subject to the considerations which are so powerful in shaping the course of stock values. This is again happening, as is indicated by the increased interest which bankers reported last week that investors were taking in the bond market. As one banker put it the spirit of the moment in the investment world is reflected in the fact that many who are buying prefer to buy the obligations of corporations rather than equities in them.

THE MARKETS OF EUROPE

Business Prospects Good in Spite of Heavy Gold Exports.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—With the turn of the month monetary conditions in Paris and Berlin have improved; hence renewed Continental demand for bills and some weakening in interest rates despite heavy gold exports. However, a drain on London is expected at this time of the year. Exports to Egypt are normal, while those to Turkey are connected with the war. The City is not quite easy in its mind about the financial state of Brazil, which is taking back the gold she unexpectedly sent over in connection with the rubber corner. Thursday's return showed net gold exports of £1,500,000 sterling, together with a large withdrawal of coin and notes for home circulation, yet the reserve is still more than £3,000,000 above the reserve of the corresponding week last year.

Money was easy yesterday, with discounts firm. The stock market's situation now appears to be a strong one, and any favorable turn of events will doubtless lead to a considerable recovery of business and of prices.

SAGGING PRICES IN PARIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—In spite of the slight rally in the middle of last week the tone of the Bourse was generally dull and listless and closing prices were below the average. The long-drawn-out Moroccan negotiations, coupled with the general unsettlement of Wall Street in view of further threatened legal proceedings against the trusts, produced a depressing effect among operators.

The uncertainty of the external political situation and eventualities which may result from the Italian-Turkish struggle were other factors causing the general sagging tendency which has been the chief feature of the market.

Business has been flat and on a limited scale. Rio Tinto and other Americans closed weak. There seems no prospect of any great improvement near at hand.

BERLIN BOERSE CHEERFUL.

Speculation Rife in Expectation of Brief War Over Tripoli.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—The Boerse last week was entirely under the influence of the conflict over Tripoli. In the expectation of the war being only of short duration speculation became rife, money was easy, and the confident attitude of foreign bourses contributed toward this effect.

Comparison of the stock market with that of the preceding week shows a rise all around. Canadian railway shares showed 4 per cent. rise at the end of the week. Baltimore & Ohio also shared in the general improvement.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Lanolin Is Held Dutiable as a "Medicinal Preparation."

The Board of United States General Appraisers has overruled a protest filed by Lehn & Fink and other importers regarding the classification of lanolin, a preparation of wool grease. It was returned for duty as a medicinal preparation at the rate of 25 per cent. ad valorem under the terms of the present tariff act. The importers alleged that the merchandise is refined wool grease, and as such dutiable at only ½ of 1 cent per pound. Judge Chamberlain states in his decision for the board that the record in the cases at bar does not warrant disturbing former decisions of the board and Federal courts covering goods of this description. It is understood that the importers hoped in the cases just decided to submit testimony which would secure a reversal of the previous rulings. They were unsuccessful, the board affirming the higher rate of duty.

Rose plants imported by F. B. Vandegrift & Co., and invoiced as "rosa rugosa," are held dutiable as assessed by the Collector at the rate of 4 cents each as "rose plants, grafted." They were claimed dutiable as "seedlings of briar roses," with a tax of $1 per thousand plants. The board does not agree with the contention for lower classification. The protest is overruled.

The P. H. Petry Company was granted a reduction in the duty assessed by the Collector on empty wooden boxes used for holding thermometers. It appears from the testimony that the Appraiser inadvertently returned the boxes as "cut glass," with a tax of 60 per cent. The board sustains the claim for duty at 35 per cent. as "manufactures of wood."

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of items referred to:

7,446. DENTAL INSTRUMENTS AND SUPPLIES.—An American Consul in the Far East reports that a dental surgeon with offices in the city in which he is located is about to open a dental school and wishes to purchase a considerable quantity of instruments and other dental equipment. The inquirer is particularly interested in American goods of this kind, and therefore asks that catalogues and price lists, with a statement of export discounts and terms, be sent as soon as possible. Manufacturers in the United States who prefer to deal through a local merchant might send their catalogues and literature to either one or two commission agents whose names are given in the report.

7,447. AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES.—A report from an American Consular officer in the United Kingdom states that a business man in his district desires to act as an agent in England for American manufacturers of automobile accessories. This person will arrive in the United States shortly, and communications may be addressed to him in this country.

7,448. STEAM PUMPS FOR MINING AND RESERVOIR PURPOSES.—A business man in Russia informs an American Consular officer that he has been connected for some years with a firm dealing in machinery and now wishes to enter into correspondence with business concerns in the United States that manufacture steam pumps for reservoir and mining purposes. The applicant has expressed a preference to represent some firm that has no agencies in Russia.

7,449. AGENCY FOR AMERICAN BOOKS IN ENGLAND.—An American Consular officer asks for the name and address of an American agency for American books in England. The report states that inquiry and investigation in the city in question have established the fact that no stores exist where American books or publications could be purchased.

7,450. ELECTRIC LIGHT AND TRAMWAY CONCESSION.—An American Consular officer in a Latin-American country has forwarded a copy of a translation of an article published in a local newspaper relative to a concession covering electric lights, power, and tramway in and around a city in his district.

7,451. LUBRICATING OILS AND GREASES.—A report from an American Consulate in Italy states that a firm in his district that largely controls the importation and sale of lubricating oils and greases is willing to extend its business in American oils provided prices and conditions of sale are satisfactory. An American firm offering a satisfactory lubricating oil or grease and able and willing to concede favorable terms of purchase to the importer would have, it is believed, good prospects of securing a large portion of this important trade. At the present time the importer must pay on presentation of bill of lading, while he sells to the consumer on long-term payments, ranging from six to twelve months. It would also seem advisable that the American manufacturer upon offering to the Italian importer goods believed to be satisfactory should send to the latter samples of the products offered, that comparisons may be made with oils and greases already in use in that market.

7,452. SURGICAL, DENTAL, AND VETERINARY INSTRUMENTS.—An American Consular officer in Latin-America, in response to inquiries from the United States, points out the best method of effecting surgical, dental, and veterinary instruments in a country in which he is located. He writes that nearly all the supplies of this character are purchased through a local house which makes a specialty of such goods and has thorough connections for covering the entire country. This firm also has a special establishment for the display and sale of these supplies. It would, therefore, be advantageous to American firms if they could form connections with this house.

OLD DRY GOODS FIRM TO QUIT

Conformable to the wishes of the two senior partners, who are eager to retire, the dry goods commission firm of Faulkner, Page & Co., of 78 Worth Street and 80 Fifth Avenue, will go out of business at the end of the current year, after seventy-eight years of activity.

The business was founded in Boston in 1834, by Charles Faulkner, who had been a salesman for Thomas Tarbell, a dry goods jobber of Boston. Faulkner's family operated several woolen mills, and he united the agency for these mills with the business of Mr. Tarbell, under the name of Thomas Tarbell & Co.

In 1850 the name of the firm was changed to Faulkner, Kimball & Co., Thomas Tarbell retiring, and M. Day Kimball and Robert C. Billings being admitted. The importing end of the business was dropped at the outbreak of the civil war, and the house went more largely into the sale of goods, both woolen and cotton, manufactured by New England mills. On Jan. 1, 1859, Henry A. Page, a nephew of Mr. Kimball, who had been brought up in the retail dry goods business in Haverhill, Mass., was admitted to partnership. Mr. Page came to New York and opened a branch office, the business of which grew rapidly, and within three years its sales had passed those of its Boston parent. On the death of Mr. Kimball in 1871 the name of the firm was changed to Faulkner, Page & Co. In 1870 Joseph S. Kendall, formerly senior partner of Kendall, Cleveland & Opdyke, had been admitted, and in 1878 Alfred W. Bates, formerly of Leland, Allen & Bates, and George M. Preston, a nephew of Mr. Faulkner, became members of the firm.

Edward D. Page, now the senior partner, entered its employ as an office boy in 1875, upon his graduation from Yale. He was admitted to the firm in 1884. Charles Faulkner died later in the same year.

Shortly after the death of Henry A. Page in 1898, and of Robert C. Billings in 1899, the firm was reorganized. George W. Bramhall, formerly of Bramhall Brothers & Co., joined on Jan. 1, 1900, and on Jan. 1, 1903, Nathaniel B. Day, formerly of H. T. Simon & Gregory of St. Louis, but at that time selling agent for the Mississippi Mills, was admitted to partnership. Alfred W. Bates died in 1892; Joseph S. Kendall died in 1903.

Satisfactory arrangements have been made for transferring the mill accounts of the retiring firm to other well established houses.

To Form a Caroline City Club.

Plans are under way for the organization in this city of a Caroline Club similar to the Caroline Country Club, to which most of the social workers of this city belong. John A. Kingsbury of the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor, is Chairman of the committee directing the formation of the new club.

PASTIME TROPHY TO MYLES M'HUGH

Brazilian Cross Runner Wins Two Firsts and Season's Point Honors.

Myles McHugh of the Pastime A. C. was the individual star yesterday at the concluding games of the Brazilian Cross organization, held on the Pastime Oval, at Avenue A and Ninetieth Street. Aside from winning two first prizes during the progress of the events, his victories added so much to his season's point tally that he was finally credited with 25 points, which gave him the trophy which had been up for competition all year.

A bumper crowd turned out to witness the various events confined to members of the club, these being interspersed with contests open to athletes of other organizations, among whom were National and Canadian title holders.

One of the surprises of the afternoon was the defeat of Harry Grumpelt, the high jump champion, in the invitation contest at this game. He and Egon Erickson of the Mott Haven A. C. were on scratch, and the result showed Erickson the winner with the fine leap of six feet, considering the poor take-off ground. Grumpelt failed in all of his trials at this height, and had to be content with 5 feet 10 inches as his best effort.

Each of the men in the event slipped when about to leap, and this practically nullified most of their efforts at getting off the ground. Erickson, who won the championship in 1909 at Seattle, jumped splendidly despite the unfavorable conditions, and after doing six feet cleanly, failed to do 6 feet 1 inch, which he afterward tried. E. Jennings of the Pastime A. C. finished in second place with a jump of 5 feet 10 inches.

The one-mile relay walk proved a gift for the home aggregation. Sam Schwartz and Al. Vollmeke, as the former handed Vollmeke such a lead that Fred Kaiser of the New York A. C., who finished second with T. Nuendorfer as a team mate, was unable to overtake him. The time was 6:28, a new mark at this style on the grounds.

Eddie Frick came within a few inches of being beaten in the special 600-yard race which had as the other starters Jim McEntee of the West Side Y. M. C. A. and O. W. De Grouchy of New York A. C. The latter went away in the lead immediately after the pistol was fired, and made pace for the first 400 yards. In the meantime, and at the 220 mark, Frick jumped past McEntee and lay in second place for the next furlong, where McEntee came from the rear and gained the lead at the beginning of the back stretch.

Around the last turn Frick looked to be beaten, but he dealt out his best sample of sprinting, and managed to sweep past the lanky West Sider twenty-five yards from the tape, lasting long enough to beat him by a yard in 1:15 1-5, with De Grouchy twelve yards back.

McHugh's first victory came in the 600-yard handicap, in which he was the virtual scratch man on four yards. He scored in his heat in clever style, running second to Bobby Goggins. In the final he made a rattling stretch run, and got to the tape by a margin of a yard ahead of M. Mulcahy, to whom he was conceding a yard.

Soon after this good piece of running he duplicated the victory by taking the 1,000-yard race from scratch in 2:27 3-5. He made his way through the big field in convincing fashion, and managed to get into the lead a hundred yards from home. Harry Jansen challenged him in the last fifty yards, but Myles won cleverly.

The feature of the one and seven-eighths-mile relay, which was an open event, was the running of Peter Soutar, the one-time champion of the Pastime Club, who was the first man of the quartet to account for the race in fine shape. Peter ran the one-mile distance, and was as even in his pace as in times gone by. He had not run for four years until yesterday.

The total handicap of the team was allotted to Soutar, and from thirty-five yards he "came back" so well as to do 4:38 3-5, which was a remarkable performance, everything considered. After he had got into the lead, a lad from the Long Island A. C. challenged, and got by at the last lap. His stay in front was brief, however, as Peter started one of his old-time sprints and "ran over" his chief opponent.

Tom Dolan was the anchor man for the Pastimes, and he ran a nice half-mile as his share of the work, finishing forty yards in front of Leslie, of the Long Islands, who in turn beat Rosenbaum of the Morris A. A. the same distance. The summary:

BOSTON TERRIER SHOW.

Two Days' Judging Begins To-day at Grand Central Palace.

The first of the indoor dog shows of the season will be held to-day and to-morrow by the Boston Terrier Club of New York in the new Grand Central Palace. Boston terriers, those trappy, stylish, dark brindle, white marked favorites, are the attraction, and they are always a show in themselves.

Although the show will be National in character, the greatest entries outside of New York will come from Boston and Philadelphia. Last October, at Madison Square Garden, Boston won with the celebrated champion, The Demon, but this year New York seems to be the favorite, with Philadelphia second, and several most promising dogs coming from Chicago and Cincinnati.

George Parker, the manager of the electrical show, will have his champion Sister Carrie exhibited in excellent condition, and it is mainly on her that the New York contingent pin their hopes, although there seems to be a strong possibility that Mrs. George H. Pell of Bronxville has a surprise in store with a recent purchase. She will also show her young wonder, Queen of Hearts, which has been fast rounding into winning condition and is said by those who have seen her lately to be able to win from the very best.

Mrs. John W. Minturn, Jr., of Great Neck has entered her champion, Wampague Delight, and all her well-known Rockcliffe winners, together with several new ones of her own breeding. The most valuable special is the cup offered by the President of the club, Arthur Williams.

The judge for this show is Thomas Benson of Boston, who is one of the oldest and foremost breeders from the original home of Boston terriers. The show opens at 10 A. M. and closes at 10:30 P. M.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—From a speculative standpoint the wheat market the past week has been a limited affair with trading of minimum volume. This inactivity has been due to uncertainty regarding the political conditions on the other side and also to some fear of manipulation West and also to a lack of news of a distinctive character sufficient to materially influence values. The defeat of the reciprocity question in Canada has left the American market in a position where bulls contend that it is entirely an American domestic proposition and prices will be governed by the domestic flour demand entirely unless there are developments in Europe sufficient to change entirely the attitude of the European markets.

This idea that the markets are a domestic proposition is based on the Government estimate of only 658,000,000 bushels of wheat for the entire crop this year and the belief that these figures will give only about 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels of wheat for export unless the reserve carried over from last year is drawn upon. This reserve was about 95,000,000 bushels in farmers' hands at visible supply points and in country elevators, also in storage in the shape of flour. Three years ago the reserve was only about 42,000,000 bushels, so that under influence of high enough price it would be possible to draw upon the reserves to the extent of possibly 50,000,000 bushels. Such low figures for the reserve were brought about by prices 15 to 25 cents a bushel higher than those now prevailing.

The exports of American wheat so far this season have consumed nearly all of the estimated export surplus on the basis of the last Government figures for the crop on the average amount for home consumption of the last two years. The exports the past year of American wheat were 70,000,000 bushels, and so far this season they have been a little under 25,000,000 bushels.

On the other hand, the accumulation of large stocks of wheat at visible supply points, particularly Chicago, has been a depressing speculative proposition, as the big carrying charges resulting have been just so much handicap for the bulls to take care of. The enormous receipts of Spring wheat have also been a very bearish factor, as the movement has been in face of an estimated shortage in the crop and in face of claims of material injury from bad weather and in face of the natural delay which the rains would bring about. This heavy merchandising of Spring wheat and the heavy increase in Minneapolis stocks have deterred Eastern flour buyers from taking freely. The general trade, however, in the Northwest in flour has been good for the past month, with the sales considerably more than the output.

In the Southwest the markets have been strong, and hard wheats have advanced further owing to the shortage in Spring wheats, and as result Southwestern markets are higher relatively than ever known, compared with Winter wheat markets, and the price of Kansas flour is very little under the price of Spring wheat flour. The bad weather, which has been a factor in the Spring wheat movement, and has been considered a serious factor in Manitoba, has delayed seeding of Winter wheat to a point where there is some apprehension expressed of a full acreage being sown.

The reports regarding the Manitoba crops are unchanged as to quantity, but it is stated that the quality has been materially affected by the persistent bad weather which has prevailed throughout the entire Spring wheat regions, and the movement as a result will not be as early as hoped for. The foreign situation has not appreciably changed. There have been sensational cables from Russia claiming that conditions of the crops is similar to 1897, when the exports from that country were prohibited owing to the general damage to the crops. The news from the Argentine has been almost uniformly favorable. There were some reports of slight damage from frost, but other advices claim that the prospects are considerably better than the average. An average yield even would give a record crop equal to that of a few years ago, when the export surplus was 139,000,000 bushels. The exports of Argentine wheat so far this season have been 81,000,000 bushels. If the yield should be the same as that of 1907 the total crop would be about 240,000,000 bushels.

CORN.

The news on the corn market has been distinctly unfavorable, owing to the bad weather and continuous and heavy rains throughout the corn belt. Claims of damage have been numerous and insistent, so that if the claims were to receive full credit it would seem as though there would be very little good quality corn this year. Notwithstanding such conditions, the market, after slowly working up about 1 cent a bushel, has slowly worked off. The reports on the possible results of the crop are about in line with the recent Government crop reports. One Western report of condition made a gain of 1 per cent. in the crop for the month, while another report made a loss of 1½ for the month. A well-known crop expert traveling for a New York house after a careful survey makes the crop of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, and Kansas 1,100,000,000 bushels, or about 308,000,000 bushels less than the Government figures of last year. The Government report for the first of October, showing condition at the time of harvest, will be issued this afternoon at the close of business. The condition last month was 70.8 and the ten-year harvest condition has been 78.4. The ten-year average yield per acre as shown by the preliminary figures has been 25.8. The estimated yield last month was 23.6. The yield last month was figured, however, on a five-year average.

There has been moderate foreign demand, and those in close touch with the market claim that the foreign demand has been sufficiently large to absorb a considerable portion of the probable early movement of the new crop. Spot old corn is strong, and with the bad weather which has prevailed the new corn will not dry out sufficiently for moving as early as usual. The foreign markets have been firm. There have been unfavorable rust reports from Russia on the corn crop, but in Roumania the crop is slightly more than last year. The Hungarian crop is about one-third short of last year. So far this year Russia and the Danube have shipped about 95,000,000 bushels from last year's crop. With the damage to the Hungarian and Russian crops this year and the absence of exports from Argentine the American supply is about all there is left for Europe to draw upon.

OATS.

Trade in oats has been quiet, but prices have been firm. There has been fairly steady demand for cash oats and quite good distribution. On the other hand there has been a gain in the interior movement, which is construed as indicating that the country is satisfied with the price, notwithstanding the known shortage of the crop. The price of oats is now about 50 per cent. higher than last year, taking the Chicago quotations as a basis, which has very naturally had a material effect on the movement.

PROVISIONS.

The trade in hog products was very quiet the early part of the week, followed by a change in character the latter part of the week, and considerable improvement in values. The monthly statement of stocks was bullishly construed. It showed an important decrease in stocks at Western packing points in meats and lard and an important decrease in the world's stock of lard, notwithstanding the fact that the packing has been materially in excess of last year. The deduction made from the statement was that the prevailing prices were resulting in a domestic and foreign distribution sufficiently increased not only to take care of the increased packing, but also to result in a decrease in accumulated stocks. There have been complaints of the quality of the hogs coming to market, and the weights have not been very satisfactory, which is believed to be the result of the high price of feedstuffs. Hogs have recently been selling about $2 per hundred pounds under last year, while corn has been selling at about 15 cents a bushel over last year. The result of this has been to restrict feeding operations materially compared with a year ago.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Developments during the past week were not important with the market, fluctuating within circumscribed limits. Speculation was rather limited and prices received their incentive from the crude situation. At times weakness was in evidence at the South, but as prices receded refining interests purchased liberally. There were also claims of an improved foreign and home consuming demand at the low levels, but no apparent firmness in the situation was noticeable, although in absence of important stocks on hand the spot situation continues relatively strong. Large interests are bearish in the main, with many predictions of 5c oil, but on the other hand, it was pointed out that such an attitude would be quite natural at this period of the season when supplies are being accumulated. Those bullish on the situation despite their belief in a large production evidently propose waiting until a greater quantity of oil has passed into consuming channels, judging by their aggressiveness.

The Government reports of the past week were extremely bearish both in regard to the ginning figures of 3,663,000 bales, against 2,312,000 last year, and the condition report of 71.1, against 65.9 in 1910. These showings had been generally anticipated, however, and consequently without much effect, although strengthening the idea that the crop would approximate 14,000,000 bales. It is rather difficult to arrive at the probable production of oil at this stage, but nominally there are 7,000,000 tons of seed received from 14,000,000 bales of cotton. Allowing for the low price of seed this year compared with last, the crush would probably amount to 65 per cent., according to current opinions. With 8 per cent. for refining losses, about 36.8 gallons of oil are received from a ton of seed, suggesting a crush of 167,440,000 gallons, or 3,348,000 barrels of fifty gallons per barrel. Unofficial figures are that the largest exports of any one season were approximately 1,000,000 barrels, with the record home consumptive demand about 2,100,000 barrels, so that it would seem as though a record consumption this season would find supplies available.

COTTON.

Lower levels than prevailed for over two years were brought about during the last week with the resiliency shown by the market remarkably feeble. Declines of about ½c. per pound were witnessed, and these served to force prices materially below the levels of 10c. Sentiment continues decidedly bearish, and it is evident would be more pronounced were it not for the duration and the extent of the decline, together with the unanimity of opinions that prices are still destined for lower levels.

The Government reports issued during the early part of the week were undoubtedly bearish, but did not differ greatly from expectations, so that their effect was only limited. Ideas of a 14,000,000-bale crop, however, were strengthened by the statistics, and simultaneously offerings from Southern quarters tended to increase, greatly encouraging the operations of the bear party. Interests who have been working for a decline since the latter part of last year covered shorts enormously at times, but the ease with which these contracts were filled seemingly increased their confidence.

The ginning figures of 3,663,000 bales represented a total unprecedented, and compared with 2,312,000 bales last year and 2,568,000 bales two years ago. These figures reflect the phenomenal weather of the last six weeks, with conditions having been consistently favorable for the picking and maturing of the plant. Naturally there is less apprehension as to possible frost owing to the advanced stage of the crop, but at the same time it is evident that there is a considerable amount of cotton open in the fields, and that a sudden change to adverse climatic condition would bring about considerable damage. The condition of the plant was placed at 71.1 as of the 1st of October, against 73.2 a month ago, showing unusually small deterioration for that period. A year ago the condition was 65.9, two years ago 58.5, and in 1908 69.7, while the ten-year average is 66.5. The popular belief is that since the last Government observations the plant has further improved in condition, and with the knowledge of 35,000,000 acres planted, against 32,403,000 picked last year, in conjunction with the good cultivation of the crop, the estimates for a record year are not surprising. The area abandoned last season was 1,000,000 acres, but the impression this season is that there has been decidedly less than this abandoned this year. On the other hand, the prospects of the top crop are believed to have been much impaired, but undoubtedly the development of the frost date will be a determining factor as to this feature. Conclusive crop estimates are not abundant at this time, although Habersham King estimated the yield at 13,750,000 bales. This is rather below the general impression. In the King estimate allowance is made for a yield of 3,600,000 bales in Texas, whereas other private advices were for 3,750,000 bales for that State, and some authorities crediting West Texas with three times as much cotton as last year.

Undoubtedly the attitude of spinners both foreign and home will greatly influence the future course of prices. The volume of takings by trade interests during the past in the aggregate has been very fair, so that the opinion was widely prevalent that the lower cost of the raw material was already having the effect of augmenting the distribution. However, indications do not point to a decided change in the attitude of consumers, at least until prospects of the crop change radically. There have been claims made that prior to the first of December 7,000,000 bales of cotton will have been brought into sight, and obviously with a prospective 7,000,000 bales more there is little to encourage stocking up at this time. The American trade situation as a whole, while showing no important change for the worse, reflects the natural unsettlement caused by readjustment of the raw material prices, but the strong underlying conditions of light stocks is a potent factor in favor of improved conditions when confidence returns. From Liverpool the trade advices have been unusually and uniformally good, and while there have been vague reports of pending labor troubles, these difficulties appear to be localized to a great extent. With the clearing of the political situation the general opinion is that a further improvement will be witnessed. The freedom with which the South sells in the future will also bear watching.

So far this season, according to The Chronicle statistics, there have been 2,656,000 bales brought into sight, against 1,636,000 bales last year. The visible supply of cotton is 2,540,000 bales, against 2,147,000 bales at this time last year. Spinners' takings since the season aggregate to 920,000 bales, against 852,000 a year ago of American cotton. Exports since Sept. 1 total to 1,177,000 bales, against 913,000 bales last year.

A SUMMER DAY IN LONDON

Overlooking the River and Embankment Gardens

THE FASHIONABLE EUROPEAN RESORT of AMERICAN SOCIETY

Manager: GUSTAVE SEGGELKE

SAVOY HOTEL

LONDON

IT IS NO TEST OF THE POPULARITY OF A LONDON HOTEL TO FIND THAT DURING THE SEASON IT IS VERY FULL. AT THE HEIGHT OF THE LONDON SEASON EVERY HOTEL IS FULL. BUT WHEN YOU FIND THAT IN THE DEAD SEASON, WHEN LONDON IS SUPPOSED TO BE EMPTY, AN HOTEL IS FULL AND CROWDED WITH GUESTS IT MUST MEAN THAT ITS COMFORTS ARE UNDENIABLE. AND SO IT COMES TO PASS THAT AT ALL TIMES THE

Savoy Hotel, London,

IS VERY BRIGHT AND GAY WITH WELL-KNOWN TRAVELLERS FROM THE CONTINENT AND THE UNITED STATES, AND THAT IT IS THE COMMON MEETING GROUND FOR DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS WHO ARE RETURNING HOME. THE COMFORTS AND LUXURY OF THE SAVOY HOTEL, ITS CUISINE AND SERVICE, COMBINED WITH THE MOST MODERATE CHARGES, PLACE IT ABSOLUTELY IN THE FRONT RANK OF ALL HOTELS IN EUROPE. THE BEAUTIFUL SUITES —WITH BATHROOMS ATTACHED — OVERLOOKING THE RIVER THAMES AND EMBANKMENT GARDENS, AWAY FROM THE NOISE AND BUSTLE OF STREET TRAFFIC, ALTHOUGH IN THE CENTRE OF LONDON, ARE GREATLY APPRECIATED BY ALL EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN TRAVELLERS. THE SAVOY RESTAURANT STILL REMAINS THE MOST RENOWNED IN THE WORLD—ITS CUISINE IS UNRIVALLED. THERE ARE FEW VISITORS TO LONDON WHO DO NOT CONSIDER A VISIT TO THE SAVOY RESTAURANT AND ITS LUXURIOUS AND DELIGHTFUL SURROUNDINGS AN INDISPENSABLE FEATURE IN THEIR ARRANGEMENTS. THE APPRECIATION OF THE PUBLIC IS SEEN IN THE INCREASED NUMBER OF PEOPLE WHO YEAR BY YEAR COME TO THE SAVOY, OWING TO THE STRONG RECOMMENDATIONS OF THEIR FRIENDS WHO HAVE STAYED THERE.

BALLOT FRAUD TRIAL IN JERSEY THIS WEEK

Justice Kalish to Hear Charges Against Postmaster Bacharach of Atlantic City.

SAY HE CORRUPTED VOTERS

Defendant, Who Is Running for Mayor, Declares the Bill Is a Plot to Harm His Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 8.—The sensation of the week in New Jersey political circles will be the trial, at May's Landing Court House next Wednesday, of Postmaster Bacharach of this city on a charge of having participated in the election frauds that have disgraced this and all the Republican counties in South Jersey for more than a quarter of a century. The indictment of Bacharach charges him with having aided, in the local election of last Fall, in the corruption of 306 votes. The Grand Jury ordered the bill drawn four or five weeks ago, but it was not presented to the court until last week.

Between the time it was ordered and presented the Keuhnle machine in Atlantic City, with full knowledge that it was coming, named Bacharach as the Republican candidate for Mayor of Atlantic City. Bacharach asserted that the indictment was a political plot to hurt his canvass, and asked for a speedy trial. To give him an opportunity to acquit himself before election, the court set the trial for next Wednesday. Meanwhile the Grand Jurors found another indictment, charging him with having conspired with Sheriff E. L. Johnson, Keuhnle, and others to destroy evidence against Frank Bauman, whom the Sheriff is accused of having named as a Grand Juror after Bauman had been charged with repeating.

The allegation in the conspiracy case is that Bauman's name appears twice on the pollbooks of last year; that the Sheriff, with others, took the books from County Clerk Kirby, and that when they were returned one of the Bauman names had been erased.

While the Macksey Investigating Committee was here last Spring it transpired that some of the election books had been burned; and, to prevent manipulation of the pollbooks showing the Bauman erasure, Attorney General Wilson has ordered them removed to his office in Trenton, where they are in a safety vault.

Notwithstanding this second indictment, Bacharach will be put on trial next Wednesday on the first one. Ordinarily a trial of this character would be conducted by the County Prosecutor, acting for the State, before County Judge Higbie, but both Higbie and the Prosecutor owe their places to Keuhnle, and the State has concluded that they should not be allowed to take part in the hearing. The Attorney General's office will conduct the trial for the State, and Supreme Court Justice Samuel Kalisch will sit.

County Judge Higbie's brother, the County Auditor, is under indictment, and the Grand Jury a few days ago named the Judge himself in a presentment that, it is said, may be made the basis of impeachment proceedings. A charge of election fraud had been made against the Clerk of Somers Point, and the presentment sets out that the fear that an indictment might result led Judge Higbie to direct that the Somers Point Clerk be arraigned before him; that the Clerk elected to be tried by the court without a jury, and that Judge Higbie acquitted him. It was after this incident is alleged to have occurred that Justice Kalisch concluded he had better hear the fraud and graft indictments found against the Atlantic City and County officials himself.

Notwithstanding that Sheriff Johnson was disqualified from drawing the Grand Jury, because of the Bauman affair, the jury that will hear the Bacharach case has been "struck" from the panel which the Sheriff drew at the opening of the current term of court. The Sheriff has just drawn also the Grand Jury that is to sit at the next term of court. What action Justice Kalisch will take as to that proceeding remains to be seen.

Drives Auto Into Tree to Save Children

A sharp turn made by Edward Gaux of 304 Ocean Parkway, Flatbush, in an endeavor to prevent his automobile from striking children at play in Ridgewood Avenue, near Essex Street, East New York, yesterday, put his car in the path of the speeding motor of A. G. Ibbeken of 27 and 29 West 124th Street. Mr. Gaux thereupon swung his car on to the curb. It struck a tree and Mrs. Gaux was thrown to the roadway and bruised.
